Kissinger Arrives In Saigon

Hint Peace Move

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Saigon tonight and Le Duc Tho, his North Vietnamese adversary in secret peace talks, flew to Hanoi amid widespread speculation about a new move to end the war.

There was no official confirmation of the new peace move, and Tho contended there was no basis for it. But some diplomates in Washington and Paris surmised that Kissinger, who met with Tho in Paris Monday, would try to persuade President Nguyen Van Thieu to agree to a compromise formula approaching the enemy's demand that Thieu step down.

Others suggested that Kissinger and Tho would report a deadlock in their secret Paris sessions, with Kissinger reassuring the uneasy Thieu that President Nixon will not let him down.

There also had been speculation in Saigon that Kissinger might fly on to Hanoi after ending his visit here Friday. But informed sources said Kissinger would fly from here to Tokyo Friday en route back to Wwshington.

He will stop in Tokyo to make final plans for the forthcoming summit conference between Nixon and Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka scheduled for Honolulu at the end of this month, sources said. Plans call for him to leave Tokyo on Saturday.

Tho, leaving Paris today, told newsmen he wanted to emphasize that his trip was "a routine one and has no other meaning, . . . is in the framework of my usual comings and goings." Tho, a member of North Vietnam's Politburo, said the speculation about his trip "in general . . . does no correspond to reality" and "could lead to inexact conclusions."

Kissinger, who met Tho in Paris Monday, will confer with Thieu and others in Saigon until late Friday. He will report back to Nixon before the Republican National Convention opens in Miami Beach next Monday.

Ziegler said Kissinger's two days in Saigon will include "a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including the negotiations in Paris."

He cautioned against speculating about a breakthrough in the Paris talks. He said the trip had been under consideration for several weeks.

Meanwhile, sources in Saigon disclosed today that Nixon has ordered another round of U.S. troop withdrawals beginning after Sept. 1, when the level is expected to be down to 39,000 men. This does not include another 100,000 Americans fighting the war from air bases in Guam and Thailand and from ships off the Vietnamese coast.

There seems little doubt that Nixon would like to have a Vietnam peace deal before the November election, but the White House is keeping the specific aim of Kissinger's journey a tight secret.

Public statements by Thieu since the new round of Kissinger - Tho sessions began a month ago have been interpreted here as showing concern by the Saigon leader that Nixon may ease the terms he set forth May 8.

Nixon said then that the bombing of North Vietnam will continue unil Hanoi agrees to an Indochina cease-fire and release of U.S. prisoners, whereupon U.S. forces would pull out of South Vietnam within four months.

Hanoi has denounced Nixon's offer publicly and demanded a political settlement that would oust Thieu.

Hess Pleads Insanity

BENTON -- Frank Louis Hess of Rockview, accused of the May 12 murder of his wife, pleaded not guilty to first degree charges by reason of insanity in a preliminary hearing today before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Hess has just been returned to the Scott County jail from Farmington State Hospital, where he underwent mental examinations.

Mrs. Marie Hess was found dead of .22 calibre bullet wounds in the bedroom of their home.

Hess' case was ordered bound over to Circuit Court with trial date set for Sept. 14.

Recount Fails To Change Races

BENTON — The outcome of Scott County primary election races remains unchanged despite a recount of five precincts Tuesday.

The discrepancies were in Sikeston ward 4, precinct 1; Chaffee, precinct 2; Oran, precinct 1; and Kelso and Perkins precincts.

The recount was ordered after the Scott County board of canvassers was unable to certify the election because of counting errors.

Ragland called the recount "very unusual" and said he doubted he had the power to order it, but when no one opposed the recount, he granted permission.

In Sikeston ward 4, precinct 1, vote totals shifted only slightly in the close County assessor race, with winner Bill Ferrell gaining four votes, Alfred Halter two and Stewart Stuckey one.

In Chaffee precinct 2, Robison received 108 votes instead of 103.

Discrepancies in Kelso, Oran precinct 1 and Perkins were one vote off. The number of ballots had been incorrectly counted on election night.

EVALUATION OF
U. S. COMPLETED

The United Nations is continuing its string of failures. Only once, twenty years ago in Korea, did it act effectively. And that was because of a Soviet boycott. Since then, things have gone down hill.

Last December, the U.N. failed to halt the bloody India-Pakistan war, as it had failed to stop the three previous ones. Its efforts in the Middle East have also been unsuccessful. The U. N. has not even taken action to outlaw nations that harbor hijackers.

Added to these woes is the likelihood that the U.S. will no longer underwrite the organization. General ineffectivenss, excessive costs and spy scandals have disillusioned the American public.

With criticisms mounting, the U. N. conducted an evaluation of its high-level officials, agencies and institutions. It was hoped that self-evaluation would show that the U.N. was doing a good job.

But the researchers found that the U.N. is a "confused bureaucratic organization with enormous waste." Investigator A. R. Arasteh, who supported the U.N. for two decades, reports that "the U.N now needs experts to cure its own maladies rather than sending experts abroad to train and advise others."

Agencies such as the Industrial Development Organization, the Institute for Training and Research and the U.N. Development Program were all failures to "harmonize international needs and national interests."

With the evidence of U.N. failures gathered, Arasteh draws his conclusion: "It is decidedly realistic for the U. S. to reduce its share of funds to the U.N."

We were right tickled at the lead editorial in the Globe Democrat for Thursday. It says that the Democrats in Missouri are going to turn the state over to the Republicans, which is, of course, customary attitude of the editorial writer of the Globe, cause they are a staunchly Republican paper and of course they think that the only Democrat that is going to win is Jim Kirkpatrick as Secretary of State. Well, I think they are badly fooled. While we didn't vote for Ed Dowd in the Primary, we are going to vote for him in November, and just as though we had voted for him in August. We have no apologies for the one or two votes we lost, we won "Doc" Decker and that is enough, anybody ought to be satisfied with that.

A dealer of expensive imported automobiles has demonstrated what could be done on the local level to supplement national advertising.

The Chicago dealer invested approximately $2,000 to buy a full page advertisement in a local paper. At the end of the week an official of the automobile company reported that the single advertisement has sold $100,000 worth of his cars. He added that "more than likely another $350,000 in sales" would result from the advertisement.

Of course this is a spectacular example of what can be done with local newspaper advertising. However, it should be a reminder to local dealers in any size city that even the best national advertising does not create maximum sales.

The manufacturers had been publishing some excellent advertising in national media. It helped to develop interest in the automobile and, no doubt, resulted in a trickling of local sales. But, as the Chicago dealer proved, a local, more select, more urgent medium was needed to transform interest into action.

A potential customer will "think about" a product almost indefinitely before he makes a purchase. Certain conditions have to be established before his thinking materializes into action.

The local newspaper is ideally suited to this task of directing an interested prospect to the point of purchase.

In a little more than a year from now, the minimum wage will likely rise from $1.60 to $2 per hour, proving that this is the age of populism, confused consumerism and inflation. The consumer wants either lower prices or a higher wage, but inflation won't allow the former, so the populists in Congress step in to raise the latter. That's the way it occurred May 11 when the House of Representatives raised the minimum wage for most workers from $1.60 to $1.80 within 60 days after enactment and to $2 a year after that. The bill now goes to the senate where populists abound. They seek a $2.25 minimum, and anyone who doesn't see a $2 an hour House- Senate agreement has never bought a used car or haggled over the price of anything. One new wrinkle in the House bill allows employers to pay $1.60 to teenagers and students. The provision was made in consideration of the high unemployment rate among teenage Negroes who would be priced out of the job market at the $1.80 level. Congress evidently doesn't believe in wage-inflation control: the increase to $2 an hour represents a 25% jump while the Pay Board's guideline for maximum pay increase is 5.5%.

The minimum wage increase to $2 per hour, coupled with a new Executive Order, would fan inflation in medical care. The Executive Order of April 18 requires hospitals and related institutions to provide free services for "those unable to pay." Observers pointed out that the directive and the increased minimum wage would severely inflate costs in service related industries, including medical care. The added costs of free services will have to be paid by the paying customers who will likely begin to understand that government - caused inflation is not a figment of the imagination. What happens next logically follows: crypto socialists, led by Senator Kennedy, will point to the ever increasing cost of medical care and increase the pressure for socialized medicine.

Big things are happening in sex education in the schools, the kind promoted by the extremist left-wing group known as the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, SIECUS. By manipulating liberal educators, SIECUS is still getting its programs in the schools, violating the time-tested rule against tampering with the sexlatency period of school children. For supplying questionable teacher guides and film strips, the latter showing copulation of animals, SIECUS and the state and local school boards are being taken to court in Westfield, N.J., on constitutional grounds. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Preston have already won one court battle contending that sex instruction is not a proper function of the state and that such teaching violates the rights of parents and children. The expensive court test is being paid for by Concerned Parents of Union County, 73 Summit Court, Westfield, N.J. 07090, each of whom had pledged $20 a month for three years to finance the court test. Westfield is the latest and possibly the last battleground against SIECUS. Sex education, per se, need never have been this controversial; however, in the hands of SIECUS, a haven of one-world socialists whose philosophies favorably entertain anti-God humanism and behavior control by the few, SIECUS sex education deserves all the opposition it receives.

THE ROLE OF THE
NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Not yet do most of us realize there is a New Democratic Party.

It is not the old Democratic party of the Civil War — a party dedicated to keeping the Yankee North from sending in carpetbaggers to rule us. That party died almost 100 years ago but some of us are still Civil War Democrats.

Nor is today's Democratic party the party of Franklin Delano Roosevelt — an amalgamation of labor, blacks, liberals and the Southern Democrats. That party weakened as labor became middle- class and more conservative; that party weakened as Southern Democrats became increasingly not at home with the liberalism of the new black leadership and northern liberals plus anti-war young people.

Today's New Democratic party is the party that refused to listen any longer to George Meany, the most powerful labor leader in the country; it is the party that refused to hop through a hoop for Mayor Daley, the most powerful city boss in the country; it is the party that refused to pay any attention to most of the southern Democratic Senators and House members who chair the important committees of the Senate and House.

Today's New Democratic party is really different.

About the only resemblance it has to the old Democratic party of the South, or the New Deal Democratic party of FDR, is the title "Democratic."

And about the only reason it still holds some of the loyalty of members of the Civil War Democratic party and the New Deal Democratic party is because they still hesitate to vote Republican. Although the number of hold-outs is decreasing. After all, as one told this editor, "there is no longer the Democratic party I loved."

There is something else to be said about the New Democratic party.

Under its new leadership — Sen. McGovern and his team - the party has yet to take shape.

What it really stands for has yet to be clearly identified.

The coming weeks before November will be a time of clarification, of defining the goals of the new party. Certainly, the party platform adopted in Miami was a first step in setting up its goals. But only a first step. The next steps will be even more important.

But of one thing we are sure:

The New Democratic Party does not stand for what the old Civil War Democratic party stood for; nor does it stand for what the FDR Democratic party stood for. Both are as dead as the the influence of George Meany and Mayor Daley and the Southern Governors were on the Democratic Donvention in Miami.

Some observers believe that at Miami sectionalism died in American politics; some observers believe that the New Democratic party is really more like the Social Democratic parties of Europe; some observers believe the stage is now set for the organization of new parties — perhaps a conservative Democratic party or a Labor Democratic party while the New Democratic party follows its new interests to the left of labor and the left of southern democrats...

As for this editor, he isn't sure at all what the future holds for those Americans who have always been Democrats. He knows that some — perhaps even many — Cannot accept the liberalism of George McGovern. And, also, cannot accept the leadership of President Nixon. Nor the leadership of George Wallace.

So, apparently, the stage is set for change or, to be more accurate, the time has come to recognize that the change has happened.

There is a New Democratic party. And it's not the old Democratic party of the South nor the FDR- HST- JFK - LBJ Democratic party of old....

All honor to woman: the sweetheart, the wife,
The delight of our firesides by night and by day,
Who never does anything wrong in her life,
Except when permitted to have her own way.

All the girls tote little cases
Designed for making up their faces.
I wish they had some other kinds
Designed for making up their minds.

When driving at night
Allow plenty of room,
And be sure thay you lower
The beam, not the boom.

Golfing starlet Myrtle Munn
Had two husbands just for fun
Till she thought: "What have I done?"
"Bigamy." And with a gun
Myrtle made a hole in one.

I should write a letter;
But if I decide to,
It will bring a reply
That must be replied to.

STEEL BREAKS PLATE
PRODUCTION RECORD

The United States Steel Corporation's mill at Gary, Ind., set a world's record for the production of total tons of steel cast on a single strand caster.

The facility cast two consecutive single slabs of high quality steel, each measuring the equivalent of more than a mile and one- half in length with a combined weight of 8,330 tons.

The Gary caster is the first large slab casting unit to achieve speeds up to 76 inches per minute, almost twice the rate of most other installations.

WELL DESERVED

Once again, police- state-type dictation over private citizens by the federal government has been proposed in Congress -- in the form of oppressive federal registration and licensing of all guns. For most gun owners, passage of the law would mean disposal of their guns within 180 days -- unless they wished to submit to stringent registration and licensing procedures. One provision of the latest antigun proposal magnanimously offers the payment of "reasonable value" for firearms voluntarily relinquished to the Treasury Department.

A great many members of the national legislative body now realize that a federal law aimed at depriving all citizens of the basic right of gun ownership is as unworkable as that ancient atrocity, prohibition. Senator Theodore F. Stevens, for instance, of Alaska has urged a reexamination of the federal government's authority to regulate firearms. He has also introduced a bill calling for mandatory prison terms for persons who use firearms during the commission of a federal crime. He declares, "My bill ... would punish those who misues firearms while preserving the constitutional right of law- abiding citizens to purchase and own guns and ammunition ... More restrictive legisltaion would do nothing more than create a more lucrative black market in the sale of guns and ammunition ..." and "leave peaceful citizens at the mercy of gun-brandishing hoodlums ..."

Law- abiding gun owners have been the moving force behind the century- old work of the National Rifle Association to promote firearms safety, sportsmanship, conservation and marksmanship training. In short, gun owners have demonstrated an outstanding record of responsible citizenship that should put them beyond the reach of antigun fanatics in the exercise of a right that goes back to the founding of the nation.

AGE OF LEISURE

Time magazine, a short while ago, featured a lengthy review of the growing inefficiency in American society. No product or service is immune. Nor can any consumer protection laws correct the principal evil which, judging by the Time article, is mainly the growing disinterest and inertia of people in their chosen occupations. For example, how would even a Ralph Nader answer this one. Absenteeism has hurt production quality so badly at one major auto company that a company official complains that some output "is worse than no output at all." The president of another auto company says, "one of the biggest problems is Monday absenteeism -- the fellow who works two weeks and decides to take a long weekend." Says Time, "Detroit's worst lemons are usually found among cars built on Monday because they are often put together by inexperienced substitute workers and veterans nursing hangovers."

If a majority of people ar e not willing to work and take pride in a job well done, the majority will just have to live with the consequences despite the best efforts of government boards and helpful bureaucrats. The age of leisure may leave a lot to be desired.

ECONOMIC 'MIRACLE'
THREATENED

Hard work and the profit-motive system created what was called an economic 'miracle' in the non-communist half of Germany during the 1950s. It really was no miracle at all because capitalism always creates an economic 'miracle' when given half a chance.

Now that 'miracle' faces the threat of going down the drain. The Socialist Willy Brandt, who is now head of the West German government through a leftist coalition, has lost his margin of control of the Parliament. To try to regain it, national elections have been called for Dec. 3.

At stake is the profit-motive system and market economy which created modern, anti-communist West Germany out of the ruins of a defeated, occupied, bombed-out wasteland. It would be imagined that the anti-communist West Germans would simply compare the difference between the great, progressive years of the 1950s and early 1960s under the profit-motive system with the results of socialism-communism in East Germany, not to mention the inept "socialist democracy" which preceded Hitler's national socialist dictatorship.

The post-Hitler Germans were smart enough to reject the social-welfare state which Walter Heller and his U. S. leftists advisers were trying to urge on West Germany. By doing exactly opposite the Heller advice, West Germans created their 'miracle.'

Socialists are such clever propagandists, however, that they have managed to get their man Brandt into power for more than two years now, during which he has managed to increase inflation dangers immensely and give the Soviets new high status in Central Europe. Freedomists in the U.S. may watch with interest and concern the progress of this assault on the profit-motive system in West Germany in hopes of alerting our own voters to similar dangers to our own profit-motive system and its 'miracles.' Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- The armed forces follow a double standard of justice in dealing with shoplifters. The punishment, apparently, depends upon their rank.

We have obtained dozens of arrest records which accuse high-ranking officers of filching petty items from military PXs. We selected 23 of these cases for spot investigations.

We found only one retired lieutenant colonel who had been hauled into court. Five others were chewed out by their superiors. The remaining 17 were "exonerated," or the charges were quietly dropped.

In contrast, enlisted men caught shoplifting usually faced formal charges. Related one inspector: "When officers are picked up for shoplifting, they are simply released. When enlisted men are stopped, they are turned over to the MPs, sent to general court and ...convicted for petty larceny."

The inspector who complained about this discrimination, incidentally, was harrassed. Another security officer, who urged that high-ranking thievery be investigated instead of covered up, was fired.

Typical was the case of Col. Robert P. Gould, who was accused of pocketing a $4.75 eight-track tape cassette of "The Partridge Family Sound Magazine" last Christmas eve from the PX at Andrews Air Force Base.

The arrest records indicate that a benevolent security inspector tried to signal Gould "in the hopes he would...pay for the tape." But the colonel missed his cue.

SLEIGHT OF HAND

Once outside, the inspector was obliged to stop Gould, who denied that he had snitched the $4.75 item. He explained that he had left the tape inside the PX and offered to reenter the store to prove it.

Inside, according to the arrest record, Gould "bent over to show me where it was, and I observed him taking the tape from underneath his coat and placing it on the shelf and saying, 'Here it is, right here.' "

The accused colonel, who heads an air-to-air missile program for the Air Force, denied he had lifted the tape. Subsequently, his superiors "totally exonerated" him of all charges.

Other brass hats, accused of light-fingered thefts, received similar soft treatment. Their reactions to our inquiries, in a few cases, are worth recording:

A retired Army general, caught swindling the Fort Myer, Va., PX of a 29-cent roll of splicing tape on July 7, first denied stealing the merchandise, then said he couldn't recollect "for sure" whether he had pocketed it. The Army, of course, gave him the benefit of the doubt.

A discomfited Air Force major was so embarrassed when he purchased a package of prophylactics from a female cashier, he explained to us, that he "completely forgot" to pay for two boxes of cigars.

The wife of a retired rear admiral, asked by my reporter Mark McIntyre about pinching a 95-cent bottle of Visine Eye Drops, threatened: "If you want to blow this up, you're going to get into a lot of trouble."

And when we tried to inquire about an Air Force colonel, who walked out of the Bolling Air Force Base PX without paying for three fishing lures, we were told he wasn't available for comment because he was "out fishing."

PENTAGON PIPELNE

Black Box -- Admiral Thomas Moorer, the Joint Chiefts chairman, was touring the links the other afternoon in a golf cart. He hauled along not only his clubs but an ominous black box that goes whereever Moore goes. The box contains a security phone which enables the chairman to talk with U.S. installations around the world. In the midst of his golf game, Moorer placed an urgent call. But it wasn't to Saigon or some other trouble spot. He called his wife to tell her that he'd be home in 20 minutes.

Pampered Admiral -- Vice Admiral G. E. Miller, commander of the vaunted Sixth Fleet, is properly pampered by his executive officer. The solicitous exec, Cmdr. W. T. Crawford, issued a stern order aboard the admiral's flagship, the USS Springfield. "To avoid establishing a pattern of having emergency in-port drills at a set time," directed the order, "and further to avoid inconvenience to the admiral, all emergency drills are to be held at random times after the admiral and chief of staff have departed for the day." A Navy spokesman said the admiral was unaware of the order and cancelled it after we called.

Military Glorification -- The Defense Department publishes 366 different magazines and newspapers each year ostensibly to boost troop morale. In reality, however, the principle aim is to glorify the brass. In the first four issues of the new magazine, "The Engineer," for example, more than 40 pages are devoted to interviews or stories about the generals in the Army Corps of Engineers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing could improve the human race more than to have every baby born with a button in its lower lip and a buttonhole in its upper lip.

As it is now, the average infant is born not with a silver spoon in its mouth — but one of its own feet. And throughout the rest of its life it keeps putting that foot back in its mouth.

If you want to live peacefully, learn to turn off the lip flow when you don't know what you're talking about. Silence is more than golden; silence is safety.

Here are a few remarks to avoid if you don't want to put your foot in your mouth, shoe and all:

"Why did you want to get a divorce from him, anyway? He always seemed like a pretty swell guy to me."

"What's a pretty girl like you doing in the women's liberation movement? You look intelligent."

"Before I tell you how I think it fits you, let me ask you one question. Can you still take the suit back?"

"You've got nobody to blame but yourself."

"Did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

"If I bail you out of this, it'll only get you into the habit of expecting someone else to solve your problems for you."

"Of course, I don't doubt your word, but if you've lost all that much weight, I don't understand why it doesn't show more."

"Are you sure you aren't just feeling sorry for yourself?"

"I'm not exactly sure I should tell an off-color joke like this to my own mother-in-law, but here goes—."

"Do you want me to tell you what I really think is wrong with you?"

"Tell me something, will you? Why is it when a guy like me takes a girl like you out to dinner, she always feels like she has to order the most expensive steak on the menu? Don't you girls ever get steak at home?"

Business Meeting Held

Scism To Retire From Sikeston PCA

More than 1,100 members of Sikeston Production Credit Association gathered Tuesday night for their annual meeting and to witness the retirement of 27-year-veteran Thatcher Scism, currently president of the organization. He will retire officially Oct. 1.

The meeting, held at the Sikeston High School band shell, was the 39th annual meeting of stockholders.

T. R. McGuire, president of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis, attended the meeting to "pay tribute to Thatcher Scism -- your longtime friend and associate."

McGuire said that when Scism began his career with Sikeston PCA, the association had one office and five employes. Today, there are seven field offices and 25 employes.

The meeting was opened by gospel singing by the Murphy family of Poplar Bluff. Guest speaker was Ned Darter, who related humorous experiences as a farmer in Fisher, Ark.

In his business report to the stockholders, Board Director Charles Causey reminded those present that the 1971 Farm Credit Law is now in effect. The new law replaces the 1933 Farm Credit Act.

Sikeston PCA has set a goal of $40 million in farm loans for 1972. Last year Sikeston PCA set a new all-time high mark in loans at $38,695,653.83.

Thomas Wright paid $20 fine on charge of permitting unauthorized person to drive. Tommie Brown was fined $15 on charge of operating vehicle with expired operator license.

Clark Testifies On North Viet Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. gen. Ramsey Clark said today the continued U.S. bombing of North Vietnam will insure that American prisoners of war will not be released.

Clark who recently returned from a two-week trip to North Vietnam said, "My impression is the chances of their releasing American pilots while there is American bombing is nil except as a symbolic thing."

He added that North Vietnamese leaders with whom he spoke appeared surprised when asked if they would release the prisoners after the war is ended. Their surprise seemed to say what reason would they have for keeping them, Clark said.

Appearing before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee exploring the problem of war refugees throughout Indochina, Clark also described destruction of dikes and sluices, schools, hospitals and civilian areas.

He conceded he is not a military man but said the damage to dikes and sluices which he witnessed in his tour of North Vietnam seemed to indicate that the bombing was deliberate.

He added that he never saw antiaircraft or SAM missile emplacements on the dikes. Nor were they used to store fuel and war materiel, he said.

Clark's criticism of U.S. war policy during his North Vietnam tour drew strong criticism from top officials and former officials in the Nixon administration and the President's campaign organization.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern became involved in the dispute when Republicans recalled McGovern's past praise of Clark. McGovern fired back that President Nixon was steering his campaign onto "the low road" through his lieutenants' attacks on Clark, who was attorney general during the Johnson administration.

The latest clash came Tuesday when Clark and Rita Hauser, who is co-chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Re-election of President Nixon, engaged in a vigorous argument at an American Bar Association meeting in San Francisco.

She challenged his assertions that he found American prisoners well-treated in Hanoi and claimed there are "reams of evidence" showing mistreatment.

Earlier Tuesday, Clark was attacked for the second time by John N. Mitchell, a political adviser to Nixon and also a former attorney general. Mitchell called Clark a "naive American" who was "unwittingly duped into playing Hanoi's wretched game, into serving as an American megaphone for Communist propaganda."

As he returned to Washington Tuesday night, Clark said of the administration critics, "I would respect them more if they would worry more about killing people than about whether I was duped."

Clark said he was not surprised that his comments in North Vietnam were broadcast over Radio Hanoi because he knew his remarks were being taped.

New Black Widow Spider Puts Man Back In Business

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — John Webster Brown is back in business. He plans to raise a whole colony of black widow spiders to make sure a hungry cricket doesn't louse things up again.

Brown said Monday he has been given a replacement for "Mac," his former partner who helped with his part-time business of making cross- hair sights for surveying instruments. "Mac," a poisonous female black widow spider, had supplied the delicate web needed for the cross- hair sights.

Mac's career was cut short when Brown dropped a cricket into the spider's glass container for supper. Mac's intended main course turned on her and "tore her to shreds," Brown said.

When news accounts spread word that Brown was being forced out of busines because he couldn't find a replacement for Mac, he said he was inundated with calls from across the country.

Man Free To Yell At Apes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Albert Richardson has been told by a judge that he is free to yell at apes in the Cincinnati Zoo, but only when other humans aren't around.

Richardson, 41, was arrested in the zoo's ape house Monday afternoon. A zoo security guard said Richardson "was using bad language to people and started drinking wine."

On Tuesday Richardson told Hamilton County Criminal Court Judge Peter Outcalt, however, that he was yelling at the apes, not people.

In dismissing the case, Outcalt said Richardson has a constitutional right to talk to the apes whenever he wishes as long as other humans aren't within earshot. "The statutes say you shall not conduct yourself in a disorderly manner in the presence of other people," Outcalt said of his ruling. "There's nothing about being in the presence of apes."

Summer Entertaining Proves Expensive

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who was considering marriage to a man who had suffered a stroke and was partially paralyzed. She expressed concern about his ability to function sexually. I hope she sees this letter because I speak from experience.

Four years ago when my husband was stricken I was sure our sex life was over. Our physician suggested therapy at the Rehabiliatation Institute of Chicago. At the time it seemed hopeless but we went anyway. Within months he showed remarkable progress and now I can tell you that his recovery has been miraculous. Today he is a completely satisfying lover.

Please encourage that women to marry and if she is lucky enough to live in or near Chicago, to take him to that wonderful hospital. --- Been There

Dear Been: I do so with pleasure. The Rehabilitation Institute is one of the finest in the world. The director, Dr. Henry Betts, is a good friend of mine. Your letter provides me with the opportunity to say a good word for an institution that richly deserves it.

Dear Ann Landers: You told "Getting It All Together" that when a love affair is over the best way to recover is to put away the pictures, letters and mementos, move forward and not look back. I lost someone I loved very much and I can't get over it. He died. And he was just 18. The only comfort I have is looking at his picture, re-reading his letters and poetry, playing our favorite records and reliving, in my memory, the wonderful times we had together. These things help me feel closer to him.

It's been only a month but I wonder if it will ever be any different. People have assured me that time will ease the pain and that one day I'll be happy again. But how does one get through the present? Broken love affairs are often repaired. People get back together again. But in my case it will never happen. He is lost to me forever. The finality of it all has crushed my spirit. Please give me some words of wisdom. I am -- Empty, Empty, Empty

Dear Friend: When a love affair is over, the prescription is the same, whether the separation was caused by a misunderstanding, mutual agreement, or death. Look ahead, make a new life -- and accept the realities.

A month is not very long. The wounds are still fresh, but you will not help them heal by keeping them open and dwelling on the pain. Consider your dream castle a delightful place to visit, but don't try to live in it. Life is for the living.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Denver Housewife." Welcome aboard the Ship of Fools. We also live in a state where tourists love to vacation. These past three summers we have spent $4,000 entertaining people in our home and taking them to places we wouldn't have gone ourselves.

Our generosity has not brought us any pleasure. We now know that giving means nothing unless it is done intelligently. Foolish generosity is neither rewarding nor is it appreciated. People expect you to continue to give. When they are refused, they forget the past and are bitterly disappointed.

We've had to tell three families we can't entertain them this summer and they are all mad at us. Does it pay to be nice? --S. S; S.

Dear S.S.S.: Your problem is that you have second-rate friends -- the "what- have-you-done- for-me- lately" variety. Well -- you've at least learned. Congratulations.

Drugs. How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is LSD too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope On Drugs." Teen-Agers Recycle Jeans

By AP Newsfeatures

Everyone's recycling glass bottles, aluminum cans, cardboard boxes and newsprint these days to fight pollution and prevent waste. But did you ever think of "recycling" your jeans?

Although many jeans lovers actually prefer them after a year or so of washing and wearing rather than when they're new, they do eventually reach an "unwearable" state.

When this happens, don't retire your jeans from active service. For like that old soldier in the adage, they've only faded away! Wrangler suggests snipping, stitching, or stuffing them into any of a number of groovy fashions or decorator accessories.

Belts, for example, have come a long way. As fashion accessories, they have been liberated from their mundane position behind the slacks loops to free and easy spots outside sweaters, and midi-length dresses.

To fashion a belt from your tired old jeans, just cut off one of the legs and, leaving the fabric doubled, cut in half length-wise. Then with the right sides together, stitch a seam down the open side, and turn right side out. Trim the belt down according to your waist size, and sew up the ends. Get hold of a buckle and attach it. With an icepick, punch holes into the end of the belt opposite the buckle. Be sure to stitch around the holes so that they don't fray or run into one another. For eye-catching detail, use brightly-colored thread around the loops. Or embroider the whole length of the belt with cheery colored thread.

Extra big totes have become everyone's bag, and now you can make your own. For an off-beat look, start by trimming the legs off your old jeans up to hot pants length. Then, with the right sides together, hem the bottom, and turn right side out. Strips of jeans fabric, suede, or rawhide cut to any size make the straps. Attach with rivets or eyelets, which you purchase at any fabric shop or department store notions counter. To open and close your tote, use the "built-in" method: sew up the top (waist band), and use the front zipper as the opening. Or sew on your own zipper — at the top of the tote. Or how about applying heavy snaps at a few spots along the top? Decorate your tote with flower or butterfly appliques, your own felt cut-outs, or embroider it. And, of course, the ex-jeans pockets provide plenty of extra compartments!

Watch bands are getting wider and wilder all the time. And they've become an important fashion accessory! The waist band from your old jeans is just the right width for a watch band. Cut a piece of it down to the size of your wrist, attach your watch, and sew on a snap to open and close. You can probably make about five watch bands from one waist band. You can dye each one a different color.

Jeans jewelry is lots of fun. Make a thin ring out of one belt loop. Staple or stitch two together for a wide ring. Decorate with fancy stitching or a couple of studs.

Use the heavy side seams of your jeans or strips of denim from the legs to make chokers.

Vocational Rehabilitation Makes Useful Citizens Of The Mentally Retarded

JEFFERSON CITY — Must the mentally retarded child in Missouri forever be a drag on society? Must he or she be relegated to a position of second class citizenship, hidden away from the world of work and from normal social contacts?

The State Department of Education, through its Vocational Rehabilitation and Special Education sections, has answered those questions with an emphatic "No!". The administrators of 146 Missouri high schools give the same answer with equal emphasis.

And these answers are not merely statements of philosophy; they have been translated into specific and continuing action since the founding in 1964 of what is known as the Cooperative School Work Program.

More important are the results: 4,593 educable mentally retarded young people, some of them victims of multiple handicaps, have been prepared for entry into the world of work and placed in full- time jobs at the completion of their high school careers.

The Cooperative School Work Program is just one of the vehicles used by the Vocational Rehabilitation agency to accomplish its assigned purpose -- enabling eligible handicapped individuals to take their places in our working society and to become as self-sufficient as possible. To be eligible for vocational rehabilitation services, an individual must have a physical or mental disability that is a significant handicap to employment, and there must be a reasonable expectation that VR services will enable him or her to engage in gainful occupation.

During its first year, 23 Missouri school districts operating 45 high schools participated in the school-work program. Last year the program had grown to include 125 high schools in 86 districts, and projections for the coming school year indicate that 146 schools in 98 districts will be participating then.

During the past year, 740 students were rehabilitated and placed in fulltime jobs as a result of the program. That figure is expected to jump to at least 800 during the coming year.

The goal of the special education teachers and the vocational rehabilitation counselors working with the students is to keep each youngster in a normal classroom situation as long as he can profit from it. Usually, however, such students are not capable of successfully competing in normal classroom situations to any meaningful extent.

Thus, the emphasis of the program is on preparing each student for a job. In many schools, for example, the student must have demonstrated his ability to hold a full- time job before he is considered to have successfully completed his high school program.

Examine one case history:

Mary (not her real name) had no intention of attending high school. She was mentally retarded, hard of hearing, and her teeth were badly malformed. She had only one front tooth and it protruded in an almost tusk-like manner. She was the subject of considerable derision from other youngsters who called her such uncomplimentary names as "One Tooth" and "Old Witch".

But the high school special education teacher had been alerted to Mary's problems, and she convinced the girl to enroll for high school.

As a result, Vocational Rehabilitation was able to fit Mary with a new hearing aid, to have all of her teeth extracted, which required four days of hospitalization, and to have complete new dentures provided.

She was sent to a rehabilitation center for work evaluation and adjustment training.

Mary demonstrated particular ability in at least two areas -- typing and sewing. Since her primary interest was sewing (she had been making all her own clothes for several years), her counselor found a job for her with a drapery firm, lining drapes.

Her starting salary was $1.75 per hour -- $3,640 per year. Her boss considers her a valued employee with good prospects for advancement.

At home, she does house cleaning and laundry chores to earn her room and board. In her spare time she likes to watch television on a small set which she purchased for herself.

But whe is most proud of two things; the car which she drives 22 miles each way to and from work daily and on which she is making payments of $64.30 per month, and the fact that she can eat corn- on- the- cob with no difficulty!

A drag on society? Hardly.

And stories like Mary's are repeated hundreds of times each year in Missouri as a result of the Cooperative School- Work Program. Also because of that program, hundreds more Missouri teenagers can look toward a brighter future when they return to school this fall.

Generally, you can believe all that you hear about vitimins. They are good to take because today most of us don't eat properly. The way foods are prepared, many essential vitamins are cooked or frozen out before the food reaches the consumers. They also help to keep the body resistance at a peak.

Young Farmers Have Picnic

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County Young Farmers Association held its summer picnic at Crowley's Ridge Resort at Malden. The picnic, a charcoal hamburger and homemade ice cream affair, was held under the pavilion.

Among the 25 attending were advisor Robert Harris and Mrs. Harris of Risco.

On July 31, Aug. 1 and 2, the Marshall - Sweet Springs chapters were hosts to the Missouri Young Farmers State Tour. Attending from the area were Roy Pipkin of Kewanee; Fred Story of Matthews and Sam Faulkner, Tommy Essary, James Manley and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Riley of New Madrid.

All interested farmers are invited to attend the next meeting which will be held Friday in the Lilbourn High School vo-ag building. A program on grain storage will be presented.

Colors Reveal Personality

Your home may reveal your true personality, according to interior designer Virginia Frankel of New York. For instance, she says, color may reveal a lot about ones character. The designer had always decorated her own homes in white, but says that when she moved to her present apartment, she began using brilliant colors. "I decided that I had become a happier person," she explained, discussing her recently published book, "What your House Tells about You."

Other facts Mrs. Frankel says ones house may reveal about ones personality are:

People who like bright, hot or acid colors — oranges, reds, strong purples, greens — are often bold, adventurous, with-it, generally happy people. Blues and greens in the middle range speak of coolness and caution. Beiges, grays and muddy pastels may be used by a person who stays close to the safety line in behavior and taste.

Dark colors may be the sign of a moody, depressed person, although it may also be an affectation adopted in the belief it is an "in" look. But dark colors also may indicate a secure person.

Listening to the nuances of her clients, Mrs. Frankel says she is able to pick up the real keys to their decorating needs — they may need a more exciting background or a showcase. She says this listening is the clue to meaningful decorating because some people do not know what they want.

In decorating for bachelors Mrs. Frankel has learned the girl traps which include fur rugs and pillows, chrome and glass tables, large deep sofas, hassocks, wine racks, built-in lights and bar, hi-fi speakers and telephones in every room, kitchen gimmicks (for female visitors) cookbooks, and so on.

For many women decorating a home is such a traumatic experience they may become physically ill if the couch doesn't match the draperies.

Cars 'Branded' For Presidential Campaign

What does a young political campaigner do at a rodeo? She brands, what else?

Leslie Johnson, a young college student and local chairman of the Young Voters for the President chapter, kept in the spirit of the 20th annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo at Sikeston by doing a special kind of branding, "bumper branding."

Regional field director for the Young Voters organization, Carl Koupal, happened to be in the area and volunteered his assistance.

Between the two of them, able to work only one area of the parking lot during the 90 minutes before the show started, they managed to put the Nixon "brand" on about 250 cars.

It may not be an astronomical figure, but "bumper branding" under the rules of the Young Voters for the President is not as simple as it may sound.

Miss Johnson can't "cheat" on the rodeo customers. Cars are not just branded indiscriminantly as they park at such an event. The rules, as Koupal explained, require the permission of each car owner before a bumper sticker can be placed on the vehicle.

"We do not want to antagonize anybody by putting a sticker on their car without asking them. Many who might be supporting the President or any other candidate just do not like bumper stickers on their vehicles and we respect their wishes," Koupal said.

Noting that it is a matter of common courtesy and respect for another person's property, he also pointed out that there would be a waste of bumper stickers if they got on cars from which they would be immediately removed.

The Flat River college student went on to say that there are different types of stickers, but the effort in Southeast Missouri has been to use only the vinyl sticker, which comes off with ease and leaves no difficult mess to clean off after the election.

With all this technical talk by Koupal, Leslie was paying more attention to getting the job done -- getting about two cars to every one for her regional advisor. Clad in a traditional western outfit appropriate for the occasion, she also added that little extra touch.

When given the nod to attach a sticker, she came back with a courteous, "Where would you like it?" On several occasions they asked for front and back.

"You take a little ribbing," the Sikeston coed admitted, but went on to add, "even most of those who may not want one are pretty courteous."

Like any "rodeo performer", Leslie was a bit bushed after her event and even though she was the unchallenged "champ" for the evening, officials just couldn't find a trophy for her.

Being a trouper is not easy, as any late show on television lets you know, but Leslie says it is all a part of the job -- one she takes seriously, but also enjoys.

What does a "bumper brander" do when her event is over? This one headed backstage to get ready for rehearsal. Even 90 minutes of rugged work like that can't hold up preparation for her leading role in "The Fantasticks", which opens for a weekend run here this week.

It just goes to show that an old campaigner -- using the word old very freely -- has to be versatile.

Mrs. Agnew Backs Up Husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though Eleanor McGovern has offered to debate Pat Nixon, and Eunice Shriver has spoken out against abortion, Judy Agnew says she doesn't intend to change her own low-keyed campaigning style.

"I do not speak out on the issues," said the wife of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in a preconvention interview. "I'm here to back up my husband. After all, my husband is the one running for office, and he's very knowledgeable."

She said she has no campaign schedule yet and has spent most of the summer sitting for a portrait for an official collection of Maryland's first ladies, and doing exercises to keep in shape.

Mrs. Agnew, who seems to avoid publicity as much as the vice president attracts it, said she will campaign with Cabinet wives but only when she is not campaigning with her husband. She will greet audiences and answer questions but make no speeches.

Mrs. Agnew, 51, said that judging from her husband's mail one of his accomplishments has been "saying what the people want to hear" and traveling to 50 states with President Nixon's message about the administration's programs.

As for her own main accomplishment, she believes it has been entertaining wives of foreign dignitaries and "enhancing the image of the United States in their eyes by being a gracious hostess."

"At least I hope I have been a gracious wife of a vice president," she added.

She has particularly enjoyed her work as head of the Senate wives' group, which meets every Tuesday to make materials for the Red Cross. Her own personal goal is to turn out 50 gauze squares each week.

Despite her husband's criticism of the news media, Mrs. Agnew says she has no complaints about the press except when stories about her children get personal.

The two older daughters—Mrs. Robert DeHaven, 29, a Baltimore social worker, and Susan, 24, a coordinator of volunteers at a Cambridge, Md., hospital—have missed much of this attention.

Randy Agnew, 25, made headlines when syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported he was separated from his wife, living with a male hairdresser in Maryland and working in a health spa. Kim, now 16, came to public attention when she wanted to wear a black armband to support a war moratorium.

These reports, Mrs. Agnew said, "got exaggerated out of proportion."

Airplanes Hover Over Beach Nudist Colony

When a plane or helicopter dips low for a close look, "I usually stand out in the open and jump up and down and wave at them to give them something to look at," says the colony's buxom, 29- year- old caretaker, who will identify herself only as Pat.

Military spokesmen have ordered their pilots to avoid the 240- acre site of the newly opened Hawaii Naturist Club colony, with its 80 multi- colored tents. But other low fly- overs continue.

Unlike other nudist camps located in wooded areas, the Hawaii camp is in an open beach area. There are no trees to prevent aircraft from dipping low or to block an aerial view. It's also located next to a landing strip for small airplanes.

Before the area was made off- limits to military pilots, helicopters flew so low "they knocked our tents over with the wash of their rotor blades," says the operator of the colony, who prefers to be known only as Larry.

Once, he said, soldiers on maneuvers nearby plucked a few pineapples and landed in the colony area to try to give them away.

A complaint from the nudist camp led to orders for military pilots to avoid the area.

Most of the colony's 275 members are under 30, but a few elderly persons are included.

"Once we had a couple visiting out here who were in their 80's," Larry said. "I had to help the woman around. But she said at her age she couldn't afford not to try something different."

He's The Sucker

Television Series Helps Educate H.S. Dropouts

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "I was so proud of it that I framed it," Cari Bell Edwards said as she displayed her General Educational Development certificate, the equivalent of a high school diploma.

"It ended 10 years of wishing and hoping and depression," she said.

Miss Edwards, 27, says, "I was tired of cafeteria and laundry work — that's about all I could get without a diploma — when I heard about the television series and decided to try it."

The series, aired by the Kentucky Educational Television Network, has earned GED certificates for at least 82 people and is in the process of being revised so that total can be multiplied many times over.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

There may be a generation gap between parent & child these days, but have you ever overheard a conversation between grandparent and child?? No wonder mother and I couldn't agree on things when I was growing up, I just wasn't enough of a swinger to understand her. For example, I don't mind the fellas wearing their hair a trifle full, but this below the ears stuff makes me literally want to gag; however, when Charles and I start making noises about the barber shop scene and finally end up losing our cool and (see how hard I'm trying to bridge the gap, I feel like my conversation has come straight from the mouth of a moron — not so grandparents, they know every word and even better understand what every word means — this coming from someone who use to think me saying "hubba-hubba" was something ridiculous is almost too much!), grabbing them by the nape of their hair they immediately race for the phone, get a hot line to granny and then I get a hot line full of advice from her about them "doing their thing, etc." I can still remember wanting my hair long — and I'm a girl — so I could do "my thing," and the only response I got from her then was if I didn't get it cut "my thing" was going to be beet red!!!

Another example, Charles and I are violently against these motorbikes. I mean I can understand the kids wanting them, but I am deathly afraid of them getting one and either being maimed for life or killed on it so obnoxious parents that we are, we say "no." However, grandaddy, who I seriously suspect wants to ride around on it himself, keeps making noises like if you're parents would O.K. it I just might get you one. Would you like to know how many years I pleaded and cried and died and sighed to that same man in an attempt to get a horse? All I ever wanted was a little horse — not some forty mile an hour machine, but just a little sweet horse that had 4 legs and would walk around a bit with me on its back — THAT WAS TOO DANGEROUS!!!

Oh well, I've always heard grandparents were made to spoil grandchildren and I guess that's so, but until I get those grandbabies and start communicating with them it sure does make it hard to be in on this parent scene today!!!

Catholics, Read Your Bible

The Roman Catholic Bible is a tremendous Book. Each Catholic, should study it daily and live by its standards. The average Catholic does very little,if any Bible reading. He as a result, has misconceptions. Do you know the Douay Bible says: 1) Unless a man be born again, he can't enter Heaven, read John 3:3-18; 3:36, 11:25-27, Rom. 10:9, 10. 2) Mary claims God as her savior, see Luke 1:45 -49. 3) Christ is the priest, read Heb. 4:14-5:6; 7:25-8:1; 9:11-10:4. 4) Christ is the Mediator between God and man (1 Tim. 2:5). Since this is true, why confess to the earthly priest? 5) Christ is the only rock, the foundation. He is called the rock, at least 20 times. Some of the references are: 1 Cor. 3:11; 10:4, Psalms 17 (18): 1, 2; 70 (71): 3; 88(89):27, 2 Sam. 22:2, 3. Jesus himself, said he is the way to the Father (John 14:6). Is he a lair, or is he who he claimed to be? He can't be both.

Yours truly,
Walter Strickler

Stamps In The News

It isn't often that an airline stewardess gets an opportunity to be featured on a postage stamp but it has just happened on a new 10 center issued by Jamaica. The stamp is one of a two-part set honoring Air Jamaica, national airline of this Caribbean island.

Eight additional stamps were issued by Jamaica at the same time as part of its latest definitive series.

The Republic of China on Taiwan is now preparing for its first international stamp show scheduled for Oct. 24 at the National Historical Museum in Tapei. It is expected that about 1,000 frames of stamps and other valuable philatelic items will be on display, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The purpose of the exhibition, says the director general of Posts, is to enhance "Friendship through Stamps." All collections from other countries will be displayed in a court of honor. The event will be called ROCPEX '72.

• • • •

On the other side of the Pacific, right here in this country, the recent Stamp Expo '72, held in Anaheim, Calif., broke all attendance records for such exhibits sponsored by the International Stamp Collectors Society.

One of the highlights of the show was a priceless collection from the U.S. Postal Service Philatelic Museum of die proofs of U.S. stamps from 1847 to 1967. Also on display was a collection of rarities from the U.S., Israel and Japan as supplied by the Smithsonian Institution.

The theme of Stamp Expo '72 was a salute to Apollo XVI. The special Stamp Expo cancellation depicting Apollo being launched kept the U.S. Post Office setup at the show tremendously busy from opening to closing.

Did you ever hear of the following flowers: diddle dee, scurvy grass, prickly burr, fachine, lavender and felton's flower?

Well, these and other unusual varieties are illustrated on a new set of floral decimal stamps issued by the Falkland Islands.

The world's first postage stamp was the famous "Penny Black" of 1840 issued by Great Britain and featuring a profile portrait of Queen Victoria. Contrary to general opinion, it is NOT the most valuable stamp — even though it is the first and listed as No. 1 in the catalog. Many, many were issued and are still available.

Which brings us to the fact that stamp dealers and departments throughout the nation have the Penny Black for sale without difficulty. At Gimbel's stamp department in New York they are being offered at $18 and $20 each.

Even if a person doesn't specialize in Great Britain's adhesives, it is always nice to say that one has a "Penny Black" of 1840 in his collection.

Fischer Needs Only 4 To Take World Crown

Fischer led the match 8½-5½ after blunders by both players produced the draw Tuesday in a four- hour game of 40 moves.

Then Spassky will be playing the white chessmen, giving him the advantage of the first move, but his chances of overtaking Fischer appear slimmer by the minute. The Yugoslav grandmaster, Svetozar Gligoric, said at the end of Tuesday's game: "Fischer is simply the better player."

With a win counting one point and a draw half, Fischer needs a total of 12½ to unseat Spassky. To keep his title, the Russian needs 12 points.

International grandmaster Isaac Kashdan said in an analysis for The Associated Press that Tuesday's game consisted of:: "Part One — Fischer blunders, loses pawn; Part Two— Spassky blunders, returns pawn; Part Three — players realize they can do no more damage, agree on a draw."

Fischer played the Queen's Gambit Declined, but "Spassky had an easy time in developing his pieces," Kashdan said, while the American "moved his kingside pieces up and back in seemingly meaningless fashion."

"He may have been content with a draw in view of his big advantage in the score and was challenging Spassky to do something," the analyst commented.

"Fischer's 20th move was . . . a serious error and Spassky was ready for it."

The Russian worked his queen into a strong position but "it was soon Spassky's turn to go wrong and he did, in almost incomprehensible fashion, on the 27th move." Kashdan said.

To maintain his chance to win, experts said, Spassky should have captured Fischer's knight but instead he moved a pawn.

They played another 13 moves, then Fischer stood and extended his hand to Spassky to signify his proposal for the draw.

Kleindienst Claims Control Of Rioting

Speaking to the American Bar Association's annual meeting Tuesday, Kleindienst said this was accomplished by "firmness in the public defense" by the Nixon administration and a growing realization that change can be brought about in a peaceful way.

"There are those who, disturbed by this policy against violence, have used the term 'repressive' against this national administration," Kleindienst said.

"But when a mob attempts to enforce its views by riot, arson and mayhem, who is the repressor?" He said mob violence "was threatening the very stability of our country" when Nixon took office in January 1969.

Hearnes Will Speak At I-55 Ceremony

PERRYVILLE, Mo. (AP)-Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will be the speaker Aug. 30 during a ceremony opening the last major stretch of Interstate 55 in Missouri.

The 30-mile section of the highway to be opened between Brewer about five miles north of here and Fruitland, about 25 miles south, will effect a permanent bypass of U. S. 61.

4 Teens Bomb Irish Store; No Casualties

BELFAST (AP) — Two teenage boys and two girls planted a bomb in the center of Belfast today but there was enough warning to avert casualties.

Army experts said the 100 pounds of gelignite was in a suitcase that was booby trapped to prevent it being opened.

It was planted in an electrical wholesaler's store. The store building was wrecked, and there was widespread damage in the area.

Troops in the Catholic Lower Falls Road district made three arrests when they uncovered a guerrilla arms cache containing an armalite rifle, a shotgun, a submachine gun and several thousand rounds of ammunition.

"Gutterization" Of Streams May Do More Harm Than Good

The "river wreckers" are the target of a slashing attack on stream channelization by conservationist John Madson in the forthcoming September issue of AUDUBON, magazine of the National Audubon Society.

Channelizaton is the flood-control practice of deepening, straightening and clearing natural water courses so that when streams are swollen by heavy rains they will drain off rapidly, instead of overflowing their banks. The trouble is, writes Madson, that channelization -- or "gutterization," as he likes to call it – is the direct opposite of all that makes a stream biologically healthy for fish and wildlife.

For example, says Madson, when little farm creeks run out into open fields, their "inner bends are often shaggy with grasses and coarse weeds, where the tractors cannot reach, and are the only real wildlife cover in some totally cultivate farmscapes. This is where the quail convey will be, and perhaps a deer, and muskrat and coon trails through the grass between the cornfield and creek, haunted by mink and red fox."

But when the "river-wrecking engineers" remove the bends, pools, riffles, snags and sandbars, along with the trees that shade the streambank, all that's left, says Madson, is a barren ditch; a precisely engineered sluiceway between two levees.

To date, he reports, over 8,000 miles of living streambeds in more than 40 states have been gutterized; 13,000 more have been scheduled for "improvement," and U. S.Soil Conservation Service leaders estimate that 175,000 miles of streams "need channelization."

The National Audubon Society has undertaken a major effort to publicize the excesses of the stream channelization program of the S.C.S. and the Army Corps of Engineers. Among other things, the Society challenges much of the alleged flood- control benefit. Why, ask Audubon officials, spend funds on costly projects to protect fields from being flooded when the nation already has a surplus crop problem: would it not be wiser to discourage cultivation of fields subject to flooding? Likewise, in non-rural areas would it not be wiser to discourage housing and industry on flood plains, rather than calling on the taxpayer to protect developers who want to build in high risk areas?

And further, as Madson points out in the AUDUBON article, the projects often fails to control floods, and instead just transfer the flood threat to the next community downstream; the faster the upper watershed empties out, the higher the flood crest downstream; Madson cites cases where the roaring torrents in "gutterized" rivers have eroded downstream riverbanks and undermined highways and bridge foundations.

He traces the history of the channelization concept, and he credits the S.C.S. with having carried out, in earlier days, important and environmentally sound flood control and anti-erosion measures, using such methods as contour farming, grassed waterways, farm ponds and crop rotation. More recently, he said, there has been the pressure for major drainage programs, which in addition to alleged flood control value, can turn wetlands into solid ground for farming or other development.

"Farmers rarely fight the proceedings since they incur relatively few costs, and stand to pick up more acreage of cultivated land," says Madson. "Construction companies get contracts, and developers get chance to build on formerly 'useless' marshy land.

"The only losers are those without a voice – the taxpayers and wildlife and streams."

Claims Government Paid $380 Million In Illegal Medicare Bills

WASHINGTON (PA) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the federal government may have paid $380 million in illegal Medicare claims, including charges for television sets and private nurses.

Aspin Tuesday cited a recent Government Accounting Office survey of nearly 14 hospital in five states which he said showed "nearly $500,000 had been illegally charged to Medicare out of a total $20 million paid in Medicare claims."

"Federal funds have been used to pay for private - duty nurses, TV sets, and telephone service for Medicare patients - all illegal under federal law," he said in a statement.

"These overpayments are the fault of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and its contractors such as Blue Cross- not the hospitals themselves.

"If HEW and Blue Cross administer the whole Medicare program as indicated by the sample GAO report, then the federal government has been gypped out of approximately $380 million."

The reason for the overcharges, he added, is "pervasive mismangement, administrative procedures and incomplete audits by HEW and private insurance companies such as Blue Cross."

Aspin urged HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson to "tighten up and simplify the regulations so that the proper benefits are paid to the needy and that hospitals are not inadvertently overcompensated for their services."

Porter Waggoner Show To Appear In Malden

MALDEN — Two of America's most popular country music entertainers will be appearing in person Saturday, Aug. 26, at the Malden High School gymnasium.

The entire Porter Wagoner roadshow unit -- starring Wagoner, songstress Dolly Parton, comedian Speck Rhodes and The Wagonmasters instrumental group -- will be on hand for two performances, at 2 and again at 8 p.m.

The show is being presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as part of its yearly fund- raising drive. Proceeds from the two performances will be used to finance the extensive list of community projects sponsored by the Jaycees.

Wagoner and Miss Parton are top- selling recording artists for RCA Records. Their solo and duet recordings consistently achieve top 10 rankings nationally in music industry trade publications, and Wagoner's syndicated television series is regarded by the broadcast industry as the most popular and successful show of its type. It features the same entertainers and personalities as the roadshow troupe.

A country music superstar for nearly 20 years, Wagoner presently has over 25 RCA albums available. His hit singles include such memorable successes as "A Satisfied Mind," which was released in 1954, "I Thought I Heard You Call My Name", "Your Old Love Letters", "The Green, Green Grass of Home", "The Carroll County Accident", "Julie".

Wagoner's latest release is titled, "A World Without Music." Since its release on June 26, it has received favorable reaction throughout the music industry, including an endorsement by the industry's leading trade publication, Billboard magazine, as a record it feels will soon "break" into the national popularity charts for country music.

Dolly Parton, Wagoner's featured female artist also is a country music superstar, even though she is only in her early 20s. She has a distinctive soprano voice and already is recognized by the industry as one of its most brilliant new songwriters.

Although, in comparison to Wagoner's lengthy and illustrious career, Dolly's stardom is just beginning, she already has had such memorable hits as "Just Because I'm A Woman", "Joshua", "My Blue Tears", "Coat Of Many Colors" and "Touch Your Woman."

Her July 11 release titled, "Washday Blues", has a lot of people excited, and it could prove to be her biggest hit since her No. 1 rated recording of "Joshua".

Wagoner and Miss Parton come from similar backgrounds; rural and financially difficult.

Wagoner was born near West Plains, Mo., and grew up in poverty with his parents on a small dirt farm. At an early age he learned to fiddle, then to play guitar; soon he was singing, especially when working by himself in the fields. Although extremely shy, Wagoner sang and played guitar for customers in the grocery store where he worked as a clerk, following his family's move into town.

The store owner decided to sponsor a radio show featuring young Wagoner's singing. This led to his first big break, a job at radio station KWTO in Springfield. This, in turn, led to a contract with RCA Victor Records in 1952, then to a performing spot on the Ozark Jubilee, which eventually originated for network television and radio in Springfield.

Moving to Nashville in November, 1956, Wagoner joined the Grand Ole Opry the following February -- just when country music had begun an out- of- control popularity nosedive because of rock- and-roll. For three years, Wagoner and many other country performers had very hard times.

But circumstances began improving late in 1959, and the world again resumed developing a fondness for country music, a fondness which was to become extraordinary. Late in 1959, Wagoner was invited to audition for a proposed television show, and he passed the test.

Carried in only 17 or 18 markets during the first year, The Porter Wagoner Show ultimately was broadcast Coast to Coast, in over 150 markets. In some areas, its ratings surpass those of network shows.

Miss Parton was born in the hills of East Tennessee, near Sevierville, where she grew up and attended school. By dictating lyrics to her mother, Dolly was writing songs even before she could hold a pencil. By age 10 she clearly displayed vast talent and professional potential; and at that early age she was given a performing spot on Knoxville radio and television programs, and she continued on these broadcasts throughout her high school years.

Within hours of her graduation from high school (1964), Dolly boarded a bus for Nashville. Her Uncle Bill Owens, himself a professional musician and songwriter, had moved his home and family to Nashville a few weeks earlier. And Dolly began working with him and living at the Owens' home while she began the long process of getting herself established in Music City, U. S. A.

She and Bill worked as a songwriting team at first; they were given a contract with a major Nashville publishing firm, and this led to some of their songs being recorded by important artists. One of these was "Put It Off Until Tomorrow," now regarded as a country music "classic."

Soon Dolly was writing on her own and making records herself, and, by the time she affiliated with Wagoner, she had two hits to her credit.

Both artists have maintained an enviable pace as solo artists for RCA Records. They also are regarded as the undisputed number one vocal duet team in country music, and, as with their individual or solo recordings, their duet singles and albums constantly appear in the upper rankings of the most important sales and popularity listings.

Porter Waggoner

Dolly Parton

Both artists appear on stage as solo stars, of course, but they generally conclude the roadshow appearances in their role as the famous duet team. These performances include a wide range of material, from clever novelties to the hand-clapping semi- gospel smash, "Daddy Was An Old- Time Preacher Man," written by Dolly and an aunt.

Comedian Speck Rhodes, known for his missing front teeth and his wildly colorful checkered suits (custom- made for his television and stage appearances), has an extensive vaudeville background. During the Depression, he toured with his sister and brothers all over the nation until, in 1944, the family settled in Memphis. There they did regional network radio shows and, later, their own television show. Although Speck no longer is with The Rhodes Family show, it is still televised in Memphis.

Rhodes, incidentally, was one of the original members of the team that successfully passed the audition for Wagoner's television show. Speck continued to perform on his family's Memphis telecasts as well until, by 1964, the demand for him to appear with Wagoner became such that he moved his wife and children to Nashville in order to join Wagoner 100 per cent.

The Wagonmasters band, featuring the electrified 5-string banjo of Buck Trent, is considered the most colorful and showy back-up group in country music. Its members have been with Wagoner for many years, except for Jerry Owens(drums), who joined the unit late in 1971. One band member, Don Warden, who plays steel guitar and who serves as Wagoner's road manager and administrative assistant, has been with Porter for over 20 years.

The Porter Wagoner Show travels over 100,000 miles per year in a customized touring bus which is equipped with three private staterooms and supplementary bunking facilities. It also has lounge areas, restrooms, color television and stereo radio and tape equipment. Wagoner acquired this bus last September, and by the time the interior was fitted out with all the luxuries of home, it cost him over $100,000.

About a year ago, Wagoner decided he was going to concentrate on bringing his stage shows into smaller communities rather than the large cities. He felt many country music fans were being deprived of top- name country entertainment, so he directed that his show would break away from the large - city circuits so that the entire family could enjoy big-name country music entertainment economically and within shorter travel distances.

Ticket sales will be handled through the Malden Jaycees. The only advance tickets that will be sold will be for reserved seats.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Married Student

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Sadie was attending high school, she fell in love and got married. And while she knw the value of love, she hadn't anticipated the cost. Specifically, when it came to a high-school regulation that prohibited married students from participating in extracurricular activities. And Sadie, who had been extremely active in many of them, was barred from all of them.

"Getting married isn't only legal." she told the judge, "it's as American as apple pie and coffee. So how can I be punished for trying it?"

"No one's punishing her," was the anwer, "but Sadie's a married lady now. Obviously, it's in her best interests and best interest of other students to limit her activities and associations in the high school."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the regulation. ? on?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the regulation was an unconstitutional infringement upon Sadie's fundamental right to get married by limiting her right to an education. That a state may not infringe upon a person's fundamental rights in the absence of showing a "compelling" state interest and, observed the judge, none was shown in this case.

The regulation, concluded the judge, was actually intended to discourage, by actually punishing, marriages which are perfectly legal in this state.

Noranda Products In Use In Bootheel

NEW MADRID — Noranda Aluminum, Inc., electrical conductor products, manufactured at the company's complex in St. Jude Industrial Park, are being utilized by Bootheel utility firms in expansion and improvement projects in the area.

In addition, the Noranda plant products have been installed in approximately 40 other states and as far away as Saudi Arabia.

Among area firms installing many miles of electrical conductor wire produced at the rod, wire and cable plant are Missouri Utilities of Cape Girardeau and Ark-Mo Power Company of Blytheville, Ark.

Noranda cable is carrying power from the New Madrid power plant to the rectifier yard of the aluminum mill over a 52-strand cable made of 45 strands of aluminum wire over seven strands of steel.

A distribution center for aluminum building supplies, including doors, windows, siding and other aluminum products, has been established in New Madrid. Metal from the aluminum complex at New Madrid is shipped to Norandex, Inc., another subsidiary of the Noranda group, which fabricates the metal into building products marketed nationally under the Weather - Tite Aristocrats trademark.

A summer work program at the complex has provided employment to approximately 30 college students who plan to resume their education this fall.

Supports McGovern

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, said today that although he differs with some of George McGovern's stands, he will support the Democratic presidential nominee and the entire party ticket.

The statement by the former president was delivered to the two weekly newspapers in Fredericksburg, the Fredericksburg Standard and the Fredericksburg Radio - Post. Fredericksburg is 16 miles west of the LBJ Ranch where Johnson now spends his retirement.

"I believe the Democratic party best serves the needs of the people. Therefore I intend to support the 1972 Democratic ticket," said Johnson's statement.

"I shall vote for George McGovern and Sargent Shriver for president and vice president of the United States.

"I shall vote for Dolph Briscoe and Barefoot Sanders for governor of Texas and for U. S. Senator and all the nominees of the Democratic party."

McGovern is scheduled to visit the LBJ ranch next Tuesday. Aides to the Democratic nominee said the visit was being made in response to an invitation from Johnson.

"It is no secret that Sen. McGovern and I have widely differing opinions on many matters, especially foreign policy," Johnson said. "Sen. McGovern has not refrained from criticizing policies of mine with which he disagreed. Neither shall I refrain from stating my disagreements with any position of his when I believe that the public interest demands such action.

Bond Asks To Debate Dowd

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, Republican candidate for governor, asked his Democratic opponent, Edward L. Dowd, today to participate in a series of television debates.

Bond said he has requested television stations to provide an hour of prime time for the debates.

Bond sent letters to Dowd and the TV stations in St. Louis, Kansas City, Hannibal, Columbia-Jefferson City, Springfield, St. Charles, St. Joseph, Joplin and Cape Girardeau.

"The need for informed public opinion has never been greater than in this year's Missouri gubernatorial campaign," Bond said. "As a candidate for governor, I feel a serious responsibility to communicatete my views as fully as possible to the voters of our state."

Manager Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics coached for the Montreal Expos in 1970 after being dropped as Boston Red Sox manager following the 1969 season.

Cape Man Held In Murder Case

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Police are holding Jackie Choate, 30, of Cape Girardeau for investigation of the murder of Fred R. McCain of 623 North Main in Cape Girardeau.

McCain was found at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday lying in a pool of blood in his one-room home. He had been struck over the left eye by a sharp instrument, probably a hatchet or ax police say. Time of death was placed between 9 and 11 p.m. Monday.

McCain's wallet was found on the floor near his body. It contained no money, although there was some change in the kitchen sink. Police are theorizing that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Choate reportedly has a history of burglaries. He was seen at the house at 4:30 p.m. Monday, at 10 p.m. Monday and again at about 7 a.m. Tuesday, shortly before the body was discovered by McCain's employer.

McCain's niece saw Choate at the house at 4:30 p.m. when she went to see her uncle to borrow money. She said he had $10 and gave her $5.

Police are still searching for the murder weapon. Police said they found two axes at the house, but do not believe that either one was the murder weapon.

Services will be held for McCain at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Ford and Sons Funeral Home.

Kennedy Questions FDA Timing Phase-Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., suggested Tuesday that politics influenced the Food and Drug Administration's decision giving livestock producers until Jan. 1 to use feed containing DES, a suspected cancer-causing additive.

But FDA commissioner Charles C. Edwards, defending his agency's actions for "an orderly phaseout," promptly denied any suggestion of political considerations and said "the White House was not involved in the decision" involving the ban on the synthetic hormone.

During a House government operations subcommittee hearing at which Kennedy and Edwards appeared separately as witnesses, the senator replied "I think it very well could be" when Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, asked whether Kennedy considered FDA's phaseout decision to represent a political issue.

In light of rising meat prices and amid indications that the ban of this growth-boost additive will increase them even more, Kennedy asked: "Is it completely coincidental this is being delayed until the first of the year?" he added "it is not unreasonable to assume" it may become a political issue.

Edwards, meanwhile, told the subcommittee:

"In our judgement, an immediate cessation of the use of animal feed containing DES would almost certainly result in an unjustified disruption of the nation's meat supply and could generate widespread and unwarranted public concern.

"Additionally, the enforcement of this approach would have required FDA to divert its inspectional resources away from other activities which would result in a higher potential risk to the consumer."

Thus, he said, "in the absence of any evidence of public health hazard, we concluded that an orderly phaseout was in the public interest."

Furthermore, Edwards said current information indicates "it is highly doubtful that any stocks of premixes containing DES will remain available after about Oct. 1, and therefore the Jan. 1 deadline is largely academic."

DES stands for diethylstilbestrol. After getting information from the Agriculture Department casting doubt on the government's ability to set rules for using DES in animal feed that would guard against residues remaining in animal livers at time of slaughter.

Prison Work Delayed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has agreed to order a halt to preliminary work at the southeast Missouri site of a maximum security prison.

Hearnes said Tuesday he agrees with a request for the delay by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edward Dowd. Both Dowd and his Republican opponent Christopher Bond have spoken against the $9 million prison site at Steele.

"It's a valid request being so close to a change in administrations," said Hearnes. "I'm happy to honor this request."

He said construction hinges on a bond issue to finance the prison and the state Senate has opposed bond issues in general.

Last week Atty. Gen. John Danforth said he would not sign a contract for preliminary work. The site needs to be considered further, he said.

City Collects $22,316.36

License collections totaled $10,725.06, including merchants licenses, $9,801.31; auto, $261.75; liquor, $620; and dog, $42.

A single white star will indicate where collections are made during the business, day, including one or more pickups at 5 p.m. or later, and on Sundays and holidays.

Two white stars will designate boxes where the final pickup of the day will be made no earlier than 6:30 p.m. and as near 8 p.m. as possible.

Pasaka listed the following locations where star boxes may be found: 210 S. Kingshighway (at First National Bank); Kingshighway Plaza Mall (inside the mall); Greer and South Main Streets; 222 North Main St.; Missouri Delta Community Hospital (inside the hospital); 625 North Main St. (Security National Bank); Front Street and North Kingshighway; and 103 East Malone at New Madrid Street.

"The White Star is further visible evidence to the public that we are moving forward in postal service," Pasaka said. "Serving America is our reason for being and our number one commitment."

At least one White Star box will be located not more than two miles from every residence in Sikeston. These boxes are to be found not only in high-density residential areas but also in business and industrial areas, on principal traffic flow streets and in shopping centers.

The location of the boxes with "Two White Stars" will be in front of the post office for drive-in convenience.

Easy-to-read schedule cards are being placed on White Star boxes to specify the areas where next-day delivery is possible. On all neighborhood or residential convenience boxes, the schedule care will show the location of the nearest White Star box.

Pasaka said that if there are any questions about the areas that can be reached by overnight service, the questions should be brought to his attention.

Challenges Law That Eliminates His Job

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Johnson County Probate Judge Richard Musser has filed suit in circuit court to test a new state law that would eliminate Musser's office.

The suit, filed Monday, seeks a declaratory judgment to have the law declared unconstitutional.

The law passed by the last Missouri Legislature repealed a section and approved a new section in which counties with populations of 30,000 but less than 48,000 would have the magistrate judge serve both as probate judge and magistrate. The law went into effect Sunday.

Under the new law Musser's duties as probate judge would be assumed by Magistrate Judge Roy James.

Chaffee Scares Poplar Bluff

PARMA — Sikeston's National League All-Stars joined Hornersville and Poplar Bluff in the winners circle Tuesday night as the trio of 11 and 12-year-old teams triumphed in continuing first round play in the Southeast Missouri Little League championship tourney at Jackson field.

The All-Stars picked up four big runs in the fourth inning and booted Caruthersville out of the 20-team tournament in a 6-1 contest. The first game was won by Hornersville, 7-5, dropping Bertrand out of the tournament.

In the second game, Poplar Bluff's winning pitcher, Godwin, belted a game-winning double in the bottom of the seventh inning to drive in the winning run for the 4-3 win over Chaffee.

Three games are on tap Thursday, with Dexter and Malden opening the action with a 5 p.m. battle. Sikeston American All-Stars and Sikeston Aces square off in a 6:45 contest, followed by an 8:30 meeting between Holcomb and hosting Parma.

Both Sikeston and Caruthersville jumped into the scoring column early with single tallies in the first inning. A walk followed by a single from Caruthersville pitcher D. Webster powered the first strike in the top of the first inning.

The Sikeston Stars knotted the score as centerfielder Buchanan reached base on his first of three hits and scored in the early goings.

The Sikeston defense and the three-hit pitching of John Vaught handcuffed the Caruthersville squad through the remainder of the game. Vaught collected 12 strikeouts in the six-inning game and scattered two singles after the first inning score.

In the fourth, Young tripled to score Lawrence in starting a four-run rally that put the Stars in the lead for good. Hurley followed with a single and scored, along with Young and Deal, who reached on a fielders choice. A leadoff single in the fifth by Burgess set up the final run to put the lid on a 6-1 All-Star triumph.

Caruthersville's Webster went the distance for the loss and led the team with two of the three hits. Buchanan's three hits paced the Sikeston bats. Young's triple added to the winning eight-hit attack.

Three runs in the first inning and four in the second frame left Hornersville with an early 7-0 lead. Four hits scattered in the two innings powered the early uprising which produced in a 7-5 Hornersville win over Bertrand.

Bertrand cut the early led with three runs in the third frame, scoring on two hits and capitalizing on an error to guide the rally. Two hits in the following inning put the final Bertrand runs on the score board.

Hornersville's Moore picked up the win with a five-hit performance from the mound while Branum and Kackley anchored the winners 11-hit lineup with two apiece.

Blackburn paced the Bertrand lineup with two hits and scored two runs, along with Hooper. Jones went the distance on the mound for the loss.

In the second game, Poplar Bluff's Godwin delivered the key blow with two out in the bottom of the last inning and lifted Poplar Bluff to the 4-3 win over Chaffee. The Poplar Bluff pitcher aided his own cause with the seventh-inning double that drove in leadoff batter, Morris, who singled.

Chaffee jumped into the early lead with a two-run production in the fourth inning. Back-to-back singles led off the rally as McGuire and Chambers picked up the hits and scored the first runs as a sacrifice and a single from Horrell powered the inning.

McGuire's leadoff home run in the sixth frame lifted the Chaffee squad into a 3-0 lead. It was McGuire's second hit of the game and his second run of the contest. Chambers collected two hits in the seven-hit Chaffee lineup.

Two hits in the final two innings powered the come-from- behind effort by the Poplar Bluff squad. Hite's double and Baldwin's triple powered the three-run scoring effort in the sixth to tie the contest, 3-3. The tying tactics set up the final game-winning blast in the seventh for the Poplar Bluff hurler.

Godwin paced the winners with a two-hit production and Taylor blasted three hits in three trips to the plate to anchor the winners' nine-hit attack.

Gullett Regains Form

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"That was about as close as he can get to himself without being there," Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench said of battery-mate Don Gullett.

How's that again?

"I can't really tell if I'm back to myself just yet," Gullett added.

A little clarification, please.

Well, Gullett, who posted a 16-6 record last season, had been expected to be a major factor in the Reds' drive to the top of the National League's West Division this year.

But the 21-year-old left-hander contracted hepatitis in January - a condition the Reds didn't even discover until May — and had been virtually useless to the baseball club this season. For two innings he'd be able to blaze in his fast ball, then he'd get so weak he could barely wind up to pitch.

But on Tuesday night, outfielder Pete Rose said, "He looked like he used to." And Bench added: "His ball really jumped at times when he reared back and wanted to throw it, he could do it."

Gullett got the call after just one inning in Philadelphia when Cincinnati starter Wayne Simpson was forced out of the game after reinjuring a calf muscle.

The 6-foot Kentuckian came out of the bullpen and, for the next eight innings, hurled fourhit shutout ball, striking out eight and walking just one to provide the Reds with a 3-0 victory over the Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 8-6, the New York Mets blanked Atlanta 5-0, San Francisco beat the Chicago Cub 7-5, San Diego slugged St. Louis 7-1 and Montreal edged Houston 3-2 in 10 innings.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox nipped Milwaukee 2-1, Kansas City slipped past the New York Yankees 7-6, Boston blanked Texas 3-0, Cleveland topped California 4-3 in 10 innings and Minnesota tripped Detroit 6-7 in 13. Baltimore and Oakland were idle.

Tony Perez singled home the only run the Reds needed in the first inning and they scored two more in the fifth on Bobby Tolan's RBI single and loser Wayne Twitchell's wild pickoff throw attempt that allowed Joe Morgan to scamper home from third.

The Dodgers, edging within two games of the second-place Astros in the West, used Willie Davis' two-run homer in the sixth inning, his third round-tripper in two games, to turn back the Pirates.

And the Mets, celebrating an anniversary of sorts, began dreaming of their glory season of 1969. It was just three years ago that New York, 9½ games behind first-place Chicago, began their incredible charge toward the top of the East Division. Now they trail first-place Pittsburgh by nine games.

"Nothing is impossible," Jim McAndrew said before he and reliever Tug McGraw combined for a five-hit shutout against the Braves. "I think we're a better team than we were in '69. Of course, the Pirates are a better team than the Cubs were then ... but the Pirates haven't had a slump.

Ed Kranepool drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Tommie Agee hit a two-run homer to lead the Mets past Atlanta.

Rookie Garry Maddox of the Giants had one of the biggest days of his career by driving in six runs with a pair of homers, one of them his first major league grand-slam. It enabled Juan Marichal, 5-13, to post his first victory in more than a month although he needed relief help to beat the Cubs.

Clarence Gaston and Fred Kendall drove in two runs apiece and Mike Caldwell scattered six hits to carry the Padres past the Cardinals.

Red Sox Cut Orioles Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox pulled the curtain down on the Texas Rangers but it was nothing like the act they played in the dressing room afterwards.

After beating the Rangers 3-0 on John Curtis' three-hitter Tuesday night:

Tommy Harper helped play a joke on reporters. Reggie Smith, who hit two home runs, wouldn't talk to anybody. And Manager Eddie Kasko was extremely short of patience.

Harper sat on Smith's stool while a Texas broadcaster mistakenly congratulated him on his two-homer night. The rest of the Red Sox laughed at the broadcaster's blunder.

Then, when Smith finally appeared at his locker, he refused to answer questions. Staring blankly while he was questioned, the Red Sox outfielder soon strolled away to shave.

Kasko, when later facing the same reporters, kept his comments short and sweet.

Said one writer: "He was surly. It seemed like he wished that we'd just go away as soon as possible."

Things were relatively tame around the rest of baseball's American League as the Minnesota Twins nipped the Detroit Tigers 7-6 in 13 innings; the Cleveland Indians beat the California Angels 4-3 in 10 innings; the Kansas City Royals turned back the New York Yankees 7-6 and the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

National league results: Cincinnati 3, Philadelphia 0; Montreal 3, Houston 2 in 10 innings; New York 5, Atlanta 0; San Diego 7, St. Louis 1; Los Angeles 8, Pittsburgh 6 and San Francisco 7, Chicago 5.

The fourth-place Red Sox moved within four games of the front-running Baltimore Orioles in the tight American league East race. The Orioles were idle Tuesday night.

Jim Nettles and Rod Carew each singled in a run as Minnesota rallied to beat Detroit in the 13th inning. The burst broke a 5-5 tie and offset a run in the Tigers' half of the frame on Gates Brown's homer.

The second-place Tigers dropped 1½ games behind the Orioles and maintained a halfgame lead on the Yankees, who are in third place.

Cleveland, another team in that wild pennant chase, won with a two-run rally in the bottom of the 10th. Frank Duffy's bases-loaded single with two out capped the outburst.

California had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the 10th on Bob Oliver's third RBI of the game before the fifth-place Indians came back to win and move within eight games of Baltimore.

Lou Piniella's run-scoring single capped a three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth that pulled Kansas City past New York. Steve Hovley's two-run single tied the score before Piniella came through.

The rally wiped out a 6-4 Yankee advantage taken in the top of the ninth on Bobby Murcer's two-run triple.

"We came back pretty good," said New York Manager Ralph Houk. "We just couldn't hold them in the ninth. That was a rough one. That shows how important Sparky Lyle is to us."

The White Sox scored the winning runs in the fourth inning on a home run by Mike Andrews and a run-scoring single by Rick Reichardt to beat Milwaukee and close to within one game of idle, firstplace Oakland in the American league West.

"Every now and then I do something," said Andrews. "I hope that this is the start of something. I've hit the ball well the last week or so before tonight—but I haven't been getting any hits."

Punt Pass Kick

Nationally, more than a million youngsters are expected to enroll in the huge youth program this year, the fifth consecutive year the number of participants has topped that level.

Aged eight to 13, they will make their opening bids for the Football Hall of Fame in less than two months. Six will make it — having their names inscribed at Canton, Ohio, as national PP&K winners.

The program is sponsored by participating U. S. Ford dealers and the National Football League (NFL).

Registration closes Sept. 29. Registrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

PP&K participants punt, pass and kick against others their own age. Any youngster aged eight through 13 is eligible. There is no entry fee and no special equipment is needed. There is no body contact during PP&K competition and participants do not lose amateur status.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy. One point is given for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point is deducted for every foot off a line.

Six levels of competition produce six winners. Trophies are awarded to winners at all levels. Competition will begin Sept. 30 with dealer- level contests.

Six national finalists will represent the NFL's American Conference and six the National Football Conference on Jan. 21 at the Pro Bowl game in Dallas. Finalists, their parents and sponsoring dealers will be guests of Ford Division.

Big Red Home Debut Saturday

ST. LOUIS — After dividing a pair of pre-season road outings, the St. Louis Football Cardinals make their 1972 home debut Saturday night when they entertain the Denver Broncos in the annual Cardinal Glennon Hospital benefit game.

Kickoff for the contest, which will be the Broncos' first appearance in St. Louis, will be at 8 p.m.

The Big Red stand 1-1 in pre-season competition, opening with a 27-10 victory over Buffalo two weeks ago, but being stopped by Kansas City, 24-14, last Saturday. Denver was blanked by the Washington Redskins, 41-0, in its opener last week.

In Glennon game competition, the Cardinals are riding an eight-game unbeaten streak that began with a 30-21 victory over Baltimore in 1964 and was extended last season with a 16-14 victory over Houston. Since the inception of the Charity game in 1955, when the Cardinals were still based in Chicago, the Big Red has won 11 times, lost 5 and tied 1.

Saturday's game will be the Cardinals' third- straight pre-season test against an American Football Conference opponent, with a fourth scheduled next Thursday when the Big Red visits Houston. In the only previous meeting between the two teams, the Broncos registered a 26-16 pre-season victory at Denver in 1970.

After two games, newly-acquired running back Leon Burns leads Cardinal rushers with 69 yards in 17 carries, an average of 4.9 yards per attempt. Another newcomer, Craig Baynham, is next with 42 yards in eight tries. Quarterback Gary Cuozzo has thrown for 170 yards, while Mel Gray paces the receivers with six catches for 76 yards.

Coach Bob Hollway expressed satisfaction with the progress made by the Big Red defense, which has allowed fewer than 90 passing yards in each of the first two games. Cardinal defenders have recorded three interceptions, one a 35-yard touchdown return by linebacker Mike McGill.

Following Saturday's game, the Big Red will return to its training camp at Lake Forest (111.), for the final two weeks of work before moving back to St. Louis. After the game at Houston on Thursday, the Cardinals will travel to Green Bay on September 2 and conclude the pre-season schedule in St. Louis a week later against the Chicago Bears.

Owens Leads League

Collecting nine hits in eighteen trips to the plate last week, Gary Owens raised his batting average to a .355 mark for the Yankees' Oneonta, N.Y., "A" farm club, and moved into the number one hitter's position among league batters.

The .500 performance last week upped the former Scott County Central High School standout's percentage into the league's top position. Owens' seasonal mark includes 27 hits in 76 trips to the plate for the Yankee club and he has scored nine runs. His total hits include two doubles, a triple, and 10 RBI's.

Gideon's Mark Littell gave up four hits in seven innings of work last week for the Royals' Waterloo, Iowa, farm club and lost his sixth game of the season. Littell's record dipped to an 8-6 mark with the loss. Littell picked up six strikeouts in the game and moved his total strikeout mark to 152 in 121 innings of work. Littell sports a 3.12 earned run average for his 20 appearances through the season.

Greg Buys worked only four innings in two games last week but received two losses for the Yankee - Padre Kinston, N.C., farm club. Buys' record dropped to a 5-11 mark for 20 appearances. The former Kennett high school athlete has a 5.54 earned run average and a total of 78 strikeouts in 104 innings of work.

Waterfowl Hunting Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department today announced waterfowl hunting regulation frameworks for the fall which include a prohibition against hunting canvasback ducks and also redhead ducks, except in the Pacific Flyway.

Other regulations remain about the same as last year.

The department said the numbers of canvasbacks and redheads have steadily declined in recent seasons, despite reduced hunting bags.

Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton said neither specie is in danger of extinction, but that "they certainly are in trouble, and stern measures are needed to help rebuild their populations."

He said he agrees with the recommendations of waterfowl experts that, "If we err, we should err on the side of sound conservation."

The department said hunters can anticipate a good year for other species. Special restrictions exist in some flyways for wood ducks, mallards and black ducks. Most species are expected to move in the flyways in about the same numbers as 1971.

Nipping at the number one spot, H. Tracer of Rector, Ark., brought his 94 in for a close second in the Hobby feature. Car 555 with an unidentified driver came in for the number three position. A Matthews driver, Robert Daniels, placed fourth in Car 50. Bill Childers of Blythevill, Ark., took fifth position in his number 7.

Rushin's L-88 bested the competition in the first heat of Super C. Barkley took the number one spot in the second heat. Earl Jones, of Rector, Ark., marked up a win in the third heat of Super C.

In the first run of the Hobby, Tracer's 94 sped to capture first place. In the second heat, Bill Hay of Sikeston drove car 260 in for a win. Tracer came back in the third heat to take another first in his 94.

A Dexter woman, Mayves Corder, took over car L-88 and took the number one position in the Powder Puff race. An unnamed Blytheville, Ark., female brought her number 7 in second best in the not-so-feminine sport. Linda Hale of Sikeston brought in S-11 for a third place finish. Brend James of Sikeston took fourth in car 50.

Next week, as an added attraction, an amateur's race will follow the regular action. Men and boys over the age of 18, who have never driven in a race, will take a turn at the wheel.

Washington Report | By Senator Symington

MISSOURI GETS OVER $13 MILLION IN HEALTH MANPOWER FUNDS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Through legislation passed by Congress, the largest block of federal funds for educating health professionals in the nation's history, totaling nearly $375 million, has been awarded this past year; assisting Missouri schools with over $13 million to help meet the shortage of doctors, dentists, and other health professionals.

The Health Manpower Training and Nurse Training Acts became law last Nov. 18 to increase the number of health professionals by assisting schools of medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, optometry, pharmacy, podiatry, veterinary medicine and nursing. Missouri has 43 such health profession schools; 34 in nursing and 11 other health professions.

Of the recently awarded $375 million, $10,149,053 has been granted to Missouri's health profession schools other than nursing and an additional $3,333,350 specifically to nursing schools in the State.

Included in the Missouri funding is a $543,200 financial distress grant to St. Louis University School of Medicine, as well as funds totaling $1,308,820 in loans and $600,509 in scholarships to all 11 Missouri health profession schools.

Nursing student loans totaling $376,343 and nursing student scholarships amounting to $449,898 were awarded in 25 Missouri nursing schools. Two construction grants were also approved: Avila College in Kansas City received $402,911 for a new building for nursing baccalaureate studies, and Penn Valley Community College in Kansas City was awarded $36,887 for equiping the nursing section on the new campus scheduled to be occupied January, 1973.

Financial distress grants totaling $325,873 were awarded to three nursing schools in the state – Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg, St. Louis Municipal School of Nursing, and St. Louis University School of Nursing.

If these national programs had been available earlier, it might have been possible to help save the dental school at St. Louis University.

Several years ago St. Louis University's dental school was forced to close its doors because of insufficient financial support -- a loss to our state as well as the nation. We are fortunate in still having two outstanding dental schools at the University of Missouri in Kansas City and at Washington University in St. Louis.

Washington University's dental school had been operating on a trial basis when St. Louis University's dental school was forced to close. The school was issued a mandate to become financially self-sufficient over a three- year period. Without the federal assistance provided through the health manpower legislation, which comprises about 26% of the dental school budget, Washington University Dental School officials have advised they would have difficulty remaining open. This year the dental school received $807,431 through the health manpower legislation.

By helping to strengthen our health educational systems with assistance for students in medical and allied health fields, this legislation marks an important step towards increasing health manpower so that we may meet the rising demand for medical services.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports funds approved for health professional and nursing schools in Missouri as follows:

U.S. Short 29,000 Black Doctors

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The United States is short about 29,000 black physicians, leaders of the black medical community said here Tuesday in conjunction with the convention of the National Medical Association.

Dr. Emmergson C. Walden, a black physician from Baltimore sand president of the National Medical Association, said only 6,000 black physicians are practicing in this country, while blacks represent about 13 per cent of the population and the country has about 300,000 physicians.

"There are still places in this country where a white physician will refuse to treat a sick black person," he said. "And therenis no question that some white physicians hve a different feeling toward their black pwtients. Blacks should be in the health professions according to their numbers in thespopulation."

Dr.nJohn . S. Holloman, a former NMA presidenl, said there has been an increase in the number of black medical students in the last two years but added eidoubts if the percentages will change markedly in the foreseeable futurs.

Black medical leadars and ohz NMA are struving for a goal of at least 5,400 blwck and minority medical students by 1975. But there are only about 12,000 freshman medical school positions available and about twice that manynyoung p3rsons apply for those positions each year.

Although admission committees at most medical shoos are doing a fine job in selecting students, Dr. Walden said, the minmrity student faces dualihurdles th$t are harder to overcome than being admitted to medical school because they are less identifiable' situations.

He said that surveys by the NMA have shown that student counselors consistently discourage promising black students from seeking medical careers by telling them it's too expensive and takes too long.

And once the minority student is in medical school, Dr. Walden said, there are also documented cases of their being taken advantage of by faculty.

Board Waits To Order Textbooks

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Jefferson City school board has decided not to order free textbooks for local private schools until a Cole County Circuit Court case is decided.

In a meeting Monday night, the board approved guidelines for implementing the free textbook law but balked at ordering books for private schools in the district.

The law went into effect Sunday but state Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carthage, challenged the constitutionality of the law by asking the circuit court to hold up any state payments to school boards for purchase of extra books.

Under the law, local districts have responsibility for setting policies on distribution and use of free textbooks.

Joe Nichols Jr., superintendent of schools, said he wasn't sure whether the district could be reimbursed for books purchased with incidental fees after the free textbook funds are released by the court.

The district already has ordered about $50,000 worth of texbooks for public schools this year.

Launch Campaign Against Crooked Business Firms

KWNSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's attorney general launched today a special task force against big and crooked business firms which prey upgn the inner-city poor in Kansas City.

Atty Gen. John C. Danforth asked four volunteers to show him the biggest crooks. He announced the appointment of three special investigators to follow up their complaints.

"I'm very excited about it," Danforth told a news conference. "There is a chance that a small amount of money can produce a very substantial effect. Resentment at being cheated is a major cause of unrest in metropolitan areas."

A similar effort was started in St. Louis in November of 1971. Danforth reported it has resulted in injunction suits against a major furniture store, an automobile transmission company and an insurance adjuster. The three cases still are pending, and Danforth said he expects there may be three or four more within the year.

The four members of the steering committee are M. C. Richardson, editor and publisher of Inner and Outer City Magazine; Dr. Girard Bryant, former president of Penn Valley Junior College, Mrs. Jesse Gaines, a community service worker, and Chris Lopez, director of Guadalupe Center.

Paul Corbett, on loan from the Kansas City Police Department, will be the chief investigator. His helpers will be Ronald Franks and Randall Simms.

Danforth said the strategy will be to press a limited number of well prepared civil suits against major offenders rather than handle a large number of individual complaints.

The Kansas City task force will have a budget of about $42,000 for a year, with $30,000 of its coming from the federal government's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The Republican attorney general said he had not been able to get any money for such a campaign through the Democratic state administration.

Dog Days Cast A Strange Spell

By MORRIE RYSKIND

Beverly Hills is having a heat wave and at the moment I'm so kerflummoxed that I don't remember whether it was Isaac Newton or Izaac Walton who discovered the law of gravity. But, whichever Ike it was on whose head the apple fell, I know the event did not take place during the sultry days of August. No human being, genius or not, could have figured the causal relationship under such stress.

President Nixon has wisely fled Washington for a cypress-shaded retreat in San Clemente which overlooks the Pacific. And I suggest the nation would fare better if Congress did likewise.

For this is that fateful period of the year when only mad dogs, Englishmen and the faithful of SDS go out in the midday sun. When the thermometer hits 100 and no leaf stirs, even our most serious thinkers have been known to declare a moratorium on celebration, lest even the slightest mental activity add to the heat, and seek anodyne in a tall and frosted mint julep.

Indeed, the ancient astrologers were wont to issue solemn warnings against making commitments of any kind during what they called the "dog days" And, though I do not follow the forecasts of Jeane Dixon with regularity, I doubts she would break with her predecessors on this issue.

The term comes from the fact that, at this annual point of time, Sirius, the Dog Star, rises in conjunction with the sun, which apparently throws things out of kilter, perhaps because it leads to a fight over who gets to use the bathroom first.

At any rate, it was to this phenomenon that the ancients attributed the heat and humidity of August, as well as the passing strange events that occurred during the conjunction. Tombs would open, headless horsemen would parade silently, and little green men could be seen waving from a flying saucer.

In more recent years, the Sirius - Sol conjunction put Winsted, Conn., on the map. Back in the 20s, the town historian began recording some weird goings-on that befell that normally quiet hamlet only during the dog days.

For example, a duck would hatch a pair of Siamese - twin ducklings, a cat would adopt some motherless squirrels and go all over town begging peanuts for them, a plaque of toads and frogs would fall from the sky during a sudden shower and a poodle had mastered the intricacies of the piano and could play any popular tune if you turned the pages for him.

(Incidentally, the above paragraph is lifted bodily from a piece I wrote on the dog days of Winsted some eight years ago. Normally, I would have substituted other examples — but, please, not in this heat.)

Though no affidavits came with the stories, they were accepted unhesitatingly and appeared on the front pages of almost every important evening newspaper in the country, with a new item for every day of Sirius' reign. For at least two decades we were all mightily entertained by the stories emanating from Winsted.

I attribute the disappearance of this bit of Americana to a creeping agnosticism. I myself am a true believer and do not doubt that the poltergeists are still at work in Winsted during the dog days, and so sorely miss the box in the evening newspaper which went something like this:

Winstead, Conn. — Henry, a trained rooster belonging to Sam Blivin, tenor for the local Barber Shop Quartet, has learned to crow "Sweet Adeline" instead of "Cockadoodledoo" when he awakens. Henry will make his professional debut with the quartet at the Strawberry Festival.

Ah, those were the days! Still all is not lost. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, I see by my newspaper, has recently filed suit against NASA to have our astronauts cease and desist unconstitutionally practicing religion by reading from Genesis while on duty. The dispatch does not come from Winsted, but a thing like that could be taken seriously only under the spell of Sirius.

Make mine another mint julep, please.

State Fair Exhibits New Blue Catfish

SEDALIA -- Old Blue, star of the Missouri Conservation Commission exhibit at the State Fair for over 30 years, is dead. It is estimated that over 11 million persons saw the huge Blue or Mississiippi catfish at the Fair during the years he was on display there.

After Old Blue died, the Conservation agents began searching for a catfish to replace him. A successor, New Blue -- weighing approximately 35 pounds -- was caught in the Osage River near Warsaw this spring. New Blue is younger than Old Blue but is so identical to his predecessor that visitors will have difficulty believing that he isn't Old Blue.

New Blue will make his debut, along with many animals, at the 70th annual Missouri State Fair Agu. 18-27. Other live Conservation Commission exhibits include a coyote, 15 racoons, a redtail fox, two possums, a red-tail hawk, several striped skunks, a bobcat and a number of white-tail deer.

Lost Tombstone Needs Someone To Claim It

KENNETT — City police are looking for someone to claim a tombstone turned in at the police station several weeks ago, after it was found in the city.

Police Capt. Bill Cox said it had been at the station for weeks and no one has claimed it.

The name inscribed on it is Cephus Booker, 1853-1936, with the following inscription: "Christ is my hope."

Capt. Cox said he hoped a relative of Booker's will claim the lost tombstone.

Birthday Torte

Too soon the vacation ends!

And I won't elaborate on the old cliches about vacations not being worth the effort to get away from home, out of town and back to a piled-up desk. Just consider the motion seconded by me.

And then there were elections -- and still are! Politics tastes rather like a late-season cucumber ... over and over, I think.

Moving away from the serious, how about a party? Must tell you about the sourdough pancakes served at a luncheon yesterday ... terrific! And very light. I'll pass the recipe on at a later date, but with this word -- you'll need to brew up a "starter" or get one from a friend. It's a great idea for winter months, especially, for the little pot of yeast allows you to do great things on short notice ... such as pancakes, biscuits, breads, etc. We'll detail the issue later, after my new cookbook arrives!

Concerning those rules listed, they're courtesy General Foods and the torte is great. Have not tested the meringue bars, so do your thing.

Company's coming ...

BIRTHDAY TORTE

2-1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ginger
1 cup vegetable shortening*
1-1/2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk*
1 cup crushed fortified oat flakes
3 egg whites

*To use butter or margarine, decrease milk to 1 cup.

Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in vanilla. Then alternately add flour mixture and milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in crushed oat flakes. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks will form; then carefully fold into batter.

Pour into two 9-inch layer pans which have been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degree for 35 to 40 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into center come out clean. Cool in pans 10 minutes; then remove from pans and finish cooling on racks. Split each cake layer to make 4 thin layers. Fill and frost. Decorate with birthday candles.

SEA FOAM FROSTING

2 egg whites
1-1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of ginger
Dash of salt
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg whites, sugar, cinnamon, ginger, salt, and water in top of double broiler. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until thoroughly mixed -- about 1 minute. Place over boiling water and beat constantly at high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater until frosting stands in stiff peaks -- about 7 minutes. (Stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula, or spoon.) Remove from boiling water. For a smooth and satiny frosting, pour at once into a large bowl for final beating. Add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread -- about 1 minute. Makes about 5-1/2 cups frosting.

Lemon-Coconut

LEMON - COCONUT MERINGUE BARS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 -1/4 cups Coconut
1/2 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons lemon rind
2 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cream butter. Gradually add 1/3 cup sugar, creaming well after each addition. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Blend in salt and flour. Stir in 1 cup of the coconut, the pecans, and lemon rind. Spread evenly in a lightly-greased 13x9 -inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes, or until golden brown around edges.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy throughout. Gradually add 1/2 cup sugar, beating thoroughly after each addition. Gradually add lemon juice and continue beating until meringue will form very stiff shiny peaks. Spread over pastry in pan. Sprinkle top with remaining 1/4 cup coconut. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, or until topping is golden brown. Cool; then cut into 1 -1/2x2 inch bars. Cover and store at room temperature. Makes 32 bars.

World History Wrapped Up

THE COLUMBIA HISTORY OF THE WORLD. Editors John A. Garraty and Peter Gay. Harper & Row. 1,237 pages. $20.

In these days when so many occurrences, ranging from the disturbing to the terrifying, is the spring from events going back for centuries and even millennia, a book that tries bravely to wrap up the story of man, his world and the universe in a little over 1,200 pages should be helpful to us all.

Columbia University has launched such a vessel, freighted with a cargo of countless facts. The two editors and nearly 40 other contributors have in general performed their Herculean labor of picking and choosing courageously.

The editors: John A. Garraty is professor of American history at Columbia; Peter Gay, formerly at Columbia, now teaches at Yale. On the whole there is a fair balance between narration, inevitable though some-what put down by sophisticates as interpretation for China, for instance, from the bravely to wrap up the story of clarification. This must have earliest times of man's political man, his world and the universe presented some problems, particularly for Gay, identified for some time as one of the more "analytical" historians.

The book puts mere man properly in his place, beginning with some discussion of the creation of the world, solar system and even the universe, according to modern views.

Most of the main epochs, ages and periods in man's story are well-covered. The chapters dealing with Asia and Africa — on which most of us Americans are dimly informed — are most instructive. We learn of the tides of both invasion and expansion that have swept across history.

Sales To Russia Mark "New Era For Wheat Industry"

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The chairman of the Kansas Wheat Commission has hailed the sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union as a "perfect example of what can be accomplished through the combined efforts of private trading companies, government offices and trade associations."

And, an official of Great Plains Wheat Inc., foreign wheat market developer for several midwestern states, said the break through in American wheat sales to Russia "has begun a new era in the U.S. wheat industry."

The comments of A. Rex Cozad, Norcatur, Kan., chairman of the commission, and Joseph Halow, Great Plains Wheat executive vice president, were contained in a statement made public today by the Kansas Wheat Commission.

The release estimates that export of U.S. wheat could reach one billion bushels this year.

"Although the Soviets probably would have purchased some grains because of their own shortfall this year," said Cozad, "sales of such magnitude and on a recurring basis would not have been possible if trade policy issues had not been resolved and shipping restrictions not been lifted.

Great Plains Wheat Inc. works for wheat producers in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Colorado, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas.

Symington Raises Questions About Revenue Sharing Bill

WASHINGTON — In a letter dated Aug. 2 to the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Stuart Symington raised three issues of major concern about the House- passed revenue sharing bill (HR 14370) now being considered by the committee in executive session:

1. Fiscal capability of the Federal government to grant $29.5 billion in the next five years to 50 states and 39,000 local governments in the next five years when there was a budget deficit of $23 billion in fiscal year 2972 and the fiscal, 1973 deficit is already estimated at $30 billion.

2. Division of accountability, giving the responsibility for levying the taxes to finance to Congress, but the responsibility for making the expenditures to the State and local governments.

3. Unequal distribution of funds under the formulas in the bill.

On the inequality in distribution of funds, Symington said a study by his staff showed that Missourians paid 2.67 percent of all personal income taxes in fiscal year 1971, but his state and local governments would get back only 2.03 percent of the proposed revenue sharing funds.

"Under the formulas in the House- passed bill," said Symington, "for every dollar Missourians would have to pay to support revenue sharing, our State and the local governments would get back only 76 cents, and that just does not make sense for the people of Missouri."

In his letter, Symington said, "We urge that the committee re- examine the basic concepts of the legislation and consider other ways in which the Federal Government might help local and state governments improve their fiscal situation."

The full text of Sen. Symington's letter to Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee:

"The proposed State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act (H. R. 14370), as passed by the House on June 22 and now being considered by your Committee, raises three issues of major concern.

The fiscal capability of the Federal Government to grant $29.6 billion in additional Federal funds in the next five years raises the first question: Can the Federal government provide $5.3 billion this year in fiscal relief to 39,000 units of local government and 50 states?

Even with overwithholding an estimated $7 billion, the deficit in fiscal 1972 was $23 billion; and the 1973 deficit is expected to be more than $30 billion.

Last March the Congress approved an increase of $20 billion in the debt ceiling, to $450 billion; and it now appears that another increase will have to be made before the end of this calendar year.

Only last week, July 26, the President sent a message to the Congress warning that increased spending will inevitably result in higher taxes and further inflation in the form of higher prices.

May we therefore respectfully urge your Committee to examine with care the current capabilities of the Federal Government to finance its own deficits as well as those of state and local governments.

In this connection, we also have reservations as to the wisdom of a five- year commitment that would both authorize and appropriate funds in a manner which would by- pass the normal Congressional appropriation process.

The second issue of paramount concern is the division of public accountability in the House bill. In this bill the Congress would have the responsibility for imposing the taxes, but State and local governmental units would have the authority on their expenditure.

When revenue sharing proposals were first proposed a number of years ago, we objected to them because of the separation of the power to tax from the power to spend.

The objectionable features of such arrangements are well stated in the dissenting views presented in the House Ways and Means Committee report on H. R. 14370:

"Public accountability is severely undermined by this bill. The responsibility for raising taxes is divorced from the dispensation of public benefits. Congress will be unable to balance the burden of increased taxation imposed at the Federal level against benefits disbursed by the 50 states and 39,000 units of local governments all across this land.

"Conversely, the 50 states and 39,000 localities dispensing public benefits will be relieved of the obligation to carefully weigh the benefits of increased public expenditure against the burdens imposed on their community through increased taxation.

"The most serious defect, however, will be the inability of the public to measure the performance of their elected officials at various governmental levels by balancing the tax burdens imposed by these officials against the public benefits they have provided."

The third area of major concern lies in the difficulty of arriving at a fair and equitable system of distribution of the federal revenues to be shared, and at the same time, to reach and assist those local and State governments which, for good cause, are in greatest need.

As we read the complex formulas contained in H. R. 14370, one- third of the $3.5 billion to be distributed to local governments in the first year would be allocated on the basis of population, another third on the basis of urbanized population and the remaining third on the basis of relative per capita income.

It is proposed that State governments receive an initial $1.8 billion annually, with the funds distributed one- half on the basis of the relative individual income tax collections of a state, the other half based on the relative total tax effort of the state and all its local governments.

In general, the formula embodies the idea of rewarding most those states which put forth the greater tax effort.

According to a study made by our Staff, the result under these formulas is that our State, which paid 2.67 percent of all Federal personal income taxes in fiscal 1971, would receive only 2.03 percent of this proposed $5.3 billion.

Under the formulas, the initial year State and local governments in Missouri would receive $107.5 million, as compared to $179.7 million for New Jersey, $137 million for Wisconsin and $649 million for New York.

A Library of Congress study shows that when allocations for State governments alone are broken down to a per capita distribution there are wide variations. For example, New Jersey would receive $6.12 per person, Wisconsin $14.72 per person, New York $17.26 per person; but we in Missouri would receive only $5.87 per person.

We question the fairness of such a result, as well as the extent to which it would answer the problems of those governments most in need.

Presumably the formulas are designed to make distributions on the basis of need and effort, but despite the three factors employed for local governments and the two factors considered for state distribution, we are doubtful that such formulas will provide results which will be satisfactory in the widely varying situations that exist with respect to local and State governments throughout the United States.

Responsible and efficient local government is essential to the daily lives of Americans and to our federal system; and it is clear that many State and local governments have need for fiscal relief.

The revenue sharing program in H. R. 14370, however, does not address the basic causes of the fiscal crises by seeking to increase the tax base of State and local government; nor does the bill offer incentives for local governmental organizations to be more efficient or more responsive.

Because of the foregoing reasons we urge that the Committee re- examine the basic concepts of this legislation and consider other ways in which the Federal government might help local and State governments improve their fiscal situations.

Among these alternatives are Federal income tax credits on a portion of state and local income taxes, reduction of restrictions and matching requirements on present grant-in- aid programs, and/or provision for larger grants and lower matching requirements for metropolitan areas that solve their fiscal problems on an area- wide basis.

We further urge the Committee to retain, and consider the expansion of, the "piggyback" collection provision currently contained in the House- passed bill."

SeMo State Evening Registration Easier

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- An all- new -- and - easier -- registration process has been adopted for students interested in taking undergraduate evening courses during the fall semester at Southeast Missouri State College, Dean David Strand has announced.

Students will register by mail for the 34 courses tentatively scheduled, Dr. Strand said. In the past they have had to come to the campus on a pre- arranged night and often have been disappointed, when certain classes did not materialize because of insufficient enrollment.

Many of the night courses are offered only if at least 15 students sign up.

Of the new system, Dr. Strand said, "In this fashion we can more accurately assess the demand or preferences of the people interested in night classes and match these in such a fashion that more courses actually materialize."

"The new procedure also provides an opportunity for people who have a conflict on what previously was the night of evening class enrollment to sign up for a course, and it avoids the necessity of a person making an extra trip to the campus just to enroll."

Dr. Strand also pointed out that the new system would give the college an opportunity to schedule additional sections of any course which turns out to be especailly popular and even to add courses not previously scheduled, if there is a demand for them.

The registration- by- mail system will work this way:

A student should obtain a schedule of fall classes from the admissions office at the college. The preliminary registration form is on page 21 of the booklet.

After deciding upon the evening course or courses he wants to take, the student should complete the form and mail it, along with a check for the proper amount, to the registrar's office at the college.

In the event a course does not materialize, a student will either be assigned another choice (if he has indicated one) or his check will be returned to him.

Prospective students will be notified the week of Aug. 28- Sept. 1 if the class or classes in which they are interested will be formed.

The cost for undergraduate evening courses at Southeast Missouri State is $16 per semester hour for Missouri residents plus a $2 textbook fee for each course. Students enrolling in the evening program must meet the normal entrance requirements of the college, including the submission of transcripts from the high school they attended and any other colleges attended.

Most of the courses scheduled are for three semester hours of credit and will meet only one night each week, beginning at either 6 or 7 p.m.

First meeting of Tuesday night classes will be Sept. 5, Wednesday night classes Sept. 6, and Thursday night classes Sept. 7. Monday night classes will first meet Sept. 11.

The following courses have been tentatively scheduled: Agriculture 530, Home Horticulture, Tuesday, 6-9 p.m., 2 credit hours; Business 131, Elementary Accounting I, Monday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Business 132, Elementary Accounting II, Monday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Business 251, Business Organization and Management, Tuesday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Business 252, Business Correspondence and Reporting, Tuesday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Business 438, CPA Problems, Tuesday, 6-9 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m.- noon, 3 credit hours (class meets for nine weeks only).

Business 556, Personnel Management, Monday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Computer Science 100, Computer Fundamentals, Tuesday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Computer Science 101, Programming Fundamentals, Monday, 6-9 p.m., credit hours; Computer Science 203, Fortran IV Programming, Monday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours; Earth Science 115, Earth Science Laboratory, Monday, 7-9 p.m., 2 credit hours; Earth Science 110, World Regional Geography, Monday, 6-9 p.m., 3 credit hours;

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Nixon's Strategy No Name-Calling

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Republican strategists believe President Nixon has re-election victory in hand, provided he and Vice President Agnew maintain a tight discipline and keep off the low road of personalities and name-calling.

Discipline, indeed, is a key word in the Nixon camp these days. There is a determination not to be drawn into a free-swinging campaign. The judgment is that it is almost the only thing which could unite the torn Democrats and give some real hope to Sen. George McGovern.

The President himself is said to be so fully committed to a high-level, issue-oriented effort that he may engage in traditional campaigning only in the final two weeks before election this year.

And, according to present plan, Mr. Nixon may watch most of the Miami Beach Republican convention from his White House perch, staying above mundane politics until the time comes for his acceptance speech on Aug. 23.

It has already been reported that the President personally has admonished Spiro Agnew to refrain from direct personal assault on McGovern and his running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton. I am told this advice has been given to Agnew by others as well.

The vice president clearly was reflecting this careful counsel when he said a few days ago in Anchorage, Alaska, that this time it should be "possible" for him to campaign strictly on the issues.

Underlying this strategy is the notion that, for the first time in his several quests for the presidency, Nixon's men see his opponent more a focus on controversy than he is. They want to keep it that way.

They see McGovern stuck with a divided party, moderately plagued by internal staff squabbles, hung with confusing, disputed positions on welfare, tax reform, defense spending, amnesty for draft evaders.

In the view of Nixon's advisers, keeping to the high road does not rule out ample and continuing reference to McGovern's controversial proposals. They will be hammered hard by a variety of administration spokesmen.

The President's strategists think McGovern will respond by trying to portray himself as the victim of a "mean campaign," as the target of a typical "Old Nixon" barrage. The senator already has said some things in South Dakota that fit this pattern.

But Nixon's people question whether this posture will be convincing to many U.S. voters so long as the President himself "keeps his mouth shut" on McGovern the man.

If their judgment is correct, the consequence could be a further weakening of the long Democratic effort to sustain major hatred for Nixon as an evil figure who must be cast out of the White House at all costs.

That campaign had suffered grievously even before McGovern was nominated. The President's overtures to Peking and Moscow were widely approved. Most voters don't regard his withdrawal of more than 500,000 troops from Vietnam as inaction on the war. And, though it hasn't cured inflation and unemployment, he gets some credit for trying.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

NIXON WEAKENS AMERICA'S DEFENSE

During the past week, in response to President Nixon's call for fiscal responsibility at all levels of government, I supported an amendment on the floor of the Senate that would have held military spending to its current level.

In a speech on the floor of the Senate I charged the Nixon Administration with severely weakening the American defense posture. America must be strong militarily and we cannot derive such strength from waste and mismanagement.

But the strength of our military force must be matched by the quality of our life. If the proper balance is not maintained our entire system will suffer.

The Nixon administration has requested $83.4 billion in military spending for the fiscal year 1973, an increase of $6.3 billion over last year's budget. In addition, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has said he may ask for five billion more dollars too cover the enormous expense of escalating the bombing of North Vietnam.

A budget already swelled by waste is being expanded by an administration that wishes to perpetuate a military establishment that is already enfeebled by mismanagement and softened by excessive pampering.

At the outset of his administration, President Nixon coined the word "sufficiency." He stated that our military force should include exactly what is necessary to maintain security -- nothing more and nothing less. But just as in the case of other Nixon programs, the president's rhetoric has not matched his administration performance.

According to a recent Government Accounting Office study, cost overruns for weapons systems totalled $28.7 billion this year alone -- just one indication of the wastefulness of the administration's defense policies.

The American people should also know why it requires a gigantic supporting force to maintain a relatively small fighting force in the field. They should know why they have to pay for three multi- million dollar aircraft carriers just to make sure that one is in operation. They should know why the administration believes in continuing the arms race after reaching an agreement with the Russians to limit arms.

The Nixon program calls for the purchase of weapons systems that would be developed before the nature of any threat is known. The development of such weapons -- which may be outdated before they are in place -- is another example of the administration's colossal waste in defense spending.

This year's defense budget includes two programs which are top priority items. These two programs provide an excellent view of the Nixon defense philosophy.

The Trident submarine, a nuclear sub carrying missiles with a range of 6,000 miles, is being pushed with the idea that at some unspecified future date our current fleet of Polaris/ Poseidon submarines may become vulnerable to attack. As of yet, no facts have been provided to back up this claim. It is, of course, impossible to foresee what threats may exist a decade from now. It is entirely possible that the billion dollar Trident will be outmoded before it is even launched.

The B-1 bomber is being sought by the Pentagon as a replacement for the B-52 fleet that was guilt in the early 1960's. The most modern Soviet bombers were built in the 1950's and there is no indication that the Russians are planning to build more. We could, at little cost, restructure our B-52s to extend their life by 10 to 15 years. But Mr. Nixon would prefer to spend money to escalate the arms race for a plane we don't need. This reckless policy endangers our security.

These two weapons systems are only the most noteworthy of the mistaken defense policies of Richard Nixon, but they give a glaring example of the false priorities and mismanagement this administration fosters.

The resources of America should be invested in sound -- not frivolous -- defense. But our resources should also be directed to the needs of our own citizens. We must invest in an improvement in the quality of American life.

To make a delicious tartar sauce (to serve with fish) mix together 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish (or finely chopped dill pickle) and 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Makes about 2/3 cup or enough for 6 servings of fish.

Howard Faces Howard For 157th House Seat

DEXTER — In the November general election in the 157th District state representative race, it will be Howard vs. Howard.

Jerry T. Howard of Piedmont claimed victory for the Democratic nomination in last week's primary election and Elbert L. Howard of Puxico won the Republican nomination.

On the Democratic ticket, Jerry T. Howard polled 1,957 votes in the district while Delmer Barks of Dexter received 1,730 . Bob Barney of Bernie ran third with 1,714, Vernon Day of Fisk finished with 677 and Neal Mansfield of Dudley had 438 votes.

On the Republican ticket, Elbert Howard received 844 votes and Rolling (Corky) Wilson of Williamsville received 602 votes.

Jerry T. Howard carried Wayne County by a wide margin, but in Stoddard County he only polled 222 votes, and he lost Butler County to Vernon Day.

Bob Barney let the Democratic ticket in Stoddard County with 1,494 votes and Barks was second with 1,045. The 157th District in Stoddard County includes the two townships, Duck Creek and Liberty, with three precincts in Duck Creek -- Aaberville, Dudley and Puxico and six in Liberty township -- Bernie, Dexter (all three wards), Fowe and Pyle.

The Stoddard County vote was as follows:

Jerry T. Howard, 222; Delmer Barks, 1,045; Bob Barney, 1,494; Vernon Day, 285; and Neal Mansfield, 377.

In Bollinger County where two townships had six precincts in the 157th District, the vote was reported.

J. T. Howard, 117; Delmer Barks, 87; Bob Barney, 11; Vernon Day, 20; and Neal Mansfield 25.

Wayne County was the turning point for J.T. Howard as he tallied 1,549 votes. The figures released Wednesday morning included:

Republican Voting

In Stoddard County, Elbert Howard had 282 votes and Wilson had 105 votes.

In Wayne County, Howard had 350 votes and Wilson had 397.

Teacher Upheld In Union Fee Fight

WASHINGTON -- A Michigan schoolteacher won another round in her fight for academic freedom when the state Court of Appeals upheld a Circuit Court ruling reversing her firing for refusing to pay compulsory fees to a teacher union.

In a one-sentence rejection of the appeal, the appeals court said that the application for leave to appeal "is hereby denied for lack of merit on the ground presented."

The cause appears headed for the Michigan State Supreme Court, however, because the trial court's decision sidestepped the main issue in the case - the compulsory agency shop for Michigan public schoolteachers. (The trail court held that the decison of the Teacher Tenure Commission upholding the discharge was not based on material and substantial evident.)

The case involves Mrs. Carol Applegate, a teacher in the Grand Blanc public school system for more than 20 years, who was fired in 1969 at the insistence of teacher union officials for refusing to pay dues under a compulsory agency shop scheme. Earlier this year a Circuit Court judge ruled she had been wrongfully fired under the agency shop provisio, she was ordered rehired and the teacher union appealed.

The Applegate case is being watched closely around the country since it could be a landmark case in re-establishing competence and knowledge as the primary qualifications for teaching -not dues paying. The growth of compulsory union shop greements has been rapid-- particularly in Hawaii, Wisconsin, California and Michigan. In Michigan alone professional teacher union organizers have signed compulsory union agreements with nearly half of the 540 school districts. In community after community the word is: "No dues, no job!': To which Mrs. Applegate is asking, "Is this what education is all about?"

In Washington, officials of the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, which is backing the case, hailed the decision as an important one in the continuing battle against "the direct threat to our academic freedom as well as the threat to freedoms of association, speech, privacy and other legal rights arising out of compulsory union agreements for Public schoolteachers."

Mrs. Applegate viewed her latest victory with calm knowing that the battle for control of public school classrooms isn't over yet. "Academic freedom and our tenure will be lost," she said following the ruling, "if we fail to provide educators with the Right to Work without being forced to pay dues to teacher union professionals who care only about the dues money and little about what happens to our educational system."

"When I refused to support the Grand Blanc Education Association I did so because I could not in good conscience stand before my classes and say 'think' when I was being denied the right to think myself."

The Right to Work Foundation was established in 1968 to provide legal aid for workers who are suffering injustice as a result of employment didiscrimination under compulsory union membership arrangements and to provide legal assistance to such workers in protecting human and civil rights guaranteed to them under the constituion and our laws.

Kissinger Arrives In Saigon

Hint Peace Move

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Saigon tonight and Le Duc Tho, his North Vietnamese adversary in secret peace talks, flew to Hanoi amid widespread speculation about a new move to end the war.

There was no official confirmation of the new peace move, and Tho contended there was no basis for it. But some diplomates in Washington and Paris surmised that Kissinger, who met with Tho in Paris Monday, would try to persuade President Nguyen Van Thieu to agree to a compromise formula approaching the enemy's demand that Thieu step down.

Others suggested that Kissinger and Tho would report a deadlock in their secret Paris sessions, with Kissinger reassuring the uneasy Thieu that President Nixon will not let him down.

There also had been speculation in Saigon that Kissinger might fly on to Hanoi after ending his visit here Friday. But informed sources said Kissinger would fly from here to Tokyo Friday en route back to Wwshington.

He will stop in Tokyo to make final plans for the forthcoming summit conference between Nixon and Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka scheduled for Honolulu at the end of this month, sources said. Plans call for him to leave Tokyo on Saturday.

Tho, leaving Paris today, told newsmen he wanted to emphasize that his trip was "a routine one and has no other meaning, . . . is in the framework of my usual comings and goings." Tho, a member of North Vietnam's Politburo, said the speculation about his trip "in general . . . does no correspond to reality" and "could lead to inexact conclusions."

Kissinger, who met Tho in Paris Monday, will confer with Thieu and others in Saigon until late Friday. He will report back to Nixon before the Republican National Convention opens in Miami Beach next Monday.

Ziegler said Kissinger's two days in Saigon will include "a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including the negotiations in Paris."

He cautioned against speculating about a breakthrough in the Paris talks. He said the trip had been under consideration for several weeks.

Meanwhile, sources in Saigon disclosed today that Nixon has ordered another round of U.S. troop withdrawals beginning after Sept. 1, when the level is expected to be down to 39,000 men. This does not include another 100,000 Americans fighting the war from air bases in Guam and Thailand and from ships off the Vietnamese coast.

There seems little doubt that Nixon would like to have a Vietnam peace deal before the November election, but the White House is keeping the specific aim of Kissinger's journey a tight secret.

Public statements by Thieu since the new round of Kissinger - Tho sessions began a month ago have been interpreted here as showing concern by the Saigon leader that Nixon may ease the terms he set forth May 8.

Nixon said then that the bombing of North Vietnam will continue until Hanoi agrees to an Indochina cease-fire and release of U.S. prisoners, whereupon U.S. forces would pull out of South Vietnam within four months.

Hanoi has denounced Nixon's offer publicly and demanded a political settlement that would oust Thieu.

Hess Pleads Insanity

BENTON -- Frank Louis Hess of Rockview, accused of the May 12 murder of his wife, pleaded not guilty to first degree charges by reason of insanity in a preliminary hearing today before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Hess has just been returned to the Scott County jail from Farmington State Hospital, where he underwent mental examinations.

Mrs. Marie Hess was found dead of .22 calibre bullet wounds in the bedroom of their home.

Hess' case was ordered bound over to Circuit Court with trial date set for Sept. 14.

Recount Fails To Change Races

BENTON — The outcome of Scott County primary election races remains unchanged despite a recount of five precincts Tuesday.

The discrepancies were in Sikeston ward 4, precinct 1; Chaffee, precinct 2; Oran, precinct 1; and Kelso and Perkins precincts.

The recount was ordered after the Scott County board of canvassers was unable to certify the election because of counting errors.

Ragland called the recount "very unusual" and said he doubted he had the power to order it, but when no one opposed the recount, he granted permission.

In Sikeston ward 4, precinct 1, vote totals shifted only slightly in the close County assessor race, with winner Bill Ferrell gaining four votes, Alfred Halter two and Stewart Stuckey one.

Vote totals for Tony Heckemeyer and C. F. Cline, candidates for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the 159th district, remained unchanged.

In Chaffee precinct 2, Robison received 108 votes instead of 103.

Discrepancies in Kelso, Oran precinct 1 and Perkins were one vote off. The number of ballots had been incorrectly counted on election night.

EVALUATION OF
U. S. COMPLETED

The United Nations is continuing its string of failures. Only once, twenty years ago in Korea, did it act effectively. And that was because of a Soviet boycott. Since then, things have gone down hill.

Last December, the U.N. failed to halt the bloody India-Pakistan war, as it had failed to stop the three previous ones. Its efforts in the Middle East have also been unsuccessful. The U. N. has not even taken action to outlaw nations that harbor hijackers.

Added to these woes is the likelihood that the U.S. will no longer underwrite the organization. General ineffectivenss, excessive costs and spy scandals have disillusioned the American public.

With criticisms mounting, the U. N. conducted an evaluation of its high-level officials, agencies and institutions. It was hoped that self-evaluation would show that the U.N. was doing a good job.

But the researchers found that the U.N. is a "confused bureaucratic organization with enormous waste." Investigator A. R. Arasteh, who supported the U.N. for two decades, reports that "the U.N now needs experts to cure its own maladies rather than sending experts abroad to train and advise others."

Agencies such as the Industrial Development Organization, the Institute for Training and Research and the U.N. Development Program were all failures to "harmonize international needs and national interests."

With the evidence of U.N. failures gathered, Arasteh draws his conclusion: "It is decidedly realistic for the U. S. to reduce its share of funds to the U.N."

We were right tickled at the lead editorial in the Globe Democrat for Thursday. It says that the Democrats in Missouri are going to turn the state over to the Republicans, which is, of course, customary attitude of the editorial writer of the Globe, cause they are a staunchly Republican paper and of course they think that the only Democrat that is going to win is Jim Kirkpatrick as Secretary of State. Well, I think they are badly fooled. While we didn't vote for Ed Dowd in the Primary, we are going to vote for him in November, and just as though we had voted for him in August. We have no apologies for the one or two votes we lost, we won "Doc" Decker and that is enough, anybody ought to be satisfied with that.

A dealer of expensive imported automobiles has demonstrated what could be done on the local level to supplement national advertising.

The Chicago dealer invested approximately $2,000 to buy a full page advertisement in a local paper. At the end of the week an official of the automobile company reported that the single advertisement has sold $100,000 worth of his cars. He added that "more than likely another $350,000 in sales" would result from the advertisement.

Of course this is a spectacular example of what can be done with local newspaper advertising. However, it should be a reminder to local dealers in any size city that even the best national advertising does not create maximum sales.

The manufacturers had been publishing some excellent advertising in national media. It helped to develop interest in the automobile and, no doubt, resulted in a trickling of local sales. But, as the Chicago dealer proved, a local, more select, more urgent medium was needed to transform interest into action.

A potential customer will "think about" a product almost indefinitely before he makes a purchase. Certain conditions have to be established before his thinking materializes into action.

The local newspaper is ideally suited to this task of directing an interested prospect to the point of purchase.

The size of the newspaper is able to cover the local community completely, selecting all potential prospects, bringing them to local shops.

Author Gary Allen makes one thing perfectly clear, explaining why rich capitalists such as those in the CFR are promoting world - wide socialism: "If one understands that socialism is not a share-the-weath program, but is in reality a method to consolidate and control the wealth, then the seeming paradox of superrich men promoting socialism becomes no paradox at all." $1, Concord Press, Box 2686, Seal Beach, Calif. 90740 ... Let us tour the mind of Playboy mongul Hugh Hefner but first, take off your shoes to protect them from collectivist goo. From a recent interview by the Los Angeles Times: He has thrown benefits for the American Civil Liberties Union (the defender of Marxists and Socialists) because "being concerned about the ACLU is a part of the Playboy philosophy." He established the Playboy Foundation and the HMH Foundation to "turn around some of the sex laws and drug laws" with litigation. "We're the primary providers of income for the Masters and Johnson laboratory" and "a major contributor to SIECUS, directed by Dr. Mary Calderone." / "I hope Playboy will open us up from the kind of society I grew up in where your identities were established by the Saturday Evening Post and Reader's Digest, living in suburbia with a wife and three children." / "What we call religion today should have less emphasis on the unknowable things — all the deistic nonsense." In a little more than a year from now, the minimum wage will likely rise from $1.60 to $2 per hour, proving that this is the age of populism, confused consumerism and inflation. The consumer wants either lower prices or a higher wage, but inflation won't allow the former, so the populists in Congress step in to raise the latter. That's the way it occurred May 11 when the House of Representatives raised the minimum wage for most workers from $1.60 to $1.80 within 60 days after enactment and to $2 a year after that. The bill now goes to the senate where populists abound. They seek a $2.25 minimum, and anyone who doesn't see a $2 an hour House- Senate agreement has never bought a used car or haggled over the price of anything. One new wrinkle in the House bill allows employers to pay $1.60 to teenagers and students. The provision was made in consideration of the high unemployment rate among teenage Negroes who would be priced out of the job market at the $1.80 level. Congress evidently doesn't believe in wage-inflation control: the increase to $2 an hour represents a 25% jump while the Pay Board's guideline for maximum pay increase is 5.5%.

The minimum wage increase to $2 per hour, coupled with a new Executive Order, would fan inflation in medical care. The Executive Order of April 18 requires hospitals and related institutions to provide free services for "those unable to pay." Observers pointed out that the directive and the increased minimum wage would severely inflate costs in service related industries, including medical care. The added costs of free services will have to be paid by the paying customers who will likely begin to understand that government - caused inflation is not a figment of the imagination. What happens next logically follows: crypto socialists, led by Senator Kennedy, will point to the ever increasing cost of medical care and increase the pressure for socialized medicine.

Big things are happening in sex education in the schools, the kind promoted by the extremist left-wing group known as the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, SIECUS. By manipulating liberal educators, SIECUS is still getting its programs in the schools, violating the time-tested rule against tampering with the sexlatency period of school children. For supplying questionable teacher guides and film strips, the latter showing copulation of animals, SIECUS and the state and local school boards are being taken to court in Westfield, N.J., on constitutional grounds. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Preston have already won one court battle contending that sex instruction is not a proper function of the state and that such teaching violates the rights of parents and children. The expensive court test is being paid for by Concerned Parents of Union County, 73 Summit Court, Westfield, N.J. 07090, each of whom had pledged $20 a month for three years to finance the court test. Westfield is the latest and possibly the last battleground against SIECUS. Sex education, per se, need never have been this controversial; however, in the hands of SIECUS, a haven of one-world socialists whose philosophies favorably entertain anti-God humanism and behavior control by the few, SIECUS sex education deserves all the opposition it receives.

The U. S. Information Agency spent eight months and at least $73,000 compiling a filmed documentary on the bloody Red Chinese takeover of Tibet and was readying its release when — what happened next is quite clear. The President announced he would go to Red China. The film which depicts Red Chinese duplicity and atrocities in Tibet will never see the light of the projection bulb. USIA officials Bruce Herschensohn and Henry Loomis are not saying much about why the film is being held up. Besides, it's been nearly seven months since the picture was made. Would Mao Tse-tung or Chou En-lai approve of the film? Well, ah, these are delicate matters, and the less said the better.

Does Castro have a little red school house for the training of airliner hijackers? Indubitably, says John Masefield who is chairman of Britain's government board which controls major British airports. Masefield told an international airport security conference in November that Fidel organized the school in 1966. In the 36 years between 1930 and 1966, there were a mere 55 airline highjackings. Between 1966 and 1969, he noted drily, the total was 220.

THE ROLE OF THE
NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Not yet do most of us realize there is a New Democratic Party.

It is not the old Democratic party of the Civil War — a party dedicated to keeping the Yankee North from sending in carpetbaggers to rule us. That party died almost 100 years ago but some of us are still Civil War Democrats.

Nor is today's Democratic party the party of Franklin Delano Roosevelt — an amalgamation of labor, blacks, liberals and the Southern Democrats. That party weakened as labor became middle- class and more conservative; that party weakened as Southern Democrats became increasingly not at home with the liberalism of the new black leadership and northern liberals plus anti-war young people.

Today's New Democratic party is the party that refused to listen any longer to George Meany, the most powerful labor leader in the country; it is the party that refused to hop through a hoop for Mayor Daley, the most powerful city boss in the country; it is the party that refused to pay any attention to most of the southern Democratic Senators and House members who chair the important committees of the Senate and House.

Today's New Democratic party is really different.

About the only resemblance it has to the old Democratic party of the South, or the New Deal Democratic party of FDR, is the title "Democratic."

And about the only reason it still holds some of the loyalty of members of the Civil War Democratic party and the New Deal Democratic party is because they still hesitate to vote Republican. Although the number of hold-outs is decreasing. After all, as one told this editor, "there is no longer the Democratic party I loved."

There is something else to be said about the New Democratic party.

Under its new leadership — Sen. McGovern and his team - the party has yet to take shape.

What it really stands for has yet to be clearly identified.

The coming weeks before November will be a time of clarification, of defining the goals of the new party. Certainly, the party platform adopted in Miami was a first step in setting up its goals. But only a first step. The next steps will be even more important.

But of one thing we are sure:

The New Democratic Party does not stand for what the old Civil War Democratic party stood for; nor does it stand for what the FDR Democratic party stood for. Both are as dead as the the influence of George Meany and Mayor Daley and the Southern Governors were on the Democratic Donvention in Miami.

Some observers believe that at Miami sectionalism died in American politics; some observers believe that the New Democratic party is really more like the Social Democratic parties of Europe; some observers believe the stage is now set for the organization of new parties — perhaps a conservative Democratic party or a Labor Democratic party while the New Democratic party follows its new interests to the left of labor and the left of southern democrats...

As for this editor, he isn't sure at all what the future holds for those Americans who have always been Democrats. He knows that some — perhaps even many — Cannot accept the liberalism of George McGovern. And, also, cannot accept the leadership of President Nixon. Nor the leadership of George Wallace.

So, apparently, the stage is set for change or, to be more accurate, the time has come to recognize that the change has happened.

WITTIE DITTIES

All honor to woman: the sweetheart, the wife,
The delight of our firesides by night and by day,
Who never does anything wrong in her life,
Except when permitted to have her own way.

Designed for making up their faces.
I wish they had some other kinds
Designed for making up their minds.

When driving at night
Allow plenty of room,
And be sure thay you lower

Golfing starlet Myrtle Munn
Had two husbands just for fun
Till she thought: "What have I done?"
"Bigamy." And with a gun
Myrtle made a hole in one.

I should write a letter;
But if I decide to,
It will bring a reply
That must be replied to.

STEEL BREAKS PLATE
PRODUCTION RECORD

The United States Steel Corporation's mill at Gary, Ind., set a world's record for the production of total tons of steel cast on a single strand caster.

The facility cast two consecutive single slabs of high quality steel, each measuring the equivalent of more than a mile and one- half in length with a combined weight of 8,330 tons.

The Gary caster is the first large slab casting unit to achieve speeds up to 76 inches per minute, almost twice the rate of most other installations.

Once again, police- state-type dictation over private citizens by the federal government has been proposed in Congress -- in the form of oppressive federal registration and licensing of all guns. For most gun owners, passage of the law would mean disposal of their guns within 180 days -- unless they wished to submit to stringent registration and licensing procedures. One provision of the latest antigun proposal magnanimously offers the payment of "reasonable value" for firearms voluntarily relinquished to the Treasury Department.

A great many members of the national legislative body now realize that a federal law aimed at depriving all citizens of the basic right of gun ownership is as unworkable as that ancient atrocity, prohibition. Senator Theodore F. Stevens, for instance, of Alaska has urged a reexamination of the federal government's authority to regulate firearms. He has also introduced a bill calling for mandatory prison terms for persons who use firearms during the commission of a federal crime. He declares, "My bill ... would punish those who misues firearms while preserving the constitutional right of law- abiding citizens to purchase and own guns and ammunition ... More restrictive legisltaion would do nothing more than create a more lucrative black market in the sale of guns and ammunition ..." and "leave peaceful citizens at the mercy of gun-brandishing hoodlums ..."

Law- abiding gun owners have been the moving force behind the century- old work of the National Rifle Association to promote firearms safety, sportsmanship, conservation and marksmanship training. In short, gun owners have demonstrated an outstanding record of responsible citizenship that should put them beyond the reach of antigun fanatics in the exercise of a right that goes back to the founding of the nation.

AGE OF LEISURE

Time magazine, a short while ago, featured a lengthy review of the growing inefficiency in American society. No product or service is immune. Nor can any consumer protection laws correct the principal evil which, judging by the Time article, is mainly the growing disinterest and inertia of people in their chosen occupations. For example, how would even a Ralph Nader answer this one. Absenteeism has hurt production quality so badly at one major auto company that a company official complains that some output "is worse than no output at all." The president of another auto company says, "one of the biggest problems is Monday absenteeism -- the fellow who works two weeks and decides to take a long weekend." Says Time, "Detroit's worst lemons are usually found among cars built on Monday because they are often put together by inexperienced substitute workers and veterans nursing hangovers."

If a majority of people ar e not willing to work and take pride in a job well done, the majority will just have to live with the consequences despite the best efforts of government boards and helpful bureaucrats. The age of leisure may leave a lot to be desired.

ECONOMIC 'MIRACLE'
THREATENED

Hard work and the profit-motive system created what was called an economic 'miracle' in the non-communist half of Germany during the 1950s. It really was no miracle at all because capitalism always creates an economic 'miracle' when given half a chance.

Now that 'miracle' faces the threat of going down the drain. The Socialist Willy Brandt, who is now head of the West German government through a leftist coalition, has lost his margin of control of the Parliament. To try to regain it, national elections have been called for Dec. 3.

At stake is the profit-motive system and market economy which created modern, anti-communist West Germany out of the ruins of a defeated, occupied, bombed-out wasteland. It would be imagined that the anti-communist West Germans would simply compare the difference between the great, progressive years of the 1950s and early 1960s under the profit-motive system with the results of socialism-communism in East Germany, not to mention the inept "socialist democracy" which preceded Hitler's national socialist dictatorship.

The post-Hitler Germans were smart enough to reject the social-welfare state which Walter Heller and his U. S. leftists advisers were trying to urge on West Germany. By doing exactly opposite the Heller advice, West Germans created their 'miracle.'

Socialists are such clever propagandists, however, that they have managed to get their man Brandt into power for more than two years now, during which he has managed to increase inflation dangers immensely and give the Soviets new high status in Central Europe. Freedomists in the U.S. may watch with interest and concern the progress of this assault on the profit-motive system in West Germany in hopes of alerting our own voters to similar dangers to our own profit-motive system and its 'miracles.' Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

We have obtained dozens of arrest records which accuse high-ranking officers of filching petty items from military PXs. We selected 23 of these cases for spot investigations.

We found only one retired lieutenant colonel who had been hauled into court. Five others were chewed out by their superiors. The remaining 17 were "exonerated," or the charges were quietly dropped.

In contrast, enlisted men caught shoplifting usually faced formal charges. Related one inspector: "When officers are picked up for shoplifting, they are simply released. When enlisted men are stopped, they are turned over to the MPs, sent to general court and ...convicted for petty larceny."

The inspector who complained about this discrimination, incidentally, was harrassed. Another security officer, who urged that high-ranking thievery be investigated instead of covered up, was fired.

Typical was the case of Col. Robert P. Gould, who was accused of pocketing a $4.75 eight-track tape cassette of "The Partridge Family Sound Magazine" last Christmas eve from the PX at Andrews Air Force Base.

The arrest records indicate that a benevolent security inspector tried to signal Gould "in the hopes he would...pay for the tape." But the colonel missed his cue.

SLEIGHT OF HAND

Once outside, the inspector was obliged to stop Gould, who denied that he had snitched the $4.75 item. He explained that he had left the tape inside the PX and offered to reenter the store to prove it.

Inside, according to the arrest record, Gould "bent over to show me where it was, and I observed him taking the tape from underneath his coat and placing it on the shelf and saying, 'Here it is, right here.' "

The accused colonel, who heads an air-fo-air missile program for the Air Force, denied he had lifted the tape. Subsequently, his superiors "totally exonerated" him of all charges.

Other brass hats, accused of light-fingered thefts, received similar soft treatment. Their reactions to our inquiries, in a few cases, are worth recording:

A retired Army general, caught swindling the Fort Myer, Va., PX of a 29-cent roll of splicing tape on July 7, first denied stealing the merchandise, then said he couldn't recollect "for sure" whether he had pocketed it. The Army, of course, gave him the benefit of the doubt.

A discomfited Air Force major was so embarrassed when he purchased a package of prophylactics from a female cashier, he explained to us, that he "completely forgot" to pay for two boxes of cigars.

The wife of a retired rear admiral, asked by my reporter Mark McIntyre about pinching a 95-cent bottle of Visine Eye Drops, threatened: "If you want to blow this up, you're going to get into a lot of trouble."

And when we tried to inquire about an Air Force colonel, who walked out of the Bolling Air Force Base PX without paying for three fishing lures, we were told he wasn't available for comment because he was "out fishing."

PENTAGON PIPELNE

Black Box -- Admiral Thomas Moorer, the Joint Chiefts chairman, was touring the links the other afternoon in a golf cart. He hauled along not only his clubs but an ominous black box that goes whereever Moore goes. The box contains a security phone which enables the chairman to talk with U.S. installations around the world. In the midst of his golf game, Moorer placed an urgent call. But it wasn't to Saigon or some other trouble spot. He called his wife to tell her that he'd be home in 20 minutes.

Pampered Admiral -- Vice Admiral G. E. Miller, commander of the vaunted Sixth Fleet, is properly pampered by his executive officer. The solicitous exec, Cmdr. W. T. Crawford, issued a stern order aboard the admiral's flagship, the USS Springfield. "To avoid establishing a pattern of having emergency in-port drills at a set time," directed the order, "and further to avoid inconvenience to the admiral, all emergency drills are to be held at random times after the admiral and chief of staff have departed for the day." A Navy spokesman said the admiral was unaware of the order and cancelled it after we called.

Military Glorification -- The Defense Department publishes 366 different magazines and newspapers each year ostensibly to boost troop morale. In reality, however, the principle aim is to glorify the brass. In the first four issues of the new magazine, "The Engineer," for example, more than 40 pages are devoted to interviews or stories about the generals in the Army Corps of Engineers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing could improve the human race more than to have every baby born with a button in its lower lip and a buttonhole in its upper lip.

As it is now, the average infant is born not with a silver spoon in its mouth — but one of its own feet. And throughout the rest of its life it keeps putting that foot back in its mouth.

If you want to live peacefully, learn to turn off the lip flow when you don't know what you're talking about. Silence is more than golden; silence is safety.

Here are a few remarks to avoid if you don't want to put your foot in your mouth, shoe and all:

"Why did you want to get a divorce from him, anyway? He always seemed like a pretty swell guy to me."

"What's a pretty girl like you doing in the women's liberation movement? You look intelligent."

"Before I tell you how I think it fits you, let me ask you one question. Can you still take the suit back?"

"You've got nobody to blame but yourself."

"Did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

"If I bail you out of this, it'll only get you into the habit of expecting someone else to solve your problems for you."

"Of course, I don't doubt your word, but if you've lost all that much weight, I don't understand why it doesn't show more."

"Are you sure you aren't just feeling sorry for yourself?"

"I'm not exactly sure I should tell an off-color joke like this to my own mother-in-law, but here goes—."

"Do you want me to tell you what I really think is wrong with you?"

"Tell me something, will you? Why is it when a guy like me takes a girl like you out to dinner, she always feels like she has to order the most expensive steak on the menu? Don't you girls ever get steak at home?"

Business Meeting Held

Scism To Retire From Sikeston PCA

More than 1,100 members of Sikeston Production Credit Association gathered Tuesday night for their annual meeting and to witness the retirement of 27-year- veteran Thatcher Scism, currently president of the organization. He will retire officially Oct. 1.

The meeting, held at the Sikeston High School band shell, was the 39th annual meeting of stockholders.

T. R. McGuire, president of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis, attended the meeting to "pay tribute to Thatcher Scism -- your longtime friend and associate."

McGuire said that when Scism began his career with Sikeston PCA, the association had one office and five employes. Today, there are seven field offices and 25 employes.

The meeting was opened by gospel singing by the Murphy family of Poplar Bluff. Guest speaker was Ned Darter, who related humorous experiences as a farmer in Fisher, Ark.

In his business report to the stockholders, Board Director Charles Causey reminded those present that the 1971 Farm Credit Law is now in effect. The new law replaces the 1933 Farm Credit Act.

Sikeston PCA has set a goal of $40 million in farm loans for 1972. Last year Sikeston PCA set a new all-time high mark in loans at $38,695,653.83.

Clark Testifies On North Viet Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. gen. Ramsey Clark said today the continued U.S. bombing of North Vietnam will insure that American prisoners of war will not be released.

Clark who recently returned from a two- week trip to North Vietnam said, "My impression is the chances of their releasing American pilots while there is American bombing is nil except as a symbolic thing."

He added that North Vietnamese leaders with whom he spoke appeared surprised when asked if they would release the prisoners after the war is ended. Their surprise seemed to say what reason would they have for keeping them, Clark said.

Appearing before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee exploring the problem of war refugees throughout Indochina, Clark also described destruction of dikes and sluices, schools, hospitals and civilian areas.

He conceded he is not a military man but said the damage to dikes and sluices which he witnessed in his tour of North Vietnam seemed to indicate that the bombing was deliberate.

He added that he never saw antiaircraft or SAM missile emplacements on the dikes. Nor were they used to store fuel and war materiel, he said.

Clark's criticism of U.S. war policy during his North Vietnam tour drew strong criticism from top officials and former officials in the Nixon administration and the President's campaign organization.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern became involved in the dispute when Republicans recalled McGovern's past praise of Clark. McGovern fired back that President Nixon was steering his campaign onto "the low road" through his lieutenants' attacks on Clark, who was attorney general during the Johnson administration.

The latest clash came Tuesday when Clark and Rita Hauser, who is co- chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Re- election of President Nixon, engaged in a vigorous argument at an American Bar Association meeting in San Francisco.

She challenged his assertions that he found American prisoners well-treated in Hanoi and claimed there are "reams of evidence" showing mistreatment.

Earlier Tuesday, Clark was attacked for the second time by John N. Mitchell, a political adviser to Nixon and also a former attorney general. Mitchell called Clark a "naive American" who was "unwittingly duped into playing Hanoi's wretched game, into serving as an American megaphone for Communist propaganda."

As he returned to Washington Tuesday night, Clark said of the administration critics, "I would respect them more if they would worry more about killing people than about whether I was duped."

Clark said he was not surprised that his comments in North Vietnam were broadcast over Radio Hanoi because he knew his remarks were being taped.

He was fined $125 and his driver's license was revoked for one year. Russell Crosno was placed on probation after he drew a six- month jail sentence for driving while intoxicated. Albert Mead was assessed $20 fine on charges of careless and imprudent driving and operating vehicle with no operator license. John Dee Henry, Sr., paid $15 fine on charge of careless and imprudent driving by failure to yield right-of-way.

Charged with operating improperly registered vehicle, Teddy Lathum was fined $25 and Don Lynn Redder, $15.

Thomas Wright paid $20 fine on charge of permitting unauthorized person to drive. Tommie Brown was fined $15 on charge of operating vehicle with expired operator license.

New Black Widow Spider Puts Man Back In Business

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — John Webster Brown is back in business. He plans to raise a whole colony of black widow spiders to make sure a hungry cricket doesn't louse things up again.

Brown said Monday he has been given a replacement for "Mac," his former partner who helped with his part-time business of making cross- hair sights for surveying instruments. "Mac," a poisonous female black widow spider, had supplied the delicate web needed for the cross- hair sights.

Mac's career was cut short when Brown dropped a cricket into the spider's glass container for supper. Mac's intended main course turned on her and "tore her to shreds," Brown said.

When news accounts spread word that Brown was being forced out of busines because he couldn't find a replacement for Mac, he said he was inundated with calls from across the country.

Man Free To Yell At Apes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Albert Richardson has been told by a judge that he is free to yell at apes in the Cincinnati Zoo, but only when other humans aren't around.

Richardson, 41, was arrested in the zoo's ape house Monday afternoon. A zoo security guard said Richardson "was using bad language to people and started drinking wine."

On Tuesday Richardson told Hamilton County Criminal Court Judge Peter Outcalt, however, that he was yelling at the apes, not people.

In dismissing the case, Outcalt said Richardson has a constitutional right to talk to the apes whenever he wishes as long as other humans aren't within earshot. "The statutes say you shall not conduct yourself in a disorderly manner in the presence of other people," Outcalt said of his ruling. "There's nothing about being in the presence of apes."

Ann Landers

Summer Entertaining Proves Expensive

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who was considering marriage to a man who had suffered a stroke and was partially paralyzed. She expressed concern about his ability to function sexually. I hope she sees this letter because I speak from experience.

Four years ago when my husband was stricken I was sure our sex life was over. Our physician suggested therapy at the Rehabiliatation Institute of Chicago. At the time it seemed hopeless but we went anyway. Within months he showed remarkable progress and now I can tell you that his recovery has been miraculous. Today he is a completely satisfying lover.

Please encourage that women to marry and if she is lucky enough to live in or near Chicago, to take him to that wonderful hospital. --- Been There

Dear Been: I do so with pleasure. The Rehabilitation Institute is one of the finest in the world. The director, Dr. Henry Betts, is a good friend of mine. Your letter provides me with the opportunity to say a good word for an institution that richly deserves it.

Dear Ann Landers: You told "Getting It All Together" that when a love affair is over the best way to recover is to put away the pictures, letters and mementos, move forward and not look back. I lost someone I loved very much and I can't get over it. He died. And he was just 18. The only comfort I have is looking at his picture, re-reading his letters and poetry, playing our favorite records and reliving, in my memory, the wonderful times we had together. These things help me feel closer to him.

It's been only a month but I wonder if it will ever be any different. People have assured me that time will ease the pain and that one day I'll be happy again. But how does one get through the present? Broken love affairs are often repaired. People get back together again. But in my case it will never happen. He is lost to me forever. The finality of it all has crushed my spirit. Please give me some words of wisdom. I am --- Empty, Empty, Empty

Dear Friend: When a love affair is over, the prescription is the same, whether the separation was caused by a misunderstanding, mutual agreement, or death. Look ahead, make a new life -- and accept the realities.

A month is not very long. The wounds are still fresh, but you will not help them heal by keeping them open and dwelling on the pain. Consider your dream castle a delightful place to visit, but don't try to live in it. Life is for the living.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Denver Housewife." Welcome aboard the Ship of Fools. We also live in a state where tourists love to vacation. These past three summers we have spent $4,000 entertaining people in our home and taking them to places we wouldn't have gone ourselves.

Our generosity has not brought us any pleasure. We now know that giving means nothing unless it is done intelligently. Foolish generosity is neither rewarding nor is it appreciated. People expect you to continue to give. When they are refused, they forget the past and are bitterly disappointed.

We've had to tell three families we can't entertain them this summer and they are all mad at us. Does it pay to be nice? --S. S; S.

Dear S.S.S.: Your problem is that you have second-rate friends -- the "what- have-you-done- for-me- lately" variety. Well -- you've at least learned. Congratulations.

Drugs. How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is LSD too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill plus a LONG, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654

Teen-Agers Recycle Jeans

By AP Newsfeatures

Everyone's recycling glass bottles, aluminum cans, cardboard boxes and newsprint these days to fight pollution and prevent waste. But did you ever think of "recycling" your jeans?

Although many jeans lovers actually prefer them after a year or so of washing and wearing rather than when they're new, they do eventually reach an "unwearable" state.

When this happens, don't retire your jeans from active service. For like that old soldier in the adage, they've only faded away! Wrangler suggests snipping, stitching, or stuffing them into any of a number of groovy fashions or decorator accessories.

Belts, for example, have come a long way. As fashion accessories, they have been liberated from their mundane position behind the slacks loops to free and easy spots outside sweaters, and midi-length dresses.

To fashion a belt from your tired old jeans, just cut off one of the legs and, leaving the fabric doubled, cut in half length-wise. Then with the right sides together, stitch a seam down the open side, and turn right side out. Trim the belt down according to your waist size, and sew up the ends. Get hold of a buckle and attach it. With an icepick, punch holes into the end of the belt opposite the buckle. Be sure to stitch around the holes so that they don't fray or run into one another. For eye-catching detail, use brightly-colored thread around the loops. Or embroider the whole length of the belt with cheery colored thread.

Extra big totes have become everyone's bag, and now you can make your own. For an off-beat look, start by trimming the legs off your old jeans up to hot pants length. Then, with the right sides together, hem the bottom, and turn right side out. Strips of jeans fabric, suede, or rawhide cut to any size make the straps. Attach with rivets or eyelets, which you purchase at any fabric shop or department store notions counter. To open and close your tote, use the "built-in" method: sew up the top (waist band), and use the front zipper as the opening. Or sew on your own zipper — at the top of the tote. Or how about applying heavy snaps at a few spots along the top? Decorate your tote with flower or butterfly appliques, your own felt cut-outs, or embroider it. And, of course, the ex-jeans pockets provide plenty of extra compartments!

Watch bands are getting wider and wilder all the time. And they've become an important fashion accessory! The waist band from your old jeans is just the right width for a watch band. Cut a piece of it down to the size of your wrist, attach your watch, and sew on a snap to open and close. You can probably make about five watch bands from one waist band. You can dye each one a different color.

Jeans jewelry is lots of fun. Make a thin ring out of one belt loop. Staple or stitch two together for a wide ring. Decorate with fancy stitching or a couple of studs.

Use the heavy side seams of your jeans or strips of denim from the legs to make chokers.

Vocational Rehabilitation Makes Useful Citizens Of The Mentally Retarded

JEFFERSON CITY — Must the mentally retarded child in Missouri forever be a drag on society? Must he or she be relegated to a position of second class citizenship, hidden away from the world of work and from normal social contacts?

The State Department of Education, through its Vocational Rehabilitation and Special Education sections, has answered those questions with an emphatic "No!". The administrators of 146 Missouri high schools give the same answer with equal emphasis.

And these answers are not merely statements of philosophy; they have been translated into specific and continuing action since the founding in 1964 of what is known as the Cooperative School Work Program.

More important are the results: 4,593 educable mentally retarded young people, some of them victims of multiple handicaps, have been prepared for entry into the world of work and placed in full- time jobs at the completion of their high school careers.

The Cooperative School Work Program is just one of the vehicles used by the Vocational Rehabilitation agency to accomplish its assigned purpose -- enabling eligible handicapped individuals to take their places in our working society and to become as self-sufficient as possible. To be eligible for vocational rehabilitation services, an individual must have a physical or mental disability that is a significant handicap to employment, and there must be a reasonable expectation that VR services will enable him or her to engage in gainful occupation.

During its first year, 23 Missouri school districts operating 45 high schools participated in the school-work program. Last year the program had grown to include 125 high schools in 86 districts, and projections for the coming school year indicate that 146 schools in 98 districts will be participating then.

During the past year, 740 students were rehabilitated and placed in fulltime jobs as a result of the program. That figure is expected to jump to at least 800 during the coming year.

The goal of the special education teachers and the vocational rehabilitation counselors working with the students is to keep each youngster in a normal classroom situation as long as he can profit from it. Usually, however, such students are not capable of successfully competing in normal classroom situations to any meaningful extent.

Thus, the emphasis of the program is on preparing each student for a job. In many schools, for example, the student must have demonstrated his ability to hold a full- time job before he is considered to have successfully completed his high school program.

Examine one case history:

Mary (not her real name) had no intention of attending high school. She was mentally retarded, hard of hearing, and her teeth were badly malformed. She had only one front tooth and it protruded in an almost tusk-like manner. She was the subject of considerable derision from other youngsters who called her such uncomplimentary names as "One Tooth" and "Old Witch".

But the high school special education teacher had been alerted to Mary's problems, and she convinced the girl to enroll for high school.

As a result, Vocational Rehabilitation was able to fit Mary with a new hearing aid, to have all of her teeth extracted, which required four days of hospitalization, and to have complete new dentures provided.

She was sent to a rehabilitation center for work evaluation and adjustment training.

Mary demonstrated particular ability in at least two areas -- typing and sewing. Since her primary interest was sewing (she had been making all her own clothes for several years), her counselor found a job for her with a drapery firm, lining drapes.

Her starting salary was $1.75 per hour -- $3,640 per year. Her boss considers her a valued employee with good prospects for advancement.

At home, she does house cleaning and laundry chores to earn her room and board. In her spare time she likes to watch television on a small set which she purchased for herself.

But whe is most proud of two things; the car which she drives 22 miles each way to and from work daily and on which she is making payments of $64.30 per month, and the fact that she can eat corn- on- the- cob with no difficulty!

A drag on society? Hardly.

And stories like Mary's are repeated hundreds of times each year in Missouri as a result of the Cooperative School- Work Program. Also because of that program, hundreds more Missouri teenagers can look toward a brighter future when they return to school this fall.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Section of the Department of Education serves handicapped Missourians through offices located in Hannibal, St. Louis Northside, St. Louis Downtown, Brentwood, Cape Girardeau, PoplarBluff, Rolla, Jefferson City, Sedalia, Chillicothe, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Kansas City Inner City, Independence, Springfield and Joplin.

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County Young Farmers Association held its summer picnic at Crowley's Ridge Resort at Malden. The picnic, a charcoal hamburger and homemade ice cream affair, was held under the pavilion.

Among the 25 attending were advisor Robert Harris and Mrs. Harris of Risco.

On July 31, Aug. 1 and 2, the Marshall - Sweet Springs chapters were hosts to the Missouri Young Farmers State Tour. Attending from the area were Roy Pipkin of Kewanee; Fred Story of Matthews and Sam Faulkner, Tommy Essary, James Manley and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Riley of New Madrid.

All interested farmers are invited to attend the next meeting which will be held Friday in the Lilbourn High School vo-ag building. A program on grain storage will be presented.

Colors Reveal Personality

Your home may reveal your true personality, according to interior designer Virginia Frankel of New York. For instance, she says, color may reveal a lot about ones character. The designer had always decorated her own homes in white, but says that when she moved to her present apartment, she began using brilliant colors. "I decided that I had become a happier person," she explained, discussing her recently published book, "What your House Tells about You."

Other facts Mrs. Frankel says ones house may reveal about ones personality are:

People who like bright, hot or acid colors — oranges, reds, strong purples, greens — are often bold, adventurous, with-it, generally happy people. Blues and greens in the middle range speak of coolness and caution. Beiges, grays and muddy pastels may be used by a person who stays close to the safety line in behavior and taste.

Dark colors may be the sign of a moody, depressed person, although it may also be an affectation adopted in the belief it is an "in" look. But dark colors also may indicate a secure person.

Listening to the nuances of her clients, Mrs. Frankel says she is able to pick up the real keys to their decorating needs — they may need a more exciting background or a showcase. She says this listening is the clue to meaningful decorating because some people do not know what they want.

In decorating for bachelors Mrs. Frankel has learned the girl traps which include fur rugs and pillows, chrome and glass tables, large deep sofas, hassocks, wine racks, built-in lights and bar, hi-fi speakers and telephones in every room, kitchen gimmicks (for female visitors) cookbooks, and so on.

For many women decorating a home is such a traumatic experience they may become physically ill if the couch doesn't match the draperies.

BRANDING WITHOUT IRON -- Leslie Johnson's smile may not really have anything to do with the platform of President Richard M. Nixon, but it doesn't hurt the cause when she is persuading motorists to let her "brand" their car with a bumper sticker. The Sikeston college student is a leader of the Young Voters for the President chapter here and proved to be the champion "bumper brander" at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo last week.

Cars 'Branded' For Presidential Campaign

What does a young political campaigner do at a rodeo? She brands, what else?

Leslie Johnson, a young college student and local chairman of the Young Voters for the President chapter, kept in the spirit of the 20th annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo at Sikeston by doing a special kind of branding, "bumper branding."

Regional field director for the Young Voters organization, Carl Koupal, happened to be in the area and volunteered his assistance.

Between the two of them, able to work only one area of the parking lot during the 90 minutes before the show started, they managed to put the Nixon "brand" on about 250 cars.

It may not be an astronomical figure, but "bumper branding" under the rules of the Young Voters for the President is not as simple as it may sound.

Miss Johnson can't "cheat" on the rodeo customers. Cars are not just branded indiscriminantly as they park at such an event. The rules, as Koupal explained, require the permission of each car owner before a bumper sticker can be placed on the vehicle.

"We do not want to antagonize anybody by putting a sticker on their car without asking them. Many who might be supporting the President or any other candidate just do not like bumper stickers on their vehicles and we respect their wishes," Koupal said.

Noting that it is a matter of common courtesy and respect for another person's property, he also pointed out that there would be a waste of bumper stickers if they got on cars from which they would be immediately removed.

The Flat River college student went on to say that there are different types of stickers, but the effort in Southeast Missouri has been to use only the vinyl sticker, which comes off with ease and leaves no difficult mess to clean off after the election.

With all this technical talk by Koupal, Leslie was paying more attention to getting the job done -- getting about two cars to every one for her regional advisor. Clad in a traditional western outfit appropriate for the occasion, she also added that little extra touch.

When given the nod to attach a sticker, she came back with a courteous, "Where would you like it?" On several occasions they asked for front and back.

"You take a little ribbing," the Sikeston coed admitted, but went on to add, "even most of those who may not want one are pretty courteous."

Like any "rodeo performer", Leslie was a bit bushed after her event and even though she was the unchallenged "champ" for the evening, officials just couldn't find a trophy for her.

Being a trouper is not easy, as any late show on television lets you know, but Leslie says it is all a part of the job -- one she takes seriously, but also enjoys.

What does a "bumper brander" do when her event is over? This one headed backstage to get ready for rehearsal. Even 90 minutes of rugged work like that can't hold up preparation for her leading role in "The Fantasticks", which opens for a weekend run here this week.

It just goes to show that an old campaigner -- using the word old very freely -- has to be versatile.

Mrs. Agnew Backs Up Husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though Eleanor McGovern has offered to debate Pat Nixon, and Eunice Shriver has spoken out against abortion, Judy Agnew says she doesn't intend to change her own low-keyed campaigning style.

"I do not speak out on the issues," said the wife of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in a preconvention interview. "I'm here to back up my husband. After all, my husband is the one running for office, and he's very knowledgeable."

She said she has no campaign schedule yet and has spent most of the summer sitting for a portrait for an official collection of Maryland's first ladies, and doing exercises to keep in shape.

Mrs. Agnew, who seems to avoid publicity as much as the vice president attracts it, said she will campaign with Cabinet wives but only when she is not campaigning with her husband. She will greet audiences and answer questions but make no speeches.

Mrs. Agnew, 51, said that judging from her husband's mail one of his accomplishments has been "saying what the people want to hear" and traveling to 50 states with President Nixon's message about the administration's programs.

As for her own main accomplishment, she believes it has been entertaining wives of foreign dignitaries and "enhancing the image of the United States in their eyes by being a gracious hostess."

"At least I hope I have been a gracious wife of a vice president," she added.

She has particularly enjoyed her work as head of the Senate wives' group, which meets every Tuesday to make materials for the Red Cross. Her own personal goal is to turn out 50 gauze squares each week.

Despite her husband's criticism of the news media, Mrs. Agnew says she has no complaints about the press except when stories about her children get personal.

The two older daughters—Mrs. Robert DeHaven, 29, a Baltimore social worker, and Susan, 24, a coordinator of volunteers at a Cambridge, Md., hospital—have missed much of this attention.

Randy Agnew, 25, made headlines when syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported he was separated from his wife, living with a male hairdresser in Maryland and working in a health spa. Kim, now 16, came to public attention when she wanted to wear a black armband to support a war moratorium.

Airplanes Hover Over Beach Nudist Colony

When a plane or helicopter dips low for a close look, "I usually stand out in the open and jump up and down and wave at them to give them something to look at," says the colony's buxom, 29- year- old caretaker, who will identify herself only as Pat.

Military spokesmen have ordered their pilots to avoid the 240- acre site of the newly opened Hawaii Naturist Club colony, with its 80 multi- colored tents. But other low fly- overs continue.

Unlike other nudist camps located in wooded areas, the Hawaii camp is in an open beach area. There are no trees to prevent aircraft from dipping low or to block an aerial view. It's also located next to a landing strip for small airplanes.

Before the area was made off- limits to military pilots, helicopters flew so low "they knocked our tents over with the wash of their rotor blades," says the operator of the colony, who prefers to be known only as Larry.

Once, he said, soldiers on maneuvers nearby plucked a few pineapples and landed in the colony area to try to give them away.

A complaint from the nudist camp led to orders for military pilots to avoid the area.

Most of the colony's 275 members are under 30, but a few elderly persons are included.

"Once we had a couple visiting out here who were in their 80's," Larry said. "I had to help the woman around. But she said at her age she couldn't afford not to try something different."

Television Series Helps Educate H.S. Dropouts

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "I was so proud of it that I framed it," Cari Bell Edwards said as she displayed her General Educational Development certificate, the equivalent of a high school diploma.

"It ended 10 years of wishing and hoping and depression," she said.

Miss Edwards, 27, says, "I was tired of cafeteria and laundry work -- that's about all I could get without a diploma — when I heard about the television series and decided to try it."

The series, aired by the Kentucky Educational Television Network, has earned GED certificates for at least 82 people and is in the process of being revised so that total can be multiplied many times over.

There may be a generation gap between parent & child these days, but have you ever overheard a conversation between grandparent and child?? No wonder mother and I couldn't agree on things when I was growing up, I just wasn't enough of a swinger to understand her. For example, I don't mind the fellas wearing their hair a trifle full, but this below the ears stuff makes me literally want to gag; however, when Charles and I start making noises about the barber shop scene and finally end up losing our cool and (see how hard I'm trying to bridge the gap, I feel like my conversation has come straight from the mouth of a moron — not so grandparents, they know every word and even better understand what every word means — this coming from someone who use to think me saying "hubba-hubba" was something ridiculous is almost too much!), grabbing them by the nape of their hair they immediately race for the phone, get a hot line to granny and then I get a hot line full of advice from her about them "doing their thing, etc." I can still remember wanting my hair long — and I'm a girl — so I could do "my thing," and the only response I got from her then was if I didn't get it cut "my thing" was going to be beet red!!!

Another example, Charles and I are violently against these motorbikes. I mean I can understand the kids wanting them, but I am deathly afraid of them getting one and either being maimed for life or killed on it so obnoxious parents that we are, we say "no." However, granddaddy, who I seriously suspect wants to ride around on it himself, keeps making noises like if you're parents would O.K. it I just might get you one. Would you like to know how many years I pleaded and cried and died and sighed to that same man in an attempt to get a horse? All I ever wanted was a little horse — not some forty mile an hour machine, but just a little sweet horse that had 4 legs and would walk around a bit with me on its back — THAT WAS TOO DANGEROUS!!!

Oh well, I've always heard grandparents were made to spoil grandchildren and I guess that's so, but until I get those grandbabies and start communicating with them it sure does make it hard to be in on this parent scene today!!

Catholics, Read Your Bible

The Roman Catholic Bible is a tremendous Book. Each Catholic, should study it daily and live by its standards. The average Catholic does very little, if any Bible reading. He as a result, has misconceptions. Do you know the Douay Bible says: 1) Unless a man be born again, he can't enter Heaven, read John 3:3-18; 3:36; 11:25-27, Rom. 10:9, 10. 2) Mary claims God as her savior, see Luke 1:45 -49. 3) Christ is the priest, read Heb. 4:14-5:6; 7:28-8:1; 9:11-10:4. 4) Christ is the Mediator between God and man (1 Tim. 2:5). Since this is true, why confess to the earthly priest? 5) Christ is the only rock, the foundation. He is called the rock, at least 20 times. Some of the references are: 1 Cor. 3:11; 10:4, Psalms 17 (18): 1, 2; 70 (71): 3; 88(89):27, 2 Sam. 22:2, 3. Jesus himself, said he is the way to the Father (John 14:6). Is he a lair, or is he who he claimed to be? He can't be both.

Yours truly,
Walter Strickler

Stamps In The News

It isn't often that an airline stewardess gets an opportunity to be featured on a postage stamp but it has just happened on a new 10 center issued by Jamaica. The stamp is one of a two-part set honoring Air Jamaica, national airline of this Caribbean island.

Eight additional stamps were issued by Jamaica at the same time as part of its latest definitive series.

The Republic of China on Taiwan is now preparing for its first international stamp show scheduled for Oct. 24 at the National Historical Museum in Tapei. It is expected that about 1,000 frames of stamps and other valuable philatelic items will be on display, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The purpose of the exhibition, says the director general of Posts, is to enhance "Friendship through Stamps." All collections from other countries will be displayed in a court of honor. The event will be called ROCPEX '72.

• • • •

On the other side of the Pacific, right here in this country, the recent Stamp Expo '72, held in Anaheim, Calif., broke all attendance records for such exhibits sponsored by the International Stamp Collectors Society.

of U.S. stamps from 1847 to 1967. Also on display was a collection of rarities from the U.S., Israel and Japan as supplied by the Smithsonian Institution.

The theme of Stamp Expo '72 was a salute to Apollo XVI. The special Stamp Expo cancellation depicting Apollo being launched kept the U.S. Post Office setup at the show tremendously busy from opening to closing.

Did you ever hear of the following flowers: diddle dee, scurvy grass, prickly burr, fachine, lavender and felton's flower?

Well, these and other unusual varieties are illustrated on a new set of floral decimal stamps issued by the Falkland Islands.

The world's first postage stamp was the famous "Penny Black" of 1840 issued by Great Britain and featuring a profile portrait of Queen Victoria. Contrary to general opinion, it is NOT the most valuable stamp — even though it is the first and listed as No. 1 in the catalog. Many, many were issued and are still available.

Which brings us to the fact that stamp dealers and departments throughout the nation have the Penny Black for sale without difficulty. At Gimbel's stamp department in New York they are being offered at $18 and $20 each.

Even if a person doesn't specialize in Great Britain's adhesives, it is always nice to say that one has a "Penny Black" of 1840 in his collection.

Fischer Needs Only 4 To Take World Crown

Fischer led the match 8½-5½ after blunders by both players produced the draw Tuesday in a four- hour game of 40 moves.

Then Spassky will be playing the white chessmen, giving him the advantage of the first move, but his chances of overtaking Fischer appear slimmer by the minute. The Yugoslav grandmaster, Svetozar Gligoric, said at the end of Tuesday's game: "Fischer is simply the better player."

With a win counting one point and a draw half, Fischer needs a total of 12½ to unseat Spassky. To keep his title, the Russian needs 12 points.

International grandmaster Isaac Kashdan said in an analysis for The Associated Press that Tuesday's game consisted of:: "Part One — Fischer blunders, loses pawn; Part Two— Spassky blunders, returns pawn; Part Three — players realize they can do no more damage, agree on a draw."

Fischer played the Queen's Gambit Declined, but "Spassky had an easy time in developing his pieces," Kashdan said, while the American "moved his kingside pieces up and back in seemingly meaningless fashion."

"He may have been content with a draw in view of his big advantage in the score and was challenging Spassky to do something," the analyst commented.

"Fischer's 20th move was . . . a serious error and Spassky was ready for it."

The Russian worked his queen into a strong position but "it was soon Spassky's turn to go wrong and he did, in almost incomprehensible fashion, on the 27th move." Kashdan said.

To maintain his chance to win, experts said, Spassky should have captured Fischer's knight but instead he moved a pawn.

They played another 13 moves, then Fischer stood and extended his hand to Spassky to signify his proposal for the draw.

Kleindienst Claims Control Of Rioting

Speaking to the American Bar Association's annual meeting Tuesday, Kleindienst said this was accomplished by "firmness in the public defense" by the Nixon administration and a growing realization that change can be brought about in a peaceful way.

"There are those who, disturbed by this policy against violence, have used the term 'repressive' against this national administration," Kleindienst said.

"But when a mob attempts to enforce its views by riot, arson and mayhem, who is the repressor?" He said mob violence "was threatening the very stability of our country" when Nixon took office in January 1969.

Hearnes Will Speak At I-55 Ceremony

PERRYVILLE, Mo. (AP)-Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will be the speaker Aug. 30 during a ceremony opening the last major stretch of Interstate 55 in Missouri.

The 30-mile section of the highway to be opened between Brewer about five miles north of here and Fruitland, about 25 miles south, will effect a permanent bypass of U. S. 61.

4 Teens Bomb Irish Store; No Casualties

BELFAST (AP) — Two teenage boys and two girls planted a bomb in the center of Belfast today but there was enough warning to avert casualties.

Army experts said the 100 pounds of gelignite was in a suitcase that was booby trapped to prevent it being opened.

It was planted in an electrical wholesaler's store. The store building was wrecked, and there was widespread damage in the area.

Troops in the Catholic Lower Falls Road district made three arrests when they uncovered a guerrilla arms cache containing an armalite rifle, a shotgun, a submachine gun and several thousand rounds of ammunition.

"Gutterization" Of Streams May Do More Harm Than Good

The "river wreckers" are the target of a slashing attack on stream channelization by conservationist John Madson in the forthcoming September issue of AUDUBON, magazine of the National Audubon Society.

Channelizaton is the flood-control practice of deepening, straightening and clearing natural water courses so that when streams are swollen by heavy rains they will drain off rapidly, instead of overflowing their banks. The trouble is, writes Madson, that channelization -- or "gutterization," as he likes to call it – is the direct opposite of all that makes a stream biologically healthy for fish and wildlife.

For example, says Madson, when little farm creeks run out into open fields, their "inner bends are often shaggy with grasses and coarse weeds, where the tractors cannot reach, and are the only real wildlife cover in some totally cultivate farmscapes. This is where the quail convey will be, and perhaps a deer, and muskrat and coon trails through the grass between the cornfield and creek, haunted by mink and red fox."

But when the "river-wrecking engineers" remove the bends, pools, riffles, snags and sandbars, along with the trees that shade the streambank, all that's left, says Madson, is a barren ditch; a precisely engineered sluiceway between two levees.

To date, he reports, over 8,000 miles of living streambeds in more than 40 states have been gutterized; 13,000 more have been scheduled for "improvement," and U. S.Soil Conservation Service leaders estimate that 175,000 miles of streams "need channelization."

The National Audubon Society has undertaken a major effort to publicize the excesses of the stream channelization program of the S.C.S. and the Army Corps of Engineers. Among other things, the Society challenges much of the alleged flood- control benefit. Why, ask Audubon officials, spend funds on costly projects to protect fields from being flooded when the nation already has a surplus crop problem: would it not be wiser to discourage cultivation of fields subject to flooding? Likewise, in non-rural areas would it not be wiser to discourage housing and industry on flood plains, rather than calling on the taxpayer to protect developers who want to build in high risk areas?

And further, as Madson points out in the AUDUBON article, the projects often fails to control floods, and instead just transfer the flood threat to the next community downstream; the faster the upper watershed empties out, the higher the flood crest downstream; Madson cites cases where the roaring torrents in "gutterized" rivers have eroded downstream riverbanks and undermined highways and bridge foundations.

He traces the history of the channelization concept, and he credits the S.C.S. with having carried out, in earlier days, important and environmentally sound flood control and anti-erosion measures, using such methods as contour farming, grassed waterways, farm ponds and crop rotation. More recently, he said, there has been the pressure for major drainage programs, which in addition to alleged flood control value, can turn wetlands into solid ground for farming or other development.

"Farmers rarely fight the proceedings since they incur relatively few costs, and stand to pick up more acreage of cultivated land," says Madson. "Construction companies get contracts, and developers get chance to build on formerly 'useless' marshy land.

"The only losers are those without a voice – the taxpayers and wildlife and streams."

Claims Government Paid $380 Million In Illegal Medicare Bills

WASHINGTON (PA) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the federal government may have paid $380 million in illegal Medicare claims, including charges for television sets and private nurses.

Aspin Tuesday cited a recent Government Accounting Office survey of nearly 14 hospital in five states which he said showed "nearly $500,000 had been illegally charged to Medicare out of a total $20 million paid in Medicare claims."

"Federal funds have been used to pay for private - duty nurses, TV sets, and telephone service for Medicare patients - all illegal under federal law," he said in a statement.

"These overpayments are the fault of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and its contractors such as Blue Cross- not the hospitals themselves.

"If HEW and Blue Cross administer the whole Medicare program as indicated by the sample GAO report, then the federal government has been gypped out of approximately $380 million."

The reason for the overcharges, he added, is "pervasive mismangement, administrative procedures and incomplete audits by HEW and private insurance companies such as Blue Cross."

Aspin urged HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson to "tighten up and simplify the regulations so that the proper benefits are paid to the needy and that hospitals are not inadvertently overcompensated for their services."

Porter Waggoner Show To Appear In Malden

MALDEN — Two of America's most popular country music entertainers will be appearing in person Saturday, Aug. 26, at the Malden High School gymnasium.

The entire Porter Wagoner roadshow unit -- starring Wagoner, songstress Dolly Parton, comedian Speck Rhodes and The Wagonmasters instrumental group -- will be on hand for two performances, at 2 and again at 8 p.m.

The show is being presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as part of its yearly fund- raising drive. Proceeds from the two performances will be used to finance the extensive list of community projects sponsored by the Jaycees.

Wagoner and Miss Parton are top- selling recording artists for RCA Records. Their solo and duet recordings consistently achieve top 10 rankings nationally in music industry trade publications, and Wagoner's syndicated television series is regarded by the broadcast industry as the most popular and successful show of its type. It features the same entertainers and personalities as the roadshow troupe.

A country music superstar for nearly 20 years, Wagoner presently has over 25 RCA albums available. His hit singles include such memorable successes as "A Satisfied Mind," which was released in 1954, "I Thought I Heard You Call My Name", "Your Old Love Letters", "The Green, Green Grass of Home", "The Carroll County Accident", "Julie".

Wagoner's latest release is titled, "A World Without Music." Since its release on June 26, it has received favorable reaction throughout the music industry, including an endorsement by the industry's leading trade publication, Billboard magazine, as a record it feels will soon "break" into the national popularity charts for country music.

Dolly Parton, Wagoner's featured female artist also is a country music superstar, even though she is only in her early 20s. She has a distinctive soprano voice and already is recognized by the industry as one of its most brilliant new songwriters.

Although, in comparison to Wagoner's lengthy and illustrious career, Dolly's stardom is just beginning, she already has had such memorable hits as "Just Because I'm A Woman", "Joshua", "My Blue Tears", "Coat Of Many Colors" and "Touch Your Woman."

Her July 11 release titled, "Washday Blues", has a lot of people excited, and it could prove to be her biggest hit since her No. 1 rated recording of "Joshua".

Wagoner and Miss Parton come from similar backgrounds; rural and financially difficult.

Wagoner was born near West Plains, Mo., and grew up in poverty with his parents on a small dirt farm. At an early age he learned to fiddle, then to play guitar; soon he was singing, especially when working by himself in the fields. Although extremely shy, Wagoner sang and played guitar for customers in the grocery store where he worked as a clerk, following his family's move into town.

The store owner decided to sponsor a radio show featuring young Wagoner's singing. This led to his first big break, a job at radio station KWTO in Springfield. This, in turn, led to a contract with RCA Victor Records in 1952, then to a performing spot on the Ozark Jubilee, which eventually originated for network television and radio in Springfield.

Moving to Nashville in November, 1956, Wagoner joined the Grand Ole Opry the following February -- just when country music had begun an out- of- control popularity nosedive because of rock- and- roll. For three years, Wagoner and many other country performers had very hard times.

But circumstances began improving late in 1959, and the world again resumed developing a fondness for country music, a fondness which was to become extraordinary. Late in 1959, Wagoner was invited to audition for a proposed television show, and he passed the test.

Carried in only 17 or 18 markets during the first year, The Porter Wagoner Show ultimately was broadcast Coast to Coast, in over 150 markets. In some areas, its ratings surpass those of network shows.

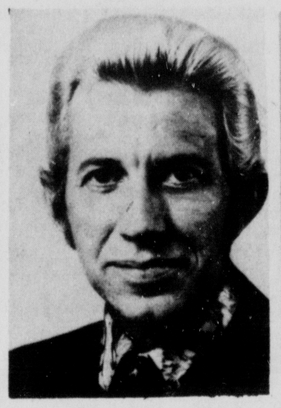
Miss Parton was born in the hills of East Tennessee, near Sevierville, where she grew up and attended school. By dictating lyrics to her mother, Dolly was writing songs even before she could hold a pencil. By age 10 she clearly displayed vast talent and professional potential; and at that early age she was given a performing spot on Knoxville radio and television programs, and she continued on these broadcasts throughout her high school years.

Within hours of her graduation from high school (1964), Dolly boarded a bus for Nashville. Her Uncle Bill Owens, himself a professional musician and songwriter, had moved his home and family to Nashville a few weeks earlier. And Dolly began working with him and living at the Owens' home while she began the long process of getting herself established in Music City, U. S. A.

She and Bill worked as a songwriting team at first; they were given a contract with a major Nashville publishing firm, and this led to some of their songs being recorded by important artists. One of these was "Put It Off Until Tomorrow," now regarded as a country music "classic."

Soon Dolly was writing on her own and making records herself, and, by the time she affiliated with Wagoner, she had two hits to her credit.

Both artists have maintained an enviable pace as solo artists for RCA Records. They also are regarded as the undisputed number one vocal duet team in country music, and, as with their individual or solo recordings, their duet singles and albums constantly appear in the upper rankings of the most important sales and popularity listings.



Porter Waggoner

Dolly Parton

Both artists appear on stage as solo stars, of course, but they generally conclude the roadshow appearances in their role as the famous duet team. These performances include a wide range of material, from clever novelties to the hand-clapping semi- gospel smash, "Daddy Was An Old- Time Preacher Man," written by Dolly and an aunt.

Comedian Speck Rhodes, known for his missing front teeth and his wildly colorful checkered suits (custom- made for his television and stage appearances), has an extensive vaudeville background. During the Depression, he toured with his sister and brothers all over the nation until, in 1944, the family settled in Memphis. There they did regional network radio shows and, later, their own television show. Although Speck no longer is with The Rhodes Family show, it is still televised in Memphis.

Rhodes, incidentally, was one of the original members of the team that successfully passed the audition for Wagoner's television show. Speck continued to perform on his family's Memphis telecasts as well until, by 1964, the demand for him to appear with Wagoner became such that he moved his wife and children to Nashville in order to join Wagoner 100 per cent.

The Wagonmasters band, featuring the electrified 5-string banjo of Buck Trent, is considered the most colorful and showy back-up group in country music. Its members have been with Wagoner for many years, except for Jerry Owens(drums), who joined the unit late in 1971. One band member, Don Warden, who plays steel guitar and who serves as Wagoner's road manager and administrative assistant, has been with Porter for over 20 years.

The Porter Wagoner Show travels over 100,000 miles per year in a customized touring bus which is equipped with three private staterooms and supplementary bunking facilities. It also has lounge areas, restrooms, color television and stereo radio and tape equipment. Wagoner acquired this bus last September, and by the time the interior was fitted out with all the luxuries of home, it cost him over $100,000.

About a year ago, Wagoner decided he was going to concentrate on bringing his stage shows into smaller communities rather than the large cities. He felt many country music fans were being deprived of top- name country entertainment, so he directed that his show would break away from the large - city circuits so that the entire family could enjoy big-name country music entertainment economically and within shorter travel distances.

Ticket sales will be handled through the Malden Jaycees. The only advance tickets that will be sold will be for reserved seats.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Married Student

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Sadie was attending high school, she fell in love and got married. And while she knw the value of love, she hadn't anticipated the cost. Specifically, when it came to a high-school regulation that prohibited married students from participating in extracurricular activities. And Sadie, who had been extremely active in many of them, was barred from all of them.

"Getting married isn't only legal." she told the judge, "it's as American as apple pie and coffee. So how can I be punished for trying it?"

"No one's punishing her," was the anwer, "but Sadie's a married lady now. Obviously, it's in her best interests and best interest of other students to limit her activities and associations in the high school."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the regulation. ? on?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the regulation was an unconstitutional infringement upon Sadie's fundamental right to get married by limiting her right to an education. That a state may not infringe upon a person's fundamental rights in the absence of showing a "compelling" state interest and, observed the judge, none was shown in this case.

The regulation, concluded the judge, was actually intended to discourage, by actually punishing, marriages which are perfectly legal in this state.

Noranda Products In Use In Bootheel

NEW MADRID — Noranda Aluminum, Inc., electrical conductor products, manufactured at the company's complex in St. Jude Industrial Park, are being utilized by Bootheel utility firms in expansion and improvement projects in the area.

In addition, the Noranda plant products have been installed in approximately 40 other states and as far away as Saudi Arabia.

Among area firms installing many miles of electrical conductor wire produced at the rod, wire and cable plant are Missouri Utilities of Cape Girardeau and Ark-Mo Power Company of Blytheville, Ark.

Noranda cable is carrying power from the New Madrid power plant to the rectifier yard of the aluminum mill over a 52-strand cable made of 45 strands of aluminum wire over seven strands of steel.

A distribution center for aluminum building supplies, including doors, windows, siding and other aluminum products, has been established in New Madrid. Metal from the aluminum complex at New Madrid is shipped to Norandex, Inc., another subsidiary of the Noranda group, which fabricates the metal into building products marketed nationally under the Weather - Tite Aristocrats trademark.

Supports McGovern

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, said today that although he differs with some of George McGovern's stands, he will support the Democratic presidential nominee and the entire party ticket.

The statement by the former president was delivered to the two weekly newspapers in Fredericksburg, the Fredericksburg Standard and the Fredericksburg Radio - Post. Fredericksburg is 16 miles west of the LBJ Ranch where Johnson now spends his retirement.

"I believe the Democratic party best serves the needs of the people. Therefore I intend to support the 1972 Democratic ticket," said Johnson's statement.

"I shall vote for George McGovern and Sargent Shriver for president and vice president of the United States.

"I shall vote for Dolph Briscoe and Barefoot Sanders for governor of Texas and for U. S. Senator and all the nominees of the Democratic party."

McGovern is scheduled to visit the LBJ ranch next Tuesday. Aides to the Democratic nominee said the visit was being made in response to an invitation from Johnson.

"It is no secret that Sen. McGovern and I have widely differing opinions on many matters, especially foreign policy," Johnson said. "Sen. McGovern has not refrained from criticizing policies of mine with which he disagreed. Neither shall I refrain from stating my disagreements with any position of his when I believe that the public interest demands such action.

Bond Asks To Debate Dowd

Cape Man Held In Murder Case

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Police are holding Jackie Choate, 30, of Cape Girardeau for investigation of the murder of Fred R. McCain of 623 North Main in Cape Girardeau.

McCain was found at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday lying in a pool of blood in his one-room home. He had been struck over the left eye by a sharp instrument, probably a hatchet or ax police say. Time of death was placed between 9 and 11 p.m. Monday.

McCain's wallet was found on the floor near his body. It contained no money, although there was some change in the kitchen sink. Police are theorizing that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Choate reportedly has a history of burglaries. He was seen at the house at 4:30 p.m. Monday, at 10 p.m. Monday and again at about 7 a.m. Tuesday, shortly before the body was discovered by McCain's employer.

McCain's niece saw Choate at the house at 4:30 p.m. when she went to see her uncle to borrow money. She said he had $10 and gave her $5.

Police are still searching for the murder weapon. Police said they found two axes at the house, but do not believe that either one was the murder weapon.

Services will be held for McCain at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Ford and Sons Funeral Home.

Kennedy Questions FDA Timing Phase-Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., suggested Tuesday that politics influenced the Food and Drug Administration's decision giving livestock producers until Jan. 1 to use feed containing DES, a suspected cancer-causing additive.

But FDA commissioner Charles C. Edwards, defending his agency's actions for "an orderly phaseout," promptly denied any suggestion of political considerations and said "the White House was not involved in the decision" involving the ban on the synthetic hormone.

During a House government operations subcommittee hearing at which Kennedy and Edwards appeared separately as witnesses, the senator replied "I think it very well could be" when Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, asked whether Kennedy considered FDA's phaseout decision to represent a political issue.

In light of rising meat prices and amid indications that the ban of this growth-boost additive will increase them even more, Kennedy asked: "Is it completely coincidental this is being delayed until the first of the year?" he added "it is not unreasonable to assume" it may become a political issue.

Edwards, meanwhile, told the subcommittee:

"In our judgement, an immediate cessation of the use of animal feed containing DES would almost certainly result in an unjustified disruption of the nation's meat supply and could generate widespread and unwarranted public concern.

"Additionally, the enforcement of this approach would have required FDA to divert its inspectional resources away from other activities which would result in a higher potential risk to the consumer."

Furthermore, Edwards said current information indicates "it is highly doubtful that any stocks of premixes containing DES will remain available after about Oct. 1, and therefore the Jan. 1 deadline is largely academic."

DES stands for diethylstilbestrol. After getting information from the Agriculture Department casting doubt on the government's ability to set rules for using DES in animal feed that would guard against residues remaining in animal livers at time of slaughter.

Prison Work Delayed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has agreed to order a halt to preliminary work at the southeast Missouri site of a maximum security prison.

Hearnes said Tuesday he agrees with a request for the delay by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edward Dowd. Both Dowd and his Republican opponent Christopher Bond have spoken against the $9 million prison site at Steele.

"It's a valid request being so close to a change in administrations," said Hearnes. "I'm happy to honor this request."

He said construction hinges on a bond issue to finance the prison and the state Senate has opposed bond issues in general.

Last week Atty. Gen. John Danforth said he would not sign a contract for preliminary work. The site needs to be considered further, he said.

A single white star will indicate where collections are made during the business, day, including one or more pickups at 5 p.m. or later, and on Sundays and holidays.

Two white stars will designate boxes where the final pickup of the day will be made no earlier than 6:30 p.m. and as near 8 p.m. as possible.

Pasaka listed the following locations where star boxes may be found: 210 S. Kingshighway (at First National Bank); Kingshighway Plaza Mall (inside the mall); Greer and South Main Streets; 222 North Main St.; Missouri Delta Community Hospital (inside the hospital); 625 North Main St. (Security National Bank); Front Street and North Kingshighway; and 103 East Malone at New Madrid Street.

"The White Star is further visible evidence to the public that we are moving forward in postal service," Pasaka said. "Serving America is our reason for being and our number one commitment."

At least one White Star box will be located not more than two miles from every residence in Sikeston. These boxes are to be found not only in high-density residential areas but also in business and industrial areas, on principal traffic flow streets and in shopping centers.

The location of the boxes with "Two White Stars" will be in front of the post office for drive-in convenience.

Easy-to-read schedule cards are being placed on White Star boxes to specify the areas where next-day delivery is possible. On all neighborhood or residential convenience boxes, the schedule care will show the location of the nearest White Star box.

Pasaka said that if there are any questions about the areas that can be reached by overnight service, the questions should be brought to his attention.

Challenges Law That Eliminates His Job

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Johnson County Probate Judge Richard Musser has filed suit in circuit court to test a new state law that would eliminate Musser's office.

The suit, filed Monday, seeks a declaratory judgment to have the law declared unconstitutional.

The law passed by the last Missouri Legislature repealed a section and approved a new section in which counties with populations of 30,000 but less than 48,000 would have the magistrate judge serve both as probate judge and magistrate. The law went into effect Sunday.

Chaffee Scares Poplar Bluff

PARMA — Sikeston's National League All-Stars joined Hornersville and Poplar Bluff in the winners circle Tuesday night as the trio of 11 and 12-year-old teams triumphed in continuing first round play in the Southeast Missouri Little League championship tourney at Jackson field.

The All-Stars picked up four big runs in the fourth inning and booted Caruthersville out of the 20-team tournament in a 6-1 contest. The first game was won by Hornersville, 7-5, dropping Bertrand out of the tournament.

In the second game, Poplar Bluff's winning pitcher, Godwin, belted a game-winning double in the bottom of the seventh inning to drive in the winning run for the 4-3 win over Chaffee.

Three games are on tap Thursday, with Dexter and Malden opening the action with a 5 p.m. battle. Sikeston American All-Stars and Sikeston Aces square off in a 6:45 contest, followed by an 8:30 meeting between Holcomb and hosting Parma.

Both Sikeston and Caruthersville jumped into the scoring column early with single tallies in the first inning. A walk followed by a single from Caruthersville pitcher D. Webster powered the first strike in the top of the first inning.

The Sikeston Stars knotted the score as centerfielder Buchanan reached base on his first of three hits and scored in the early goings.

The Sikeston defense and the three-hit pitching of John Vaught handcuffed the Caruthersville squad through the remainder of the game. Vaught collected 12 strikeouts in the six-inning game and scattered two singles after the first inning score.

In the fourth, Young tripled to score Lawrence in starting a four-run rally that put the Stars in the lead for good. Hurley followed with a single and scored, along with Young and Deal, who reached on a fielders choice. A leadoff single in the fifth by Burgess set up the final run to put the lid on a 6-1 All-Star triumph.

Caruthersville's Webster went the distance for the loss and led the team with two of the three hits. Buchanan's three hits paced the Sikeston bats. Young's triple added to the winning eight-hit attack.

Three runs in the first inning and four in the second frame left Hornersville with an early 7-0 lead. Four hits scattered in the two innings powered the early uprising which produced in a 7-5 Hornersville win over Bertrand.

Bertrand cut the early led with three runs in the third frame, scoring on two hits and capitalizing on an error to guide the rally. Two hits in the following inning put the final Bertrand runs on the score board.

Hornersville's Moore picked up the win with a five-hit performance from the mound while Branum and Kackley anchored the winners 11-hit lineup with two apiece.

Blackburn paced the Bertrand lineup with two hits and scored two runs, along with Hooper. Jones went the distance on the mound for the loss.

In the second game, Poplar Bluff's Godwin delivered the key blow with two out in the bottom of the last inning and lifted Poplar Bluff to the 4-3 win over Chaffee. The Poplar Bluff pitcher aided his own cause with the seventh-inning double that drove in leadoff batter, Morris, who singled.

Chaffee jumped into the early lead with a two-run production in the fourth inning. Back-to-back singles led off the rally as McGuire and Chambers picked up the hits and scored the first runs as a sacrifice and a single from Horrell powered the inning.

McGuire's leadoff home run in the sixth frame lifted the Chaffee squad into a 3-0 lead. It was McGuire's second hit of the game and his second run of the contest. Chambers collected two hits in the seven-hit Chaffee lineup.

Two hits in the final two innings powered the come-from- behind effort by the Poplar Bluff squad. Hite's double and Baldwin's triple powered the three-run scoring effort in the sixth to tie the contest, 3-3. The tying tactics set up the final game-winning blast in the seventh for the Poplar Bluff hurler.

Godwin paced the winners with a two-hit production and Taylor blasted three hits in three trips to the plate to anchor the winners' nine-hit attack.

Gullett Regains Form

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"That was about as close as he can get to himself without being there," Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench said of battery-mate Don Gullett.

How's that again?

"I can't really tell if I'm back to myself just yet," Gullett added.

A little clarification, please.

Well, Gullett, who posted a 16-6 record last season, had been expected to be a major factor in the Reds' drive to the top of the National League's West Division this year.

But the 21-year-old left-hander contracted hepatitis in January - a condition the Reds didn't even discover until May — and had been virtually useless to the baseball club this season. For two innings he'd be able to blaze in his fast ball, then he'd get so weak he could barely wind up to pitch.

But on Tuesday night, outfielder Pete Rose said, "He looked like he used to." And Bench added: "His ball really jumped at times when he reared back and wanted to throw it, he could do it."

Gullett got the call after just one inning in Philadelphia when Cincinnati starter Wayne Simpson was forced out of the game after reinjuring a calf muscle.

The 6-foot Kentuckian came out of the bullpen and, for the next eight innings, hurled fourhit shutout ball, striking out eight and walking just one to provide the Reds with a 3-0 victory over the Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 8-6, the New York Mets blanked Atlanta 5-0, San Francisco beat the Chicago Cub 7-5, San Diego slugged St. Louis 7-1 and Montreal edged Houston 3-2 in 10 innings.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox nipped Milwaukee 2-1, Kansas City slipped past the New York Yankees 7-6, Boston blanked Texas 3-0, Cleveland topped California 4-3 in 10 innings and Minnesota tripped Detroit 6-7 in 13. Baltimore and Oakland were idle.

Tony Perez singled home the only run the Reds needed in the first inning and they scored two more in the fifth on Bobby Tolan's RBI single and loser Wayne Twitchell's wild pickoff throw attempt that allowed Joe Morgan to scamper home from third.

The Dodgers, edging within two games of the second-place Astros in the West, used Willie Davis' two-run homer in the sixth inning, his third round-tripper in two games, to turn back the Pirates.

And the Mets, celebrating an anniversary of sorts, began dreaming of their glory season of 1969. It was just three years ago that New York, 9½ games behind first-place Chicago, began their incredible charge toward the top of the East Division. Now they trail first-place Pittsburgh by nine games.

"Nothing is impossible," Jim McAndrew said before he and reliever Tug McGraw combined for a five-hit shutout against the Braves. "I think we're a better team than we were in '69. Of course, the Pirates are a better team than the Cubs were then ... but the Pirates haven't had a slump.

Ed Kranepool drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Tommie Agee hit a two-run homer to lead the Mets past Atlanta.

Rookie Garry Maddox of the Giants had one of the biggest days of his career by driving in six runs with a pair of homers, one of them his first major league grand-slam. It enabled Juan Marichal, 5-13, to post his first victory in more than a month although he needed relief help to beat the Cubs.

Clarence Gaston and Fred Kendall drove in two runs apiece and Mike Caldwell scattered six hits to carry the Padres past the Cardinals.

Red Sox Cut Orioles Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox pulled the curtain down on the Texas Rangers but it was nothing like the act they played in the dressing room afterwards.

Tommy Harper helped play a joke on reporters. Reggie Smith, who hit two home runs, wouldn't talk to anybody. And Manager Eddie Kasko was extremely short of patience.

Then, when Smith finally appeared at his locker, he refused to answer questions. Staring blankly while he was questioned, the Red Sox outfielder soon strolled away to shave.

Kasko, when later facing the same reporters, kept his comments short and sweet.

Said one writer: "He was surly. It seemed like he wished that we'd just go away as soon as possible."

Things were relatively tame around the rest of baseball's American League as the Minnesota Twins nipped the Detroit Tigers 7-6 in 13 innings; the Cleveland Indians beat the California Angels 4-3 in 10 innings; the Kansas City Royals turned back the New York Yankees 7-6 and the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

National league results: Cincinnati 3, Philadelphia 0; Montreal 3, Houston 2 in 10 innings; New York 5, Atlanta 0; San Diego 7, St. Louis 1; Los Angeles 8, Pittsburgh 6 and San Francisco 7, Chicago 5.

The fourth-place Red Sox moved within four games of the front-running Baltimore Orioles in the tight American league East race. The Orioles were idle Tuesday night.

Jim Nettles and Rod Carew each singled in a run as Minnesota rallied to beat Detroit in the 13th inning. The burst broke a 5-5 tie and offset a run in the Tigers' half of the frame on Gates Brown's homer.

The second-place Tigers dropped 1½ games behind the Orioles and maintained a halfgame lead on the Yankees, who are in third place.

Cleveland, another team in that wild pennant chase, won with a two-run rally in the bottom of the 10th. Frank Duffy's bases-loaded single with two out capped the outburst.

California had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the 10th on Bob Oliver's third RBI of the game before the fifth-place Indians came back to win and move within eight games of Baltimore.

Lou Piniella's run-scoring single capped a three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth that pulled Kansas City past New York. Steve Hovley's two-run single tied the score before Piniella came through.

The rally wiped out a 6-4 Yankee advantage taken in the top of the ninth on Bobby Murcer's two-run triple.

"We came back pretty good," said New York Manager Ralph Houk. "We just couldn't hold them in the ninth. That was a rough one. That shows how important Sparky Lyle is to us."

The White Sox scored the winning runs in the fourth inning on a home run by Mike Andrews and a run-scoring single by Rick Reichardt to beat Milwaukee and close to within one game of idle, firstplace Oakland in the American league West.

"Every now and then I do something," said Andrews. "I hope that this is the start of something. I've hit the ball well the last week or so before tonight—but I haven't been getting any hits."

Punt Pass Kick

Nationally, more than a million youngsters are expected to enroll in the huge youth program this year, the fifth consecutive year the number of participants has topped that level.

Aged eight to 13, they will make their opening bids for the Football Hall of Fame in less than two months. Six will make it -- having their names inscribed at Canton, Ohio, as national PP&K winners.

The program is sponsored by participating U. S. Ford dealers and the National Football League (NFL).

Registration closes Sept. 29. Registrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

PP&K participants punt, pass and kick against others their own age. Any youngster aged eight through 13 is eligible. There is no entry fee and no special equipment is needed. There is no body contact during PP&K competition and participants do not lose amateur status.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy. One point is given for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point is deducted for every foot off a line.

Six levels of competition produce six winners. Trophies are awarded to winners at all levels. Competition will begin Sept. 30 with dealer- level contests.

Six national finalists will represent the NFL's American Conference and six the National Football Conference on Jan. 21 at the Pro Bowl game in Dallas. Finalists, their parents and sponsoring dealers will be guests of Ford Division.

Big Red Home Debut Saturday

ST. LOUIS — After dividing a pair of pre-season road outings, the St. Louis Football Cardinals make their 1972 home debut Saturday night when they entertain the Denver Broncos in the annual Cardinal Glennon Hospital benefit game.

Kickoff for the contest, which will be the Broncos' first appearance in St. Louis, will be at 8 p.m.

The Big Red stand 1-1 in pre-season competition, opening with a 27-10 victory over Buffalo two weeks ago, but being stopped by Kansas City, 24-14, last Saturday. Denver was blanked by the Washington Redskins, 41-0, in its opener last week.

In Glennon game competition, the Cardinals are riding an eight-game unbeaten streak that began with a 30-21 victory over Baltimore in 1964 and was extended last season with a 16-14 victory over Houston. Since the inception of the Charity game in 1955, when the Cardinals were still based in Chicago, the Big Red has won 11 times, lost 5 and tied 1.

Saturday's game will be the Cardinals' third- straight pre-season test against an American Football Conference opponent, with a fourth scheduled next Thursday when the Big Red visits Houston. In the only previous meeting between the two teams, the Broncos registered a 26-16 pre-season victory at Denver in 1970.

After two games, newly-acquired running back Leon Burns leads Cardinal rushers with 69 yards in 17 carries, an average of 4.9 yards per attempt. Another newcomer, Craig Baynham, is next with 42 yards in eight tries. Quarterback Gary Cuozzo has thrown for 170 yards, while Mel Gray paces the receivers with six catches for 76 yards.

Coach Bob Hollway expressed satisfaction with the progress made by the Big Red defense, which has allowed fewer than 90 passing yards in each of the first two games. Cardinal defenders have recorded three interceptions, one a 35-yard touchdown return by linebacker Mike McGill.

Following Saturday's game, the Big Red will return to its training camp at Lake Forest (111.), for the final two weeks of work before moving back to St. Louis. After the game at Houston on Thursday, the Cardinals will travel to Green Bay on September 2 and conclude the pre-season schedule in St. Louis a week later against the Chicago Bears.

Owens Leads League

Collecting nine hits in eighteen trips to the plate last week, Gary Owens raised his batting average to a .355 mark for the Yankees' Oneonta, N.Y., "A" farm club, and moved into the number one hitter's position among league batters.

The .500 performance last week upped the former Scott County Central High School standout's percentage into the league's top position. Owens' seasonal mark includes 27 hits in 76 trips to the plate for the Yankee club and he has scored nine runs. His total hits include two doubles, a triple, and 10 RBI's.

Gideon's Mark Littell gave up four hits in seven innings of work last week for the Royals' Waterloo, Iowa, farm club and lost his sixth game of the season. Littell's record dipped to an 8-6 mark with the loss. Littell picked up six strikeouts in the game and moved his total strikeout mark to 152 in 121 innings of work. Littell sports a 3.12 earned run average for his 20 appearances through the season.

Greg Buys worked only four innings in two games last week but received two losses for the Yankee - Padre Kinston, N.C., farm club. Buys' record dropped to a 5-11 mark for 20 appearances. The former Kennett high school athlete has a 5.54 earned run average and a total of 78 strikeouts in 104 innings of work.

Waterfowl Hunting Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department today announced waterfowl hunting regulation frameworks for the fall which include a prohibition against hunting canvasback ducks and also redhead ducks, except in the Pacific Flyway.

Other regulations remain about the same as last year.

The department said the numbers of canvasbacks and redheads have steadily declined in recent seasons, despite reduced hunting bags.

Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton said neither specie is in danger of extinction, but that "they certainly are in trouble, and stern measures are needed to help rebuild their populations."

He said he agrees with the recommendations of waterfowl experts that, "If we err, we should err on the side of sound conservation."

The department said hunters can anticipate a good year for other species. Special restrictions exist in some flyways for wood ducks, mallards and black ducks. Most species are expected to move in the flyways in about the same numbers as 1971.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oscar Araiz's Ballet Contemporaneo de Buenos Aires, the official company of that city, will make its American debut in New York Sept. 19.

The company, which is five years old, successfully toured Europe when it was less than two years old. It received good reviews.

The company, which has a repertoire of more than 40 ballets by nine choreographers, will present six works during its New York engagement

Todd, Barkley, Corder Big Winners

Rick Barkley of Jonesboro, Ark., hugged the track all the way in his number 600 machine, roaring to take a win in the feature race of the Super C class exhibition.

Nipping at the number one spot, H. Tracer of Rector, Ark., brought his 94 in for a close second in the Hobby feature. Car 555 with an unidentified driver came in for the number three position. A Matthews driver, Robert Daniels, placed fourth in Car 50. Bill Childers of Blythevill, Ark., took fifth position in his number 7.

Rushin's L-88 bested the competition in the first heat of Super C. Barkley took the number one spot in the second heat. Earl Jones, of Rector, Ark., marked up a win in the third heat of Super C.

In the first run of the Hobby, Tracer's 94 sped to capture first place. In the second heat, Bill Hay of Sikeston drove car 260 in for a win. Tracer came back in the third heat to take another first in his 94.

A Dexter woman, Mayves Corder, took over car L-88 and took the number one position in the Powder Puff race. An unnamed Blytheville, Ark., female brought her number 7 in second best in the not-so-feminine sport. Linda Hale of Sikeston brought in S-11 for a third place finish. Brend James of Sikeston took fourth in car 50.

Next week, as an added attraction, an amateur's race will follow the regular action. Men and boys over the age of 18, who have never driven in a race, will take a turn at the wheel.

Washington Report | By Senator Symington

MISSOURI GETS OVER $13 MILLION IN HEALTH MANPOWER FUNDS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Through legislation passed by Congress, the largest block of federal funds for educating health professionals in the nation's history, totaling nearly $375 million, has been awarded this past year; assisting Missouri schools with over $13 million to help meet the shortage of doctors, dentists, and other health professionals.

The Health Manpower Training and Nurse Training Acts became law last Nov. 18 to increase the number of health professionals by assisting schools of medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, optometry, pharmacy, podiatry, veterinary medicine and nursing. Missouri has 43 such health profession schools; 34 in nursing and 11 other health professions.

Of the recently awarded $375 million, $10,149,053 has been granted to Missouri's health profession schools other than nursing and an additional $3,333,350 specifically to nursing schools in the State.

Included in the Missouri funding is a $543,200 financial distress grant to St. Louis University School of Medicine, as well as funds totaling $1,308,820 in loans and $600,509 in scholarships to all 11 Missouri health profession schools.

Nursing student loans totaling $376,343 and nursing student scholarships amounting to $449,898 were awarded in 25 Missouri nursing schools. Two construction grants were also approved: Avila College in Kansas City received $402,911 for a new building for nursing baccalaureate studies, and Penn Valley Community College in Kansas City was awarded $36,887 for equiping the nursing section on the new campus scheduled to be occupied January, 1973.

Financial distress grants totaling $325,873 were awarded to three nursing schools in the state -- Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg, St. Louis Municipal School of Nursing, and St. Louis University School of Nursing.

If these national programs had been available earlier, it might have been possible to help save the dental school at St. Louis University.

Several years ago St. Louis University's dental school was forced to close its doors because of insufficient financial support -- a loss to our state as well as the nation. We are fortunate in still having two outstanding dental schools at the University of Missouri in Kansas City and at Washington University in St. Louis.

Washington University's dental school had been operating on a trial basis when St. Louis University's dental school was forced to close. The school was issued a mandate to become financially self-sufficient over a three- year period. Without the federal assistance provided through the health manpower legislation, which comprises about 26% of the dental school budget, Washington University Dental School officials have advised they would have difficulty remaining open. This year the dental school received $807,431 through the health manpower legislation.

By helping to strengthen our health educational systems with assistance for students in medical and allied health fields, this legislation marks an important step towards increasing health manpower so that we may meet the rising demand for medical services.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports funds approved for health professional and nursing schools in Missouri as follows:

U.S. Short 29,000 Black Doctors

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The United States is short about 29,000 black physicians, leaders of the black medical community said here Tuesday in conjunction with the convention of the National Medical Association.

Dr. Emmergson C. Walden, a black physician from Baltimore sand president of the National Medical Association, said only 6,000 black physicians are practicing in this country, while blacks represent about 13 per cent of the population and the country has about 300,000 physicians.

"There are still places in this country where a white physician will refuse to treat a sick black person," he said. "And therenis no question that some white physicians hve a different feeling toward their black pwtients. Blacks should be in the health professions according to their numbers in thespopulation."

Dr.nJohn . S. Holloman, a former NMA presidenl, said there has been an increase in the number of black medical students in the last two years but added eidoubts if the percentages will change markedly in the foreseeable futurs.

Black medical leadars and ohz NMA are struving for a goal of at least 5,400 blwck and minority medical students by 1975. But there are only about 12,000 freshman medical school positions available and about twice that manynyoung p3rsons apply for those positions each year.

Although admission committees at most medical shoos are doing a fine job in selecting students, Dr. Walden said, the minmrity student faces dualihurdles th$t are harder to overcome than being admitted to medical school because they are less identifiable' situations.

He said that surveys by the NMA have shown that student counselors consistently discourage promising black students from seeking medical careers by telling them it's too expensive and takes too long.

And once the minority student is in medical school, Dr. Walden said, there are also documented cases of their being taken advantage of by faculty.

Launch Campaign Against Crooked Business Firms

KWNSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's attorney general launched today a special task force against big and crooked business firms which prey upgn the inner-city poor in Kansas City.

Atty Gen. John C. Danforth asked four volunteers to show him the biggest crooks. He announced the appointment of three special investigators to follow up their complaints.

"I'm very excited about it," Danforth told a news conference. "There is a chance that a small amount of money can produce a very substantial effect. Resentment at being cheated is a major cause of unrest in metropolitan areas."

A similar effort was started in St. Louis in November of 1971. Danforth reported it has resulted in injunction suits against a major furniture store, an automobile transmission company and an insurance adjuster. The three cases still are pending, and Danforth said he expects there may be three or four more within the year.

The four members of the steering committee are M. C. Richardson, editor and publisher of Inner and Outer City Magazine; Dr. Girard Bryant, former president of Penn Valley Junior College, Mrs. Jesse Gaines, a community service worker, and Chris Lopez, director of Guadalupe Center.

Paul Corbett, on loan from the Kansas City Police Department, will be the chief investigator. His helpers will be Ronald Franks and Randall Simms.

Danforth said the strategy will be to press a limited number of well prepared civil suits against major offenders rather than handle a large number of individual complaints.

The Kansas City task force will have a budget of about $42,000 for a year, with $30,000 of its coming from the federal government's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The Republican attorney general said he had not been able to get any money for such a campaign through the Democratic state administration.

Board Waits To Order Textbooks

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Jefferson City school board has decided not to order free textbooks for local private schools until a Cole County Circuit Court case is decided.

In a meeting Monday night, the board approved guidelines for implementing the free textbook law but balked at ordering books for private schools in the district.

The law went into effect Sunday but state Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carthage, challenged the constitutionality of the law by asking the circuit court to hold up any state payments to school boards for purchase of extra books.

Under the law, local districts have responsibility for setting policies on distribution and use of free textbooks.

Joe Nichols Jr., superintendent of schools, said he wasn't sure whether the district could be reimbursed for books purchased with incidental fees after the free textbook funds are released by the court.

The district already has ordered about $50,000 worth of texbooks for public schools this year.

Dog Days Cast A Strange Spell

By MORRIE RYSKIND

Beverly Hills is having a heat wave and at the moment I'm so kerflummoxed that I don't remember whether it was Isaac Newton or Izaac Walton who discovered the law of gravity. But, whichever Ike it was on whose head the apple fell, I know the event did not take place during the sultry days of August. No human being, genius or not, could have figured the causal relationship under such stress.

President Nixon has wisely fled Washington for a cypress-shaded retreat in San Clemente which overlooks the Pacific. And I suggest the nation would fare better if Congress did likewise.

For this is that fateful period of the year when only mad dogs, Englishmen and the faithful of SDS go out in the midday sun. When the thermometer hits 100 and no leaf stirs, even our most serious thinkers have been known to declare a moratorium on celebration, lest even the slightest mental activity add to the heat, and seek anodyne in a tall and frosted mint julep.

Indeed, the ancient astrologers were wont to issue solemn warnings against making commitments of any kind during what they called the "dog days" And, though I do not follow the forecasts of Jeane Dixon with regularity, I doubts she would break with her predecessors on this issue.

The term comes from the fact that, at this annual point of time, Sirius, the Dog Star, rises in conjunction with the sun, which apparently throws things out of kilter, perhaps because it leads to a fight over who gets to use the bathroom first.

At any rate, it was to this phenomenon that the ancients attributed the heat and humidity of August, as well as the passing strange events that occurred during the conjunction. Tombs would open, headless horsemen would parade silently, and little green men could be seen waving from a flying saucer.

In more recent years, the Sirius - Sol conjunction put Winsted, Conn., on the map. Back in the 20s, the town historian began recording some weird goings-on that befell that normally quiet hamlet only during the dog days.

For example, a duck would hatch a pair of Siamese - twin ducklings, a cat would adopt some motherless squirrels and go all over town begging peanuts for them, a plaque of toads and frogs would fall from the sky during a sudden shower and a poodle had mastered the intricacies of the piano and could play any popular tune if you turned the pages for him.

(Incidentally, the above paragraph is lifted bodily from a piece I wrote on the dog days of Winsted some eight years ago. Normally, I would have substituted other examples — but, please, not in this heat.)

Though no affidavits came with the stories, they were accepted unhesitatingly and appeared on the front pages of almost every important evening newspaper in the country, with a new item for every day of Sirius' reign. For at least two decades we were all mightily entertained by the stories emanating from Winsted.

I attribute the disappearance of this bit of Americana to a creeping agnosticism. I myself am a true believer and do not doubt that the poltergeists are still at work in Winsted during the dog days, and so sorely miss the box in the evening newspaper which went something like this:

Winstead, Conn. — Henry, a trained rooster belonging to Sam Blivin, tenor for the local Barber Shop Quartet, has learned to crow "Sweet Adeline" instead of "Cockadoodledoo" when he awakens. Henry will make his professional debut with the quartet at the Strawberry Festival.

Ah, those were the days! Still all is not lost. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, I see by my newspaper, has recently filed suit against NASA to have our astronauts cease and desist unconstitutionally practicing religion by reading from Genesis while on duty. The dispatch does not come from Winsted, but a thing like that could be taken seriously only under the spell of Sirius.

Make mine another mint julep, please.

State Fair Exhibits New Blue Catfish

SEDALIA -- Old Blue, star of the Missouri Conservation Commission exhibit at the State Fair for over 30 years, is dead. It is estimated that over 11 million persons saw the huge Blue or Mississiippi catfish at the Fair during the years he was on display there.

After Old Blue died, the Conservation agents began searching for a catfish to replace him. A successor, New Blue -- weighing approximately 35 pounds -- was caught in the Osage River near Warsaw this spring. New Blue is younger than Old Blue but is so identical to his predecessor that visitors will have difficulty believing that he isn't Old Blue.

New Blue will make his debut, along with many animals, at the 70th annual Missouri State Fair Agu. 18-27. Other live Conservation Commission exhibits include a coyote, 15 racoons, a redtail fox, two possums, a red- tail hawk, several striped skunks, a bobcat and a number of white-tail deer.

Lost Tombstone Needs Someone To Claim It

KENNETT — City police are looking for someone to claim a tombstone turned in at the police station several weeks ago, after it was found in the city.

Police Capt. Bill Cox said it had been at the station for weeks and no one has claimed it.

The name inscribed on it is Cephus Booker, 1853-1936, with the following inscription: "Christ is my hope."

Capt. Cox said he hoped a relative of Booker's will claim the lost tombstone.

Birthday Torte

Too soon the vacation ends!

And I won't elaborate on the old cliches about vacations not being worth the effort to get away from home, out of town and back to a piled-up desk. Just consider the motion seconded by me.

And then there were elections -- and still are! Politics tastes rather like a late-season cucumber ... over and over, I think.

Moving away from the serious, how about a party? Must tell you about the sourdough pancakes served at a luncheon yesterday ... terrific! And very light. I'll pass the recipe on at a later date, but with this word -- you'll need to brew up a "starter" or get one from a friend. It's a great idea for winter months, especially, for the little pot of yeast allows you to do great things on short notice ... such as pancakes, biscuits, breads, etc. We'll detail the issue later, after my new cookbook arrives!

Concerning those rules listed, they're courtesy General Foods and the torte is great. Have not tested the meringue bars, so do your thing.

Company's coming ...

BIRTHDAY TORTE

2-1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ginger

1 cup vegetable shortening*
1-1/2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk*
1 cup crushed fortified oat flakes
3 egg whites

*To use butter or margarine, decrease milk to 1 cup.

Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in vanilla. Then alternately add flour mixture and milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in crushed oat flakes. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks will form; then carefully fold into batter.

Pour into two 9-inch layer pans which have been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degree for 35 to 40 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into center come out clean. Cool in pans 10 minutes; then remove from pans and finish cooling on racks. Split each cake layer to make 4 thin layers. Fill and frost. Decorate with birthday candles.

SEA FOAM FROSTING

2 egg whites
1-1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of ginger
Dash of salt
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg whites, sugar, cinnamon, ginger, salt, and water in top of double broiler. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until thoroughly mixed -- about 1 minute. Place over boiling water and beat constantly at high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater until frosting stands in stiff peaks -- about 7 minutes. (Stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula, or spoon.) Remove from boiling water. For a smooth and satiny frosting, pour at once into a large bowl for final beating. Add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread -- about 1 minute. Makes about 5-1/2 cups frosting.

Lemon-Coconut

LEMON - COCONUT MERINGUE BARS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 -1/4 cups Coconut
1/2 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons lemon rind
2 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cream butter. Gradually add 1/2 cup sugar, creaming well after each addition. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Blend in salt and flour. Stir in 1 cup of the coconut, the pecans, and lemon rind. Spread evenly in a lightly-greased 13x9 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes, or until golden brown around edges.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy throughout. Gradually add 1/2 cup sugar, beating thoroughly after each addition. Gradually add lemon juice and continue beating until meringue will form very stiff shiny peaks. Spread over pastry in pan. Sprinkle top with remaining 1/4 cup coconut. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, or until topping is golden brown. Cool; then cut into 1 -1/2x2 inch bars. Cover and store at room temperature. Makes 32 bars.

World History Wrapped Up

THE COLUMBIA HISTORY OF THE WORLD. Editors John A. Garraty and Peter Gay. is professor of American history at Columbia; Peter Gay, for-merly at Columbia, now teach-es at Yale. On the whole there is a fair balance between nar-rative and interpretation in this book that tries today, and bravely to wrap up the story of clarification. This must have been a time of man's political man, his world and the universe presented some problems, par-ticularly for Gay, identified for some time as one of the more "analytical" historians.

The book puts mere man properly in his place, beginning with some discussion of the creation of the world, solar sys-tem and even the universe, ac-cording to modern views.

Most of the main epochs, ages and periods in man's story are well-covered. The chapters dealing with Asia and Africa -- on which most of us Americans are dimly informed -- are most instructive. We learn of the tides of both invasion and ex-pansion that have swept across China, for instance, from the earliest times of man's political history.

Sales To Russia Mark "New Era For Wheat Industry"

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The chairman of the Kansas Wheat Commission has hailed the sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union as a "perfect example of what can be accomplished through the combined efforts of private trading companies, government offices and trade associations."

And, an official of Great Plains Wheat Inc., foreign wheat market developer for several midwestern states, said the break through in American wheat sales to Russia "has begun a new era in the U.S. wheat industry."

The comments of A. Rex Cozad, Norcatur, Kan., chairman of the commission, and Joseph Halow, Great Plains Wheat executive vice president, were contained in a statement made public today by the Kansas Wheat Commission.

The release estimates that export of U.S. wheat could reach one billion bushels this year.

"Although the Soviets probably would have purchased some grains because of their own shortfall this year," said Cozad, "sales of such magnitude and on a recurring basis would not have been possibile if trade policy issues had not been resolved and shipping restrictions not been lifted.

Great Plains Wheat Inc. works for wheat producers in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Colorado, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas.

Symington RaisesQuestions About Revenue Sharing Bill

WASHINGTON — In a letter dated Aug. 2 to the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Stuart Symington raised three issues of major concern about the House- passed revenue sharing bill (HR 14370) now being considered by the committee in executive session:

1. Fiscal capability of the Federal government to grant $29.5 billion in the next five years to 50 states and 39,000 local governments in the next five years when there was a budget deficit of $23 billion in fiscal year 2972 and the fiscal 1973 deficit is already estimated at $30 billion.

2. Division of accountability, giving the responsibility for levying the taxes to finance to Congress, but the responsibility for making the expenditures to the State and local governments.

3. Unequal distribution of funds under the formulas in the bill.

On the inequality in distribution of funds, Symington said a study by his staff showed that Missourians paid 2.67 percent of all personal income taxes in fiscal year 1971, but his state and local governments would get back only 2.03 percent of the proposed revenue sharing funds.

"Under the formulas in the House- passed bill," said Symington, "for every dollar Missourians would have to pay to support revenue sharing, our State and the local governments would get back only 76 cents, and that just does not make sense for the people of Missouri."

In his letter, Symington said, "We urge that the committee re- examine the basic concepts of the legislation and consider other ways in which the Federal Government might help local and state governments improve their fiscal situation."

The full text of Sen. Symington's letter to Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee:

"The proposed State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act (H. R. 14370), as passed by the House on June 22 and now being considered by your Committee, raises three issues of major concern.

The fiscal capability of the Federal Government to grant $29.6 billion in additional Federal funds in the next five years raises the first question: Can the Federal government provide $5.3 billion this year in fiscal relief to 39,000 units of local government and 50 states?

Even with overwithholding an estimated $7 billion, the deficit in fiscal 1973 was $23 billion; and the 1972 deficit is expected to be more than $30 billion.

Last March the Congress approved an increase of $20 billion in the debt ceiling, to $450 billion; and it now appears that another increase will have to be made before the end of this calendar year.

Only last week, July 26, the President sent a message to the Congress warning that increased spending will inevitably result in higher taxes and further inflation in the form of higher prices.

May we therefore respectfully urge your Committee to examine with care the current capabilities of the Federal Government to finance its own deficits as well as those of state and local governments.

In this connection, we also have reservations as to the wisdom of a five- year commitment that would both authorize and appropriate funds in a manner which would by pass the normal Congressional appropriation process.

The second issue of paramount concern is the division of public accountability in the House bill. In this bill the Congress would have the responsibility for imposing the taxes, but State and local governmental units would have the authority on their expenditure.

When revenue sharing proposals were first proposed a number of years ago, we objected to them because of the separation of the power to tax from the power to spend.

The objectionable features of such arrangements are well stated in the dissenting views presented in the House Ways and Means Committee report on H. R. 14370:

"Public accountability is severely undermined by this bill. The responsibility for raising taxes is divorced from the dispensation of public benefits. Congress will be unable to balance the burden of increased taxation imposed at the Federal level against benefits disbursed by the 50 states and 39,000 units of local government all across this land.

"Conversely, the 50 states and 39,000 localities dispensing public benefits will be relieved of the obligation to carefully weigh the benefits of increased public expenditure against the burdens imposed on their community through increased taxation.

"The most serious defect, however, will be the inability of the public to measure the performance of their elected officials at various governmental levels by balancing the tax burdens imposed by these officials against the public benefits they have provided."

The third area of major concern lies in the difficulty of arriving at a fair and equitable system of distribution of the federal revenues to be shared, and at the same time, to reach and assist those local and State governments which, for good cause, are in greatest need.

As we read the complex formulas contained in H. R. 14370, one- third of the $5.5 billion to be distributed to local governments in the first year would be allocated on the basis of population, another third on the basis of urbanized population and the remaining third on the basis of relative per capita income.

It is proposed that State governments receive an initial $1.8 billion annually, with the funds distributed one- half on the basis of the relative individual income tax collections of a state, the other half based on the relative total tax effort of the state and all its local governments.

In general, the formula embodies the idea of rewarding most those states which put forth the greater tax effort.

According to a study made by our Staff, the result under these formulas is that our State, which paid 2.67 percent of all Federal personal income taxes in fiscal 1971, would receive only 2.03 percent of this proposed $5.3 billion.

Under the formulas, the initial year State and local governments in Missouri would receive $107.5 million, as compared to $179.7 million for New Jersey, $137 million for Wisconsin and $649 million for New York.

A Library of Congress study shows that when allocations for State governments alone are broken down to a per capita distribution there are wide variations. For example, New Jersey would receive $6.12 per person, Wisconsin $14.72 per person, New York $17.26 per person; but we in Missouri would receive only $5.87 per person.

We question the fairness of such a result, as well as the extent to which it would answer the problems of those governments most in need.

Presumably the formulas are designed to make additional funds available to those local governments and the two factors considered for state distribution, we are doubtful that such formulas will provide results which will be satisfactory in the widely varying situations that exist with respect to local and State governments throughout the United States.

Responsible and efficient local government is essential to the daily lives of Americans and to our federal system; and it is clear that many State and local governments have need for fiscal relief.

The revenue sharing program in H. R. 14370, however, does not address the basic causes of the fiscal crises by seeking to increase the tax base of State and local government; nor does the bill offer incentives for local governmental organizations to be more efficient or more responsive.

Because of the foregoing reasons we urge that the Committee re- examine the basic concepts of this legislation and consider other ways in which the Federal government might help local and State governments improve their fiscal situations.

Among these alternatives are Federal income tax credits on a portion of state and local income taxes, reduction of restrictions and matching requirements on present grant-in- aid programs, and/or provision for larger grants and lower matching requirements for metropolitan areas that solve their fiscal problems on an area- wide basis.

We further urge the Committee to retain, and consider the expansion of, the "piggyback" collection provision currently contained in the House- passed bill.

SeMo State Evening Registration Easier

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- An all- new -- and - easier -- registration process has been adopted for students interested in taking undergraduate evening courses during the fall semester at Southeast Missouri State College, Dean David Strand has announced.

Students will register by mail for the 34 courses tentatively scheduled, Dr. Strand said. In the past they have had to come to the campus on a pre- arranged night and often have been disappointed, when certain classes did not materialize because of insufficient enrollment.

Many of the night courses are offered only if at least 15 students sign up.

Of the new system, Dr. Strand said, "In this fashion we can more accurately assess the demand or preferences of the people interested in night classes and match these in such a fashion that more courses actually materialize."

"The new procedure also provides an opportunity for people who have a conflict on what previously was the night of evening class enrollment to sign up for a course, and it avoids the necessity of a person making an extra trip to the campus just to enroll."

Dr. Strand also pointed out that the new system would give the college an opportunity to schedule additional sections of any course which turns out to be especailly popular and even to add courses not previously scheduled, if there is a demand for them.

The registration- by- mail system will work this way:

A student should obtain a schedule of fall classes from the admissions office at the college. The preliminary registration form is on page 21 of the booklet.

After deciding upon the evening course or courses he wants to take, the student should complete the form and mail it, along with a check for the proper amount, to the registrar's office at the college.

In the event a course does not materialize, a student will either be assigned another choice (if he has indicated one) or his check will be returned to him.

Prospective students will be notified the week of Aug. 28- Sept. 1 if the class or classes in which they are interested will be formed.

The cost for undergraduate evening courses at Southeast Missouri State is $16 per semester hour for Missouri residents plus a $2 textbook fee for each course. Students enrolling in the evening program must meet the normal entrance requirements of the college, including the submission of transcripts from the high school they attended and any other colleges attended.

Most of the courses scheduled are for three semester hours of credit and will meet only one night each week, beginning at either 6 or 7 p.m.

First meeting of Tuesday night classes will be Sept. 5, Wednesday night classes Sept. 6, and Thursday night classes Sept. 7. Monday night classes will first meet Sept. 11.

Nixon's Strategy No Name-Calling

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Republican strategists believe President Nixon has re-election victory in hand, provided he and Vice President Agnew maintain a tight discipline and keep off the low road of personalities and name-calling.

Discipline, indeed, is a key word in the Nixon camp these days. There is a determination not to be drawn into a free-swinging campaign. The judgment is that it is almost the only thing which could unite the torn Democrats and give some real hope to Sen. George McGovern.

The President himself is said to be so fully committed to a high-level, issue-oriented effort that he may engage in traditional campaigning only in the final two weeks before election this year.

And, according to present plan, Mr. Nixon may watch most of the Miami Beach Republican convention from his White House perch, staying above mundane politics until the time comes for his acceptance speech on Aug. 23.

It has already been reported that the President personally has admonished Spiro Agnew to refrain from direct personal assault on McGovern and his running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton. I am told this advice has been given to Agnew by others as well.

The vice president clearly was reflecting this careful counsel when he said a few days ago in Anchorage, Alaska, that this time it should be "possible" for him to campaign strictly on the issues.

Underlying this strategy is the notion that, for the first time in his several quests for the presidency, Nixon's men see his opponent more a focus on controversy than he is. They want to keep it that way.

They see McGovern stuck with a divided party, moderately plagued by internal staff squabbles, hung with confusing, disputed positions on welfare, tax reform, defense spending, amnesty for draft evaders.

In the view of Nixon's advisers, keeping to the high road does not rule out ample and continuing reference to McGovern's controversial proposals. They will be hammered hard by a variety of administration spokesmen.

The President's strategists think McGovern will respond by trying to portray himself as the victim of a "mean campaign," as the target of a typical "Old Nixon" barrage. The senator already has said some things in South Dakota that fit this pattern.

But Nixon's people question whether this posture will be convincing to many U.S. voters so long as the President himself "keeps his mouth shut" on McGovern the man.

If their judgment is correct, the consequence could be a further weakening of the long Democratic effort to sustain major hatred for Nixon as an evil figure who must be cast out of the White House at all costs.

That campaign had suffered grievously even before McGovern was nominated. The President's overtures to Peking and Moscow were widely approved. Most voters don't regard his withdrawal of more than 500,000 troops from Vietnam as inaction on the war. And, though he hasn't cured inflation and unemployment, he gets some credit for trying.

Aufdenberg Equipment Co. and New Madrid Tractor Co. have scheduled an open house for all farmers in this area Saturday.

Gene Aufdenberg, owner of Aufdenberg Equipment Co. says he will unveil Generation Two, the biggest advance in tractors since John Deere introduced the New Generation tractors 12 years ago.

While he cannot discuss specific details until the Aug. 19 announcement, Aufdenberg says it will be to every farmer's advantage, especially from a health and comfort standpoint, to attend the open house and learn the facts about the new John Deere tractors.

The open house will begin at 9 a.m. and will last all day. Refreshments will be served, and door prizes will be awarded after the drawings at approximately 4:30 p.m.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

NIXON WEAKENS AMERICA'S DEFENSE

During the past week, in response to President Nixon's call for fiscal responsibility at all levels of government, I supported an amendment on the floor of the Senate that would have held military spending to its current level.

In a speech on the floor of the Senate I charged the Nixon Administration with severely weakening the American defense posture. America must be strong militarily and we cannot derive such strength from waste and mismanagement.

But the strength of our military force must be matched by the quality of our life. If the proper balance is not maintained our entire system will suffer.

The Nixon administration has requested $83.4 billion in military spending for the fiscal year 1973, an increase of $6.3 billion over last year's budget. In addition, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has said he may ask for five billion more dollars too cover the enormous expense of escalating the bombing of North Vietnam.

A budget already swelled by waste is being expanded by an administration that wishes to perpetuate a military establishment that is already enfeebled by mismanagement and softened by excessive pampering.

At the outset of his administration, President Nixon coined the word "sufficiency." He stated that our military force should include exactly what is necessary to maintain our security -- nothing more and nothing less. But just as in the case of other Nixon programs, the president's rhetoric has not matched his administration performance.

According to a recent Government Accounting Office study, cost overruns for weapons systems totalled $28.7 billion this year alone -- just one indication of the wastefulness of the administration's defense policies.

The American people should also know why it requires a gigantic supporting force to maintain a relatively small fighting force in the field. They should know why they have to pay for three multi-million dollar aircraft carriers just to make sure that one is in operation. They should know why the administration believes in continuing the arms race after reaching an agreement with the Russians to limit arms.

The Nixon program calls for the purchase of weapons systems that would be developed before the nature of any threat is known. The development of such weapons -- which may be outdated before they are in place -- is another example of the administration's colossal waste in defense spending.

This year's defense budget includes two programs which are top priority items. These two programs provide an excellent view of the Nixon defense philosophy.

The Trident submarine, a nuclear sub carrying missiles with a range of 6,000 miles, is being pushed with the idea that at some unspecified future date our current fleet of Polaris/ Poseidon submarines may become vulnerable to attack. As of yet, no facts have been provided to back up this claim. It is, of course, impossible to foresee what threats may exist a decade from now. It is entirely possible that the billion dollar Trident will be outmoded before it is even launched.

The B-1 bomber is being sought by the Pentagon as a replacement for the B-52 fleet that was built in the early 1960's. The most modern Soviet bombers were built in the 1950's and there is no indication that the Russians are planning to build more. We could, at little cost, restructure our B-52s to extend their life by 10 to 15 years. But Mr. Nixon would prefer to spend money to escalate the arms race for a plane we don't need. This reckless policy endangers our security.

These two weapons systems are only the most noteworthy of the mistaken defense policies of Richard Nixon, but they give a glaring example of the false priorities and mismanagement this administration fosters.

The resources of America should be invested in sound -- not frivolous -- defense. But our resources should also be directed to the needs of our own citizens. We must invest in an improvement in the quality of American life.

To make a delicious tartar sauce (to serve with fish) mix together 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish (or finely chopped dill pickle) and 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Makes about 2/3 cup or enough for 6 servings of fish.

Howard Faces Howard For 157th House Seat

DEXTER — In the November general election in the 157th District state representative race, it will be Howard vs. Howard.

Jerry T. Howard of Piedmont claimed victory for the Democratic nomination in last weeks primary election and Elbert L. Howard of Puxico won the Republican nomination.

On the Democratic ticket, Jerry T. Howard polled 1,957 votes in the district while Delmer Barks of Dexter received 1,730 . Bob Barney of Bernie ran third with 1,714, Vernon Day of Fisk finished with 677 and Neal Mansfield of Dudley had 438 votes.

On the Republican ticket, Elbert Howard received 844 votes and Rolling (Corky) Wilson of Williamsville received 602 votes.

Jerry T. Howard carried Wayne County by a wide margin, but in Stoddard County he only polled 222 votes, and he lost Butler County to Vernon Day.

Bob Barney let the Democratic ticket in Stoddard County with 1,494 votes and Barks was second with 1,045. The 157th District in Stoddard County includes the two townships, Duck Creek and Liberty, with three precincts in Duck Creek – Asherville, Dudley and Puxico and six in Liberty township – Bernie, Dexter (all three wards), Powe and Pyle.

The Stoddard County vote was as follows:

MUSCLE

Teacher Upheld In Union Fee Fight

WASHINGTON — A Michigan schoolteacher won another round in her fight for academic freedom when the state Court of Appeals upheld a Circuit Court ruling reversing her firing for refusing to pay compulsory fees to a teacher union.

In a one-sentence rejection of the appeal, the appeals court said that the application for leave to appeal "is hereby denied for lack of merit on the ground presented."

The cause appears headed for the Michigan State Supreme Court, however, because the trial court's decision sidestepped the main issue in the case – the compulsory agency shop for Michigan public schoolteachers. (The trail court held that the decison of the Teacher Tenure Commmission upholding the discharge was not based on material and substantial evident.)

The case involves Mrs. Carol Applegate, a teacher in the Grand Blanc public school system for more than 20 years, who was fired in 1969 at the insistence of teacher union officials for refusing to pay dues under a compulsory agency shop scheme. Earlier this year a Circuit Court judge ruled she had been wrongfully fired under the agency shop Provids, she was ordered reinstated and the teacher union appealed.

The Applegate case is being watched closely around the country since it could be a landmark case in re-establishing competence and knowledge as the primary qualifications for teaching –not dues paying. The growth of compulsory union shop greements has been rapid– particularly in Hawaii, Wisconsin, California and Michigan. In Michigan alone professional teacher union organizers have signed compulsory union agreements with nearly half of the 540 school districts. In community after community the word is: "No dues, no job!" To which Mrs. Applegate is asking, "Is this what education is all about?"

In Washington, officials of the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, which is backing the case, hailed the decision as an important one in the continuing battle against "the direct threat to our academic freedom as well as the threat to freedoms of association, speech, privacy and other legal rights arising out of comulsory unionism agreements for Public schoolteachers."

Mrs. Applegate viewed her latest victory with calm knowing that the battle for control of public school classrooms isn't over yet. "Academic freedom and our tenure will be lost," she said following the ruling, "if we fail to provide educators with the Right to Work without being forced to pay dues to teacher union professionals who care only about the dues money and little about what happens to our educational system."

"When I refused to support the Grand Blanc Education Association I did so because I could not in good conscience stand before my classes and say 'think' when I was being denied the right to think myself."

The Right to Work Foundation was established in 1968 to provide legal aid for workers who are suffering injustice as a result of employment didiscrimination under compulsory union membership arrangements and to provide legal assistance to such workers in protecting human and civil rights guaranteed to them under the constitution and our laws.
